SMITH WILL NOT GET AID OF REPUBLICANS ON ALL HIS PLANS

Speaker-Elect Machold Says His Party Will Fight in Legislature for Platform.

TRANSIT BATTLE PREDICTED

SMITH TO READ MESSAGE

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 2.—Assemblyman Machold, who tomorrow will be re-elected Speaker of the Assembly, in which position he invariably in the past has exercised complete control of the Republican majority in the lower house, replied today, in an interview, to the plea made by Governor Smith when he delivered his inaugural address yesterday and asked that, regardless of party lines, the legislators give their support to his legislative program.

Mr. Machold in his interview called attention to the fact that not only the Democrats, but the Republicans as well, had a party platform in the campaign last year, and that the eighty-one Republican members of the Assembly were bound by the campaign pledges made by their party to the same extent that were Governor Smith himself and the Democratic lawmakers in the promises held out to the voters.

Nothing was said by Mr. Machold which could be interpreted as foreclosing absolutely against Republican support for some of the policies advocated by Governor Smith and other Democratic candidates, but he made it perfectly plain that where Republican and Democratic platform pledges in relation to State policies were in conflict, Republicans would be held to performance of the pledges made by their own party, through caucus action if necessary.

Says Republicans Await Message.

Mr. Machold said that until the contents of Governor Smith's annual message had been made public he was unable to enter on a detailed talk on the probable discussion by the Republican majority in the Assembly of measures that might come before the Legislature in pursuance of recommendations of the Chief Executive. That, in common with most of the conservative Republicans in the Legislature, Mr. Machold regards the Democratic State platform as an instrument far too radical to lend itself to practical application without peril to the State, is no secret.

"Speaking for myself and not for the Republican majority, as such," said Mr. Machold, "I am not disposed to oppose everything that the new Governor may recommend merely because he was elected as a candidate of the opposition party. I don't think any Republican can afford to adopt any such narrow partisan policy as that to guide his conduct as a member of the Legislature.

"Undoubtedly some questions may come up before us which may be regarded as non-controversial, either in the sense that our party has taken no pronounced stand in the platform or because the stand did not vitally differ from that of the opposition. Again speaking personally, I would feel strongly disposed to accept and support such recommendations without offering objections on petty partisan grounds.

"On the other hand, where essential differences exist regarding policies, members elected on the Republican platform, as I see it, are bound to regard that instrument as a promissory note to the public which must be honored. And undoubtedly also, the Republicans in the Assembly will regard it as their solemn duty to resist with all the power they can muster any wholesale and wanton attempt to tear down constructive and wholesome reforms for which the party has taken a positive stand.

"It is too early to enter upon any detailed discussion of our program. We must wait and see what the new Governor recommends in his message. It would seem to me that the obvious course for us to pursue would be to determine in conference and caucus from time to time as new situations arise what our attitude should be on this or that question that may come before us."

Small though it be the Republican majority in the Assembly will find itself in the position to retard, if not effectively to block, adoption of measures recommended by Governor Smith, provided that through caucus action the Republican leaders can compel cohesion and a united stand against the Democratic opposition in the lower house.

Predicts Fight on Transit.

One Republican Assemblyman, who undoubtedly is well informed, stated positively tonight that the New York Republicans would resist to the last ditch efforts on the part of the Democrats to turn the transit situation over to the tender mercies of the Hylan Administration, adding that, as Republicans view it, this would mean toll taken from the taxpayers on an unprecedented scale by Tammany spoilsmen in connection with future construction and the acquisition, ownership and operation of transit lines.

In the absence of any definite statement to the contrary, it is regarded as certain also that the Republicans will put up a stubborn fight should Smith attempt to translate into action the Democratic platform pledge relating to water power development under State auspices. It may even be certain that he will be able to control the action of all the law-

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Secretary Fall received today a visit from representatives of Indians of the reservation near Salamanca, N. Y., who came to Washington to confer with Federal Government heads on matters pertaining to their rights under the treaty between the Six Nations and the United States.

The Indians brought with them the original copy of the treaty and a piece of wampum whereby, they asserted, George Washington had authorized them in case of difficulty to apply directly to the Federal Government at Washington for relief.

COURT FREES WARD OF MURDER CHARGE

New Westchester District Attorney Admits Prosecution Has Been Able to Get Nowhere.

Justice A. H. Seeger in the Supreme Court at White Plains yesterday dismissed the indictment for murder in the first degree against Walter S. Ward. The case is now closed. It can be reopened only in the unlikely event of the prosecution getting evidence to disprove Ward's statement that the killing of Clarence Peters, a young ex-sailor, on a lonely road near White Plains early on May 16 last, was done in self-defense.

Ward, his wife and his brother, Ralph D. Ward, were in court when Justice Seeger made his decision. Smiling broadly, Ward strode to the railing that separated him and his lawyers from his wife, who sat with Ralph Ward in the spectators' seats. Mrs. Ward, beaming with delight, flew to her husband's arms and they embraced and kissed in the sight of all. Ralph Ward wrung his brother's hands, and there were mutual congratulations between the Wards and their attorneys.

Counsel for the defense were obviously pleased, not only at the dismissal of the indictment, but at what appears to be their final victory in keeping the skeleton in the family closet a secret. What the scandal was that made Ward willing to pay $70,000 to blackmailers, to risk his life and kill a man and finally to spend a month in jail and risk the electric chair, rather than have the truth become public, probably will never be known outside the close circle that now keeps the secret. Ward's lawyers pictured him as a hero who had suffered imprisonment and risked death rather than expose a family secret. Justice Seeger freed him from bail and all that remains to be done is for his father, George S. Ward, President of the Ward Baking Company, to collect the $50,000 cash bond deposited.

Ex-Justice Mills Pleads for Ward.

Justice Seeger announced his decision immediately after an impassioned appeal by ex-Justice Isaac N. Mills, of counsel for the defense, and after the new District Attorney of Westchester County, Arthur Rowland, who admitted that the prosecution did not believe that it could get a conviction on the evidence it had. Justice Seeger said that the great publicity given to the case would warrant his taking the time to prepare a written opinion, but that he did not think it necessary. "This motion ought to be granted," the Court went on. "The case is old, has become stale. Under the constitution and under the code, this defendant was entitled to a trial long ago. The defendant is not obliged to prove his innocence. The people must prove his guilt. Killing a man in self-defense is not a crime. That is the only admission made by the defendant.

"I believe that the prosecution have been very diligent and have done all

ACTOR HELD BY POLICE

They Question F. B. Carman and Declare He Once Was Accused in Similar Case.

CLIMAX OF POKER SESSION

C. H. T. Schoellkopf, Buffalo Manufacturer, Hurries Here to Help Wife to Recover Her Jewels.

Mrs. Irene Schoellkopf, wife of C. P. Hugo Schoellkopf, a Buffalo manufacturer, was held up and robbed of jewelry valued at $500,000 early Monday morning after a New Year's Eve party in an apartment at 64 West Fifty-second Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues.

The valuation of $500,000 was placed upon the jewelry in a list of stolen articles submitted to the police last night by Mrs. Schoellkopf. Previous reports had put the value of the gems at $150,000, $200,000 and $320,000.

Mrs. Schoellkopf told the police that the jewelry consisted of the following pieces:

One pearl necklace, 201 pearls.
One diamond marquise ring, 11 carats.
One square diamond ring, 6 carats.
One diamond square and sapphire ring, 8 carats.
One diamond bracelet, all square stones, graduating.
One diamond bracelet, marquise and round stones.
One large ruby bracelet, oblong design.
Pearl chain.
Bracelet, woven design.
One small French vanity case.

None of the jewelry had been recovered last night, when news of the robbery became public for the first time. Mr. Schoellkopf, who was in Buffalo when the robbery took place, came here yesterday and engaged agency detectives to help the police in their search. He joined his wife at the Ritz-Carlton, where she has been stopping.

Frank Barrett Carman, an actor, in whose apartment on the top floor of the Fifty-second Street house the party was held, was arrested at 10 o'clock last night, although Mrs. Schoellkopf had refused to make a complaint against him. "I do not want Mr. Carman arrested," she told Inspector John D. Coughlin, in command of the Detective Division at Police Headquarters. The police announced they had decided to lock him up after questioning him for several hours, finding discrepancies in his story, and learning that he had been arrested several years ago on complaint of a man who said Carman had robbed him of his jewelry after inviting him to his room in the Hotel Astor.

Police Seek Two Other Men.

The police charged Carman with "acting in concert with two other men" in robbing Mrs. Schoellkopf. A general alarm has been sent out and a wide search is being made for the two other men, whose names are known to the police, and who are believed to be in possession of the stolen jewels unless they have already sold them.

For several weeks before the robbery the two men now being hunted had occupied an apartment on the fourth floor of the house, one floor below Carman's. They rented the apartment from Carman, who had leased the two top floors of the house from the owner.

On Sunday evening Mrs. Schoellkopf attended a party given by Carman in his apartment. Several couples were present and it was reported that the various women guests wore jewelry valued at fully $1,000,000. Just before midnight one of the men who occupied the fourth floor apartment rapped at Carman's door and asked if he would

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—J. Ogden Armour, who for twenty-one years has been head of the big packing concern founded by his father, retired today from the presidency of the original corporation, Armour & Co. of Illinois and the new subsidiary corporation, Armour & Co. of Delaware, and is succeeded in both positions by F. Edison White, who has been a Vice President eight years, after rising from the ranks of employes. Mr. Armour became Chairman of the Board of Directors in both companies. One of his nephews, Philip D. Armour 2d, becomes First Vice President of these corporations.

Announcement of the change, which is one step in the proposed arrangement whereby the Armour interests take over the business of Morris & Co., another of the "big five" in the packing industry, was made by Mr. White after a meeting of the Armour directors today.

Mr. White said that the officials of Armour & Co. were busy over its affairs and he indicated that it would be several days at least before any formal announcement concerning the proposed merger with the Morris company would be made.

Reports were current in LaSalle Street that there was a hitch in the plans, and that one of the Morrises whose consent is necessary for the consummation of the transaction was opposed to it. According to this story the merger proposal, which has now reached the stage of actual agreement between the Morrises and the Armours, is again up in the air. Other reports said that the deal was practically completed at today's meeting but Mr. Armour himself would only say that negotiations were continuing.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—If the proposed purchase of Morris & Co. by the Armours is consummated, F. Edson White will be the head of the greatest packing industry ever created.

The new President's history is that of a man who started in the slime of "Packingtown" and climbed to the top of the ladder. Mr. White, who is 49 years old, received a public school education at Peoria, his native city. At the age of 17 he went to work on the killing floor of a Peoria packing house. Five years later he came to Chicago to work for Armour & Co. as an inspector in the car route department. A year later he organized and became first manager of the sheep department. Within ten years Mr. White was assistant to Arthur Meeker, a Vice President of the company. In January, 1912, he became a Director and two years later he was made a Vice President.

The passing of J. Ogden Armour from active control of the company ends a period of more than thirty-five years devoted to development of the industry. Mr. Armour gave up his last year at Yale to enter the packing plant and learn every detail of the business he was destined to control. After a year of apprenticeship he assumed the executive responsibilities of the industry and managed it fourteen years until on the death of his father in 1901 he assumed complete control.

In recent years he had shifted much of his burden to other shoulders, including those of his nephews, Philip D. Armour 3d and Lester Armour. The former has been a Vice President for several years and the latter is a Director.

'Uncle Joe' Again Smoking; Gift of Stogies Brings a Fall

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Uncle Joe Cannon stopped smoking last week, after smoking and chewing tobacco for a period of seventy-three years. He is now approaching 87 and began using the weed at 14 years of age. Without making any resolution for health reasons, Uncle Joe suddenly stopped smoking the long cigar which has made him familiar to the American people in picture and caricature for half a century.

But his resolution of a week ago was shattered when an admirer in Pittsburgh sent the veteran legislator a box of Pittsburgh stogies. The smokes were sent to Uncle Joe's home at Danville and forwarded to him here. When he appeared in a restaurant today with the black weed in his mouth a friend remarked:

"Uncle Joe, I thought you had stopped smoking cigars."

CITY TRANSIT BOARD PROPOSED BY HYLAN

Would Have Estimate Board Name Three to Replace the Present Commission.

EXPECTS NEW LEGISLATION

Delaney, Whalen and D. L. Ryan Mentioned as Probable Appointees if Law Is Enacted.

Mayor Hylan announced yesterday that he favored the establishment of a municipal commission of three members, appointed by the Board of Estimate, to supersede the Transit Commission in control of New York City transit.

The Mayor assumed that there would be no hitch in getting a bill to abolish the Transit Commission and transfer its functions to a municipal body. Presumably the matter will be dealt with in Governor Smith's first message to the Legislature today.

The Mayor said he considered the transit problem too big for any one man to handle. His view of the situation was that there would be three natural divisions in the work of the new commission: construction of new rapid transit lines and the completion of lines now in process of construction under old contracts, regulation of the transit companies of the city, and the development of the Mayor's pet plan for a municipally owned and operated bus and trackless trolley system; authority for the establishment of which by the city is expected from the new Legislature.

"We want the right to kick out any official who fails to do his duty," the Mayor said. "Therefore, the power to appoint a transit authority here, whether it is to be a single commissioner or a triple-headed body, should repose entirely with the City Government."

The Mayor's failure to announce the appointment of Deck Commissioner John H. Delaney to the recently created position of Assistant to the Mayor at $9,000 a year led to the belief that Mr. Delaney was likely to be named as one of the three municipal transit commissioners, if the Mayor's suggestion should be enacted into law.

Mr. Delaney, who was Transit Construction Commissioner during Governor Smith's first term, was said to be somewhat reluctant to take the place of Assistant to the Mayor and would prefer to be named as a Transit Commissioner. It was said that he probably would consent to be assistant to the Mayor if Mayor Hylan insisted upon it, but was more likely to be appointed to the other place, as his knowledge of transit matters was believed to be greater than that of any other organization Democrat available.

If a three-headed commission is established, it was said, it would provide the Board of Estimate with an opportunity to name both Mr. Delaney and Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures. Mr. Whalen, who has been in charge of the operation of ferries, a surface car line and trackless trolleys on Staten Island and the supervision of the semi-municipal bus lines throughout the city, many of which have been stopped by injunctions, was said to be the logical choice to take charge of the Mayor's bus program.

Daniel L. Ryan, head of the Pension Bureau of the Department of Finance, was mentioned as a possible selection for the third commissioner. Mr. Ryan, who was Deputy Transit Construction Commissioner under Mr. Delaney, was said to have an intimate knowledge of transit matters and was said to be acceptable to Mayor Hylan, the other members of the Board of Estimate and Tammany and the other Democratic county organizations. It was pointed out, incidentally, that Mr. Delaney was a resident of Brooklyn, Mr. Whalen of Manhattan and Mr. Ryan of the Bronx.

The possibility that Mr. Delaney would not become assistant to the Mayor, although he had been understood to be definitely slated for the position, led to renewed speculation concerning the appointment. It was intimated that John F. Sinnott, Secretary and son-in-law of the Mayor, might get the place.

GRAND JURY TO CALL NEW YEAR REVELERS TO TELL WHO SOLD IT

SEEK SOURCES OF LIQUORS

MANY WILL BE SUBPOENAED

Must Tell Where They Bought Supplies—La Montagnes Held in $15,000 Bail Each.

More than twenty-five leading hotels, restaurants and cabarets, including hotels in the Hotel Association of New York, were represented at the Federal Building yesterday, in response to subpoenas requiring that they produce for the examination of a Federal Grand Jury, presumably the new one which began its work yesterday, their lists of reservations for New Year's Eve. The idea is that of Colonel William Hayward, United States Attorney for this district, and it is understood that the purpose is to obtain from these lists the names of patrons of the various places and subpoena them to give testimony as to where they obtained the liquors alleged to have been consumed by their parties.

Federal officials declared last night that such action had not been taken anywhere in the country in regard to violations of the Volstead act. One Federal official, who declined to be quoted, declared that he believed the proceedings initiated by Colonel Hayward would have far-reaching effect, and that no doubt similar action would be taken in other Federal Districts.

Both Colonel Hayward and Major John Holley Clark Jr., Assistant United States Attorney, who is assisting him in this investigation, refused to make a statement regarding the subpoenas and the appearance of the men at the Federal Building.

"I do not want to say a word about the proceedings which have been started," Colonel Hayward said. "I believe that in this case I can do much more without any publicity of my plans at this time." Colonel Hayward added that as soon as some tangible results had been achieved he would make a statement. He intimated that it might take a long time before the investigation reached the point where some definite action could be taken.

Seek Source of the Supply.

The purpose of the investigation, it is understood, is simply to get at the source of the supply of the liquors which the celebrators are alleged to have had on New Year's Eve. The bootlegger is said to be the man the Government officials are after in this investigation. The patrons will be expected, when questioned, to tell the name of the man from whom they procured their supply. Just what action may be taken later against the witnesses will depend upon circumstances, it was said. It is understood that the patrons of some of the hotels and other places on New Year's Eve include many of the city's socially prominent men and women.

The subpoenas, it was learned, called for the production of the lists of reservations both in the main and private dining rooms. One official said that most of the drinking outside of private homes on New Year's Eve was in the private dining rooms of the hotels and restaurants.

Fred Muschenheim, President of the Hotel Association of New York, reluctantly admitted that the members of the association were represented at the United States Attorney's office in response to the subpoenas. He said that when a subpoena was issued there was nothing else to do but answer it. He referred the reporter for answers to further questions to Frank Boland, counsel for the association, but he could not be reached last night.

It could not be learned when the reservation lists are to be produced before the Grand Jury, or when the investigation is to be started.

In charging the Grand Jury in General Sessions, Judge John F. McIntyre declared that apparently there is a con-

ALLIES AGREE ON CUT IN REPARATIONS TO $12,500,000,000; CLASH ON DETAILS; PLAN FOR ALLIED DEBT PAYMENT ALSO

PARIS, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—The French, British and Italian plans were laid before the Premiers' Council today.

The British and French are alike in fixing German reparations at a total of 50,000,000,000 gold marks, and similar also in setting up a comprehensive financial control of Germany. They are in direct opposition on the question of penalties, France being for taking so-called productive guarantees in the Rhineland and the Ruhr, while Great Britain would occupy German territories beyond the present zone only upon some future default and with the unanimous consent of the Allies.

France desires to pay the European interallied debts with Class C reparation bonds, while England insists upon the partial payment of debts due her, with the immediate taking of gold deposited by France and Italy in London for security for war advances. This gold includes 1,884,000,000 francs, or about one-third the gold reserve of the Bank of France.

The Italian plan, which is essentially the same as that offered at the London conference by Premier Mussolini, follows in general terms the French idea, but relies upon persuading Germany to provide the guarantees requested without the menace of force.

Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Jaspar of Belgium brought the plan of the Belgian Government, which they did not submit. They did not intend to submit it today, but were reserving it as a basis of compromise, should there be an opportunity to do so later. They appeared doubtful tonight of being able to do anything effective. Their spirit, however, is to try, and the respect in which both Belgian statesmen are held is such that they may be listened to attentively.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—Following the example of Secretary Hughes at the Washington conference last year Premiers Bonar Law and Poincaré laid their cards on the table at the opening of the conference begun here today for decision of the terms on which a moratorium can be granted to Germany which will enable her to restore her finances and enable Europe to recover financial and economic health.

While both agree that German reparations should be reduced to a total of 50,000,000,000 gold marks, there is otherwise between the British and French plans a complete difference, and it is between them that the Allies will have to choose. They cannot be fitted into each other and they cannot both be accepted upon. Mr. Bonar Law, speaking to the British and American correspondents in the evening after the Premiers' meeting, made that perfectly clear.

"A moratorium is necessary," he said, "and if it is to be effective it must be so arranged that the demands made during the moratorium period are not so great as to prevent the recovery of German credit. The plan which the British Government has submitted today seeks to establish the best way of dealing with the situation in a business way and obtain the biggest possible return.

"If we cannot in that way get what we need, then we must take possession. But we cannot hope to obtain during the period of moratorium the amounts which would satisfy our demands and at the same time enable Germany to recover her credit. The Allies must choose between the two methods. They cannot have both.

Both Sides Seek Agreement.

"But I am certain that on the part of the British Government there is an earnest desire to act with the Allies, and I am equally convinced that the French are likewise determined to seek in common the best possible solution to our difficulties and preserve the friendship and alliance which has so long bound us together."

These words of the British Premier give the atmosphere and at the same time the difficulties of the conference which started at 2 o'clock today.

To the two plans presented the only outside contribution were some amendments to the Italian plan submitted in London, in which the Italian Government seems inclined toward support of the French program for taking guarantees and a request by Dr. Bergmann of the German Reparation Committee to submit his Government's proposals.

To the latter the reply was sent that the conference did not desire to hear his explanations, but would receive his Government's proposals if submitted in writing as the allied proposals had been submitted.

The proceedings lasted only two hours and were mainly taken up with reading the plans of the British and French. Both Premiers added a few words of personal explanation and the expression of their hopes that a solution would be found, and it was decided to refer both plans to preliminary examination by the Ministers in collaboration with their experts before another meeting.

The British plan, both in its fullness and in some of its proposals, came as a complete surprise to the French. Tonight no official comment is available, nor the fact that if it is accepted by the conference it must be modified in the form of a large part, if not the whole of the Poincaré plan, is sufficient to indicate the difficulty in which the French Government has been placed.

May Put It Up to Chamber.

Whether the conference can possibly come to final conclusions here in view of the questions being raised under the British proposals are of such a sweeping nature that they seem to demand time for full reflection and discussion. It is not improbable, however, that next week while the conference is still sitting Premier Poincaré will go before the Chamber and make a full explanation of his position and in that way—should there be anything like a deadlock—obtain further support for his own proposals or the endorsement of agreement to concurrence with the British plan.

Among the British delegation there is firm determination to have the whole business settled one way or the other. The proposals being with the words of their plan has been prepared as a basis for peace and final settlement of the reparations and European interallied debts, and as it is the first so it is likely to also be the last word of Bonar Law's Government.

The British Premier's attitude toward his French colleague will not be unfriendly or leave it, but with all friendliness it must be accepted or rejected as a whole, that is to be accepted

ROYAL PRINCE SELLS LIFE INSURANCE HERE

BROTHER-IN-LAW IS IN FIRM

Husband of Anita Stewart Is Busy Hunting Policy Buyers From 9 to 5.

The eldest son of the pretender to the throne of Portugal is selling insurance here in New York, and doing well in his commercial career.

The fact that Prince Miguel de Braganza, son of Dom Miguel Braganza and grandson of King Miguel, who reigned over Portugal from 1823 to 1834, is writing policies was disclosed yesterday. He is working on a commission basis for John C. Paige & Co., Inc., 115 Broadway, where his brother-in-law, William Rhinelander Stewart Jr., is a member of the firm. Other partners include A. J. Drexel Biddle Jr., Hamilton Fish Jr., Walter Belmecke, Leonard Dammann, Joseph Krischker, George F. McGuire and Samuel S. Christy.

A reporter who went down to find how Braganza likes his 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. job found the royal salesman busily engaged in pursuing policies, and it wasn't until long after closing time that he was available.

"I like it first rate," he said, "though I suppose the reason I happened into the insurance business, which is really a special line, was because of my brother-in-law's connection with it. I felt, however, that I must do something because it seems that nearly every one over here does work. I noticed this especially last Winter while at Tuxedo. I felt rather at a loose end with every one occupied with something.

"On the other side I was always occupied with something, and I felt that I should like to embark in work here. Big policies? Oh, well, you know I only received my license two months ago and I haven't landed anything really big yet. I'm just a beginner. I find it very interesting, though, and it never seems to get monotonous. There's something new turning up every day; you never seem to do the same thing twice. Insurance, it appears to me, is like a thermometer for business generally."

To his associates in the office, and that includes all, from his "bosses" down to the office boy, he is known simply as "Prince," and his reports on his work are signed "M. de Braganza." When he went on the Paige payroll on Nov. 1 the fact was disclosed to his

PARIS, Jan. 2.—The text of the British proposals for a final settlement of the reparation problem, together with a summary and explanation of the plan, was made public today as follows:

"The German obligations under the peace treaty are fixed by the plan at:

"Nothing for four years (apart from certain deliveries in kind, for which credit is to be given against future payments).

"Two billion gold marks (100,000,000) per annum for the next four years.

"Two and one-half billion gold marks (125,000,000) per annum for the following two years.

"After ten years 3,500,000,000 (168,000,000) or such small sums—not less than 2,500,000,000—as may be fixed by an impartial tribunal.

"If the supervising authority provided for below decides unanimously that the state of German finances before the end of the initial period of four years is such that cash payments for reparations can be made it will have the power to antedate the commencement of the annual payments of 2,000,000,000 by such a period not exceeding two years as it may see fit and to make such adjustments in respect of future payment as it may deem to be equitable so as to secure that the total liability shall not be increased.

"Obligations are to take the form of 5 per cent. bonds redeemable at call by the German Government at the outset, easy terms, gradually rising to par at the end of thirty-two years.

"The bonds are to be divided into two series, Series One representing a fixed payment (rising to 2,500,000,000 per annum), and Series Two representing additional payments over and above 2,500,000,000 per annum from the eleventh year onward.

No Sinking Fund Provided.

"There is no sinking fund, but redemption, more especially in the earlier years, is permitted upon such liberal terms that the saving in annual interest on the bonds redeemed will, if German credit is re-established, be sufficient to cover both the interest and sinking fund on German loans raised in the market for redemption purposes.

"This arrangement gives Germany a strong inducement to raise such loans as soon as possible, since she will thereby convert a perpetual into a terminable obligation without increase of the annual charge and also substitute a normal foreign debt to private bondholders for her present obligations to foreign Governments.

"The bonds provided for in the scheme are not intended either to be issued to the public or placed on the market. They are to serve merely as accounting machinery. The 'mobilization' of the German reparation debt is to be effected by loans raised by Germany from the public, the proceeds of which would be applied in redemption of the original bonds.

"In order to give Germany a real chance of restoring the budget equilibrium and stabilizing the mark it is absolutely essential she should have complete freedom from payments in foreign currencies during the initial period and that deliveries in kind (except in so far as the receiving countries may be willing to pay cash for them) should be reduced to the minimum.

"It will, however, be necessary that deliveries as reparation on account of coke to France, coal to Italy and possibly of dye stuffs, should be continued.

Prince of Wales to Wed Italian Princess, London Paper Says; It Urges a Love Match

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—The Daily News says it is in a position to state that in the next few months the question of a bride for the Prince of Wales will be raised and settled. It proceeds:

"There will be universal congratulation if the choice should fall upon an English girl, and the fact that she was not of royal blood would be regarded as in no sense an impediment. On the other hand, if a foreign alliance should be announced it would have to bear close scrutiny from more than one standpoint.

"The nation desires in the first place a love match for the heir to the throne. In the second place it had a strongly rooted objection to royal marriages that have perforce to be accompanied on one side or the other by a change of the religion in which the bride or the bridegroom had been brought up. One such case occurred not many years ago and in the present instance it would be the future Queen of England who would necessarily be called upon to make this sacrifice of conscience.

"The pressing nature of the problem will be understood when it is stated that plans are on foot for a union between the Prince of Wales and an Italian Princess, we repeat that what the British people desire for the Prince is what is popularly called a love match. Their desire is that he should be given freedom in the choice of a mate and their faith is firm that this will be an outcome of the critical year just opening."

In an editorial reference to the subject The Daily News says:

"The hope that the Prince might marry an Englishwoman has often been publicly expressed. It has not diminished. If there were any clear national advantage to be gained by a marriage on the traditional lines with some foreign Princess the proposal might receive a certain amount of popular support. We cannot see that there is.

"Our relations with Italy are cordial and satisfactory. For many reasons they are not likely to be improved by attempts at the present moment to strengthen artificially the bonds, which are only really strong if they are natural. For the rest, the wish of all his countrymen is, we are sure, that the Prince should now give consideration but his own feelings to dictate the decision in which they are necessarily so deeply involved."

In 1916 the Prince of Wales went to Italy as the guest of King Victor Emmanuel. It was reported then that the Prince and Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of Victor Emmanuel, were engaged to be married.

statement to the newspaper men he laid emphasis on the British situation with regard to the reparations and Germany's plea, and also Britain's internal economic troubles.

Lloyd George, he said, did not anticipate that the United States would send troops to Europe, but the latter's entrance into the war changed the whole situation. The United States was rich and did not need to be paid, but also wanted payment, much more than many were ready to believe. The only question was to find a way of getting Germany to pay. Mr. Lloyd George also stressed the fact that the United States was rich and did not need to be paid, but also wanted payment, much more than many were ready to believe. The only question was to find a way of getting Germany to pay. Mr. Lloyd George also stressed the burden more heavily on free taxpayers than any other country, with one unfortunate result, that unemployment was increased while the State was enriched in order to be able to meet her obligations.

The proposals I am making for cancellation of European war debts are made without any reference to my debt to America," Mr. Lloyd George declared. "Everything that we hope to get from Germany and all that we can get from the allies is not as much as we owe America. We think, however, that there is no chance whatever of getting anything possible sum from Germany until German credit is restored, and it is with that object that we have today submitted our plan."

Belgium to Make Sacrifice.

PARIS, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—Belgium is prepared to sacrifice one of its most sacred prerogatives, won on the field of battle during the war, in an attempt to save the situation, effect a settlement of the reparation question and bring the conference to a successful conclusion, said Henri Jaspar, the Belgian Foreign Minister, tonight.

M. Jaspar declared that the seven to eight billion marks left in Belgium occupied territory by the Germans after the armistice doubtless would play a great role in the conference. Belgium, he said, was prepared to make concessions to Germany by coming to terms for the redemption of these paper marks at the rate of two francs of their gold value.

"This conference cannot, must not, end in failure," said M. Jaspar this evening. "Belgium will take the lead in the way of making concessions and do her utmost to settle the question at this time, this reparations question. If we fail here it will not be our fault."

After the avalanche of plans placed before the conference today the Belgians refrained from openly known their attitude, but should the Council reach a deadlock during the week it is understood the Belgians will accept the redemption of this currency at the rate of exchange obtaining when the armistice was signed. It is said that the only condition Belgium will exact from Germany is that the German Government acknowledge without restriction its liability to pay 50,000,000,000 gold marks as reparations.

GERMANS SUPPORT HUGHES SOLUTION

BERLIN, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—The newspapers today comment extensively on the recent speech of Secretary of State Hughes in New Haven. They give unstinted approval to the interpretation of Mr. Hughes on the reparation problem and lay particular stress on the international significance attaching to his utterances on the eve of the Premiers' conference in Paris.

"The American statement puts Europe on restricted probation," says the Börsen Courier, which expresses the belief that unless the Entente statesmen are able to get together they will be forced to make a declaration of bankruptcy, whereupon the United States will step in and settle the issue on a purely economic basis.

"European statesmen, therefore," says the organ of the Boerse, "have a choice between demonstrating their ability to arrive at a tangible solution or being humbled in the dust by America."

Mr. Hughes's suggestion that authoritative experts be called in to deal with the situation appeals to the Tageblatt, which declares that Germany would accept the verdict rendered by such a body and abide by it, especially as the prospects are that reputable American opinion would be represented on the jury.

Dread of France Expressed.

"Precautionary provisions should, however, be taken beforehand," says the Tageblatt, "in order to prevent French imperialism from grabbing off German booty before the impartial tribune has rendered its verdict."

The Tageblatt is not surprised at France's refusal to consider the proposed non-war compact, declaring that her ultimate aim is the annihilation of Germany, economically and politically.

"But she has relinquished before all the world the strongest moral weapon with which she could have supported herself in the Paris negotiations," the Tageblatt adds. "She has effected a self-unmasking which it is to be hoped will not be without its influence on the atmosphere of the conference."

Chancellor Cuno's recent address at Hamburg was permeated with "a spirit of intensity and a spirit of peace," says the newspaper, adding:

"It moved entirely in the direction of the prerequisite conditions which the American bankers declared essential to loan operations, and the Chancellor pointed out expressly its agreement with the fundamental conceptions of the American Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes."

The Vossische Zeitung calls attention to the fact that the proposed compact was similar to the Pacific agreement drawn up at Washington.

Thinks Washington Approved.

"Since America acted as transmitter of the German proposal," says Der Tag, "it may therefore be counted upon that the American political world viewed the German proposition as acceptable. Otherwise America would hardly have acted as an intermediary.

"Since France rejected the proposal it will become clear to the American political world that France does not wish any security; rather that her policy amounts to a desire to keep up a condition of unrest in Europe, that, indeed, she even tries to foster such a condition in order that the French policy of expansion over the Rhine may receive new sustenance. Yet that is precisely what America does not want for the rehabilitation of European conditions."

The proposal is evidence to all the world, especially America, that Germany was in earnest in offering France security against German attack, says Der Tag. Relative to the new reparations proposals which the Government proposed for submission to the Paris conference of Premiers, the newspaper says that their rejection would not necessarily mean the fall of the Cuno Cabinet, as the French, not the German, Government would be to blame for such action.

"Will France also turn a deaf ear to this speech?" asks Die Zeit in connection with its approval of the utterances of Mr. Hughes. This newspaper, which is the organ of the industrialists, describes the American Secretary's address as far transcending mere theory, and especially in view of the suggestion of Mr. Hughes that eminent American authorities would be willing to take places on the commission of appraisal.

VATICAN DENIES MOVE HERE.

Pope Not to Urge American Intervention in Europe.

ROME, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—The Vatican today issued a denial of a report originating in Berlin that Pope Pius was soon to urge the intervention of America to bring about the economic and moral reconstruction of Europe.

The statement from the Vatican says that the Berlin report was perhaps due to an erroneous interpretation of the replies sent by the Papal Secretary of State to Americans who had forwarded Christmas messages to the Pope. These replies substantially repeated the ideas contained in the Allocution of Dec. 11 and the Encyclical of Dec. 24, in which the Pope urged reconstruction and the return of peace.

though upon a reduced scale, even during this initial period. The precise quantities can only be settled by negotiations. In the event of the plan proving successful it is hoped gradually, however, that Germany would herself seek to increase her deliveries in kind in the early years of the maximum, in view of the liberal terms on which the value is applied to cancellation of her debt.

"This plan would be offered to Germany on condition that the undertakings

"1. To stabilize the mark in accordance with the recommendations contained in the majority report of the foreign experts consulted by the German Government in November last and to restore the budget equilibrium within limits of time to be prescribed (say six months for stabilization and two years for budget reform).

"2. To accept such financial supervision as may be deemed by the allied powers to be necessary to see to the punctual carrying out of these reforms (see Schedule B).

"3. To submit in the event of her failing to satisfy the supervising authority that condition (1) is being observed, or failing to discharge her obligations as now revised, to any measures which the allied powers, upon report of such failure from the supervising authority, may unanimously decide to be necessary. Such measures may include forcible seizure of German revenues and assets and the taking over of German fiscal machinery and military occupation of German territories outside the treaty occupation area.

"4. All loans raised by Germany in the national market of any power which is a holder of any bonds are to be applied to the redemption of bonds held by that power unless and except to such extent as the government of that power may otherwise agree.

"5. In order to facilitate the provision of funds for restoration of the devastated regions of France, Great Britain is to agree that 26½ per cent. of any German loans raised on the British market before Jan. 1, 1927, which would otherwise be applied to the redemption of bonds held by Great Britain, shall be applied to the redemption of bonds held by France.

European Interallied Debts.

"Thirteenth—The deposits of gold which are held by Great Britain as security for loans made to France and Italy for the purposes of carrying on the war are to be applied forthwith toward the repayment of these loans.

"The French share of the German indemnity in relation to her budget. No reduction of the German debt can be envisaged by the French Government unless nations allies admit the possibility of a reduction or rearrangement of their claim on Germany by a modification of their treaties and the subjection of priority to the devastated regions.

Repetition is made of France's proposal to accept her share of G bonds as a method of settlement of interallied debts. For payment of A and B bonds by Germany the French Government advocates that the allied Governments should in every way favor the cessation of foreign loans to Germany. It argues that Germany has sufficient real security in the Rhine Valley Mission bonds, and that these securities could be controlled by the Committee on Guarantees.

German Financial Reorganization.

First—That the German Government should submit a plan for stabilization of the mark to the Reparation Commission, which should not necessitate any intervention on the money market other than would be necessary to maintain the value of the mark abroad at the level at which it was fixed by the plan, any late operation and until the internal value of the mark reaches the same level as the external value.

Second—Immediate measures should be taken to balance the German Budget and maintain this balance progressively until Germany shall have paid her reparations debt.

Third—Creation of discounting of Treasury bonds by the Reichsbank from the beginning of the application of the stabilization plan.

Fourth—Reinforcement of measures to prevent the exportation of capital and the accumulation of foreign moneys within Germany.

For the control of these measures by the Committee on Guarantees the French Government suggests that a complete plan of legislative and administrative measures should be established by the German Government in accord with the Reparation Commission that in the Guarantees Committee there should be all facilities to obtain all information on the financial position of the Reich and German States, and it should have the right to prohibit any expenditure which it thinks inopportune and to prescribe any increase of taxation, while also controlling the Reichsbank to the extent necessary to assure the execution of the reform plan approved by the Reparation Commission. Any failure by Germany to conform to the arrangement with the Reparation Commission would be regarded as voluntary failure, giving the right to penalties by the Allies. The Committee on Guarantees should sit at Berlin.

Allied Tax Board Proposed.

PARIS, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—The French plan presented by Premier Poincaré reviews the results of the war and declares at the outset that reparations as provided for by the Treaty of Versailles is not only an indispensable condition to the restoration of French finances, but the only logical means to the restoration of the economic situation in Europe.

The plan says that France is ready to agree that the C bonds of the reparations be cancelled in consideration for the cancellation of equal sums of the European interallied war debts, provided that that method of payment is approved by the Allies. This is equivalent to reducing the total reparations to fifty billion gold marks in case Great Britain is disposed to cancel the C bonds accepted in payment of the debts due her.

Strict measures to prevent the exodus of capital, assure the balancing of the budget, stoppage of the issue of paper currency, organization and supervision of German finance by the Allies and prohibition of the discounting of Treasury bonds by the Reichsbank are provided for in this plan.

The plan insists that a moratorium can only be partial, and demands that the expenses of the occupation of the Rhineland must be paid and that deliveries in kind must continue. It proposes that an allied commission with full authority from the German Government be sent to the Valley of the Ruhr to collect the tax on coal production in that region, and that the tax on German exports shall be collected by the Allies in foreign money.

The mission to collect the coal tax and taxes on exports, as well as import duties in the Rhineland, would be presided over by a Frenchman, though the plan provides that seizure of the guarantees should be made by the Allies in common. Premier Poincaré estimates the proceeds from the different guarantees as follows:

Lumber deliveries, 40,000,000 gold marks; coal deliveries, 280,000,000 marks; nitrate deliveries, 60,000,000 marks; tax on exports, 400,000,000 marks; coal tax, 120,000,000 marks; various divers other collections, 20,000,000 marks—total 1,000,000,000 marks.

As penalties for refusal to accept these conditions for a two-years' moratorium, the plan provides for the military occupation of the districts of Essen and Bochum and all the rest of the valley of the Ruhr as was decided upon by Marshal Foch, and the establishment of a customs frontier around all the territory occupied.

In addition to these penalties the document recalls the right of France and the other Allies to continue the occupation of the Rhineland until the clauses of the Treaty of Versailles are carried out.

The Class C bonds mentioned in the French reparations plan are part of a series provided for under the London ultimatum to Germany issued by the Allies on May 5, 1921, when the total of German reparations was fixed at 132,000,000,000 gold marks. It was provided that Germany create three classes of reparations bonds, based on Paragraph 12 of Annex 2 of Part VIII. of the Treaty of Versailles.

The first class of bonds, or Class A, for 12,000,000,000 gold marks, were to be delivered by July 1, 1921.

The Class B bonds, for 38,000,000,000 gold marks, were to be delivered by Nov. 1, 1921.

The Class C bonds, for 82,000,000,000 gold marks, were likewise to be delivered by Nov. 1, 1921, but to be issued by the Reparation Commission "as and when it is satisfied that the payments which Germany undertakes to make in pursuance of this agreement are sufficient to provide for the payment of interest and sinking funds on such bonds." The bonds were to bear interest at 5 per cent. per annum.

The allied document provided that subject to the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles the bonds should be secured by the whole assets and revenues of the German Empire and the German States. It was further provided:

"The service of the bonds of Series A, B and C shall be a first, second and third charge respectively on the assets and revenues comprised by the Committee of Guarantees, notably the proceeds of German properties, rights and customs and duties; on the proceeds of the levy of 26 per cent. on the value of German exports, and on the proceeds of such other or indirect taxes as might be proposed by the German Government and accepted by the Committee of Guarantees in addition to or in substitution for the funds previously specified.

The French proposal apparently is to scale down the direct demands on Germany to 50,000,000,000 gold marks, as represented by the Class A and Class B bonds, which have a preferential position in connection with Germany's assets, and make available for the interallied debts the Class C bonds which have been questioned in some quarters as a somewhat uncertain third lien.

For France this would mean a scaling down of Germany's obligations, since the French proposals propose to renounce claims on the Class C bonds

COL. HARVEY CONFERS WITH THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Colonel George Harvey, the American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, lost no time in entering into conference with President Harding on European financial and economic conditions, for immediately upon his arrival in Washington this evening he went to the White House, where he is now a guest. It is understood that the President and Colonel Harvey had a long talk tonight, but nothing about it except mere speculation floated out to the executive offices.

So far as known, Ambassador Harvey has no appointment at the State Department tomorrow, but this means nothing, for it is a perfectly simple matter for Secretary Hughes to step across the street to the White House and go into conference with the President and the Ambassador. It was not known here tonight how long Colonel Harvey would remain in Washington, but it was supposed that it would be here from four days to a week.

The Ambassador reached Washington on board the Congressional Limited at 8:30 o'clock this evening and was met by a White House car, which took him directly to the Executive Mansion. His staff, consisting of Major Oscar N. Solbert, Military Attaché at London, and Candler Cobb, Assistant Commercial Attaché, went to the Hotel Hamilton, as did Frederic D. Wyman, a Clerk, Third Secretary of the embassy, who is on leave in this country, but who met Colonel Harvey in New York and came to Washington with him.

SECRETIVE ON NORMAN TRIP

But Washington Hears British Banker Came by Invitation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—At the White House, the State Department and in other official quarters today there were denials that any mystery attached to the visit to Washington last April of Montagu Collet Norman, Governor of the Bank of England.

The belated disclosure that Mr. Norman had been in America at that time and had seen prominent officials of the Harding Administration aroused much interest, which has been emphasized by the fact that Mr. Norman is on his way to this country with Stanley Baldwin, the new British Chancellor of the Exchequer and head of the British World War Debt Commission.

At the White House it was said that Mr. Norman had called on President Harding last Spring but had not discussed official matters. It was indicated at the State Department that Secretary Hughes had met Mr. Norman in a social capacity as he was in Washington, and that they had not conferred officially on international questions. The understanding of State Department officials, it was explained, was that Mr. Norman's only official business in Washington had to do with legislation pending in Congress for extending the time within which the Government of Austria was pledged to repay the United States for relief expended through the shipment of grain supplies. This legislation was subsequently adopted.

REPARATION PLAN PRAISED IN LONDON

THINKS FRANCE WILL YIELD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—The London papers, in approving the British reparations proposals, express the conviction that they will be recognized by most foreign nations as sensible and practical, and on Britain's part generous, and the hope is entertained that France will eventually view them in the same light, although late news from Paris quoting semi-official authority for the statement that there is not the remotest possibility of the British scheme proving acceptable to France is not encouraging.

The Daily News says:

"The French plan of productive pledges runs counter to the whole British proposal for giving Germany a chance to establish her credit. If these two fundamentally different propositions can be harmonized without producing a negative and therefore dangerous result, it will be a miracle. If M. Poincaré discards his own plan in order to accept the main features of the British scheme it will be a greater miracle still. Yet, unless one of these two miracles occurs we do not see how the Paris proceedings can be other than abortive."

The Daily News suggests, however, that America's gesture of co-operation may have an influence on French opinion.

"Such co-operation," it says, "is absolutely contingent upon the readiness of France to scale down German liabilities to a reasonable and final figure, to grant an adequate moratorium and to withdraw unreservedly her threats to strangle the industrial life of her late enemy. The French demand security; they will not get security in this solution. But, more than this, at the present moment they need money. Their only immediate hope of getting money through reparation is in the form of a loan which can come from nowhere but from American and British bankers and private investors. There is nothing more certain than that the loan will not be forthcoming unless the lenders are assured that Germany will be given a chance of financial recovery.

"Is France prepared to accept the logic of these facts though it involves the abandonment of her hitherto immovable attitude?"

Warns Against "a Louis XIV. Policy."

The Daily Chronicle says:

"The British scheme cuts away the possibility, dear to a large school of French opinion, of keeping the reparations sore open indefinitely, as a lever for perpetual militarist interference with Germany and ultimate detachment of further German territory. If the French Government's answer is inspired by its militarist advisers it will refuse. The intentions of France are thus brought finally to the acid test, and she must make her choice between two incompatible aims which her people have vainly tried to combine every since the Treaty of Versailles was signed. On the one hand she has before her a policy of peace, financial recovery, the co-operation of her allies and the approval of the world; on the other she can with forfeiture of all these fair prospects pursue a Louis XIV. policy toward Germany."

The Morning Post, commenting on Premier Bonar Law's statement to British and American newspaper representatives last night, says:

"Mr. Bonar Law still hopes for agreement, and, to judge from his statement, he is inclined to find the cause of disagreement, if such disagreement should unhappily become pronounced, not so much in the antagonisms of statesmen and their points of view as in the difference of public opinion, so strong in both countries as to make it difficult, if not impossible, for the Governments to come to the agreement which both desire."

"Therein Mr. Bonar Law moves to the point of view of Mr. Hughes, who, in suggesting that a committee of business men should take the problem in hand, virtually admitted that statesmen had not the necessary freedom of action to deal properly with the issue."

The Westminster Gazette says:

"There could be no firmer evidence of our faith in our own plan or of our belief that Germany will meet her obligations, for we have to pay America in gold or goods and rely on post-dated German securities for our debt. Certainly such a scheme cannot be regarded as wanting in generosity to our Allies or showing any lack of sympathy with their distress."

The Daily Mail is the only paper that openly plumps for the French proposals. It says:

"The French scheme appears to us to be both moderate and practical. It should make Germany feel that the Allies mean to insist upon payment. France wants something tangible. Mr. Bonar Law prefers gentler methods and does not want to collect and hold German money. We prefer the French way. We regret that we cannot support the British plan, because we fear it will only lead to fresh German evasions in the long run.

"A Catastrophe Is Possible."

The London Times says:

"A catastrophe is possible—a sharp and irreconcilable conflict between the British and French view leading to the rupture of the Entente and the adoption of desperate measures that will make the present confusion irreparable in our time. But, while such a catastrophe is possible, we are reluctant to regard it as the probable result of the discussions in Paris."

Discussing the fundamental distinction between the British and French methods of approaching the reparations problem, The Times says:

"The French are proceeding on the desperate assumption that Germans will not pay, and therefore, while reluctantly agreeing to the moratorium, they are anxious to extract at least some small sum by means of more or less veiled coercion. We in England are more hopeful. We believe that by engaging Germany's interest in the general financial and commercial intercourse of the world; by giving her the opportunity of creating for herself that financial credit which must in the long run be a moral asset, her moral obligation to pay will gradually be translated into substantial sums of money to the benefit of all the Allies. That is the aim of the British proposals.

"The French proposals would further impair what remains of German credit and would render impossible the execution of any such scheme. That is why they are so strongly opposed by public opinion in this country, and that is why they must be opposed by the representatives of the British Government in Paris. We are bound to say, however, that we regard the present conference with more hope than we were justified in feeling on the occasion of any previous conference of the kind.

The Daily Telegraph says:

"The business view of the reparations question is the only one which finds acceptance in this country, and it is for this reason that objection is offered to any proposals which threaten to make the debtor's position worse or to encourage in him a temper of reckless resentment."

As regards the French view of the British scheme, the Daily Telegraph says:

"It would obviously be too much to expect a favorable reception for such plan on the first study of it in France. The semi-official pronouncement upon it which we publish today could not, indeed, well be more uncompromising in its language. The plan is treated as totally inadmissible from all points of view and is criticised with especial bitterness as to the giving to Germany of the nominal Chairmanship of the Finance Council and the temporary superseding of the Reparation Commission."

GALES AT SEA DELAY BRITISH COMMISSION

Majestic, Carrying Financiers Headed by Chancellor, Due at Quarantine Tonight.

According to the latest radio messages from Captain Sir Bertram Hayes, D. S. O., R. N. R., of the White Star liner Majestic, she has been delayed by westerly winds and high head seas and will not reach Quarantine until 8 o'clock this evening, too late to go to her pier before tomorrow.

Among the first-cabin passengers on the Majestic are the members of the British Financial Commission, headed by Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who are on their way to Washington to confer with the United States Debt Funding Commission. The State Department said yesterday that arrangements had been made to take the party off the liner at Quarantine and extend all courtesies through the Customs and Immigration Departments.

A coastguard cutter will go down the bay tonight, carrying Customs officials and any representatives of the British Embassy who may come from Washington to meet the Chancellor of the Exchequer or the British Consul General, Captain Gleaves Armstrong.

At the State Department it was said there would be no official ceremonies either in New York or Washington.

Emile Coué, who expounds autosuggestion as an aid to recovery from illness, is also on the Majestic. He will land with the other 500 first cabin passengers at Pier 59, North River, tomorrow morning.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—An American syndicate is prepared to spend £500,000 upon a new hotel scheme for Manchester, and at a meeting of the City Corporation Improvements Committee yesterday an offer was received to buy up the Victoria buildings block in the heart of the city, including the well-known Victoria Hotel.

The committee is understood to favor the proposal and the Town Council, which owns the buildings, is expected to approve the sale when it meets next week.

The syndicate proposes to turn the whole of the island block into a vast hotel with 600 or 700 bedrooms, thus making it one of the largest hotels in the provinces.

The conference also resolved to recruit a legion for service under the Angora Government.

Gen. Harries Will Lay Wreath on Cenotaph Today in America's Name.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Major Gen. George Harries, Commander-in-Chief of the American Order of the World War, will lay a wreath on the cenotaph in Whitehall this morning, bearing the inscription: "Bound by ties of language, race, love of righteous liberty and battle comradeship, those whom we salute are ours, even as they are yours."

GRAND JURY TO CALL NEW YEAR REVELERS

flict between the Federal prohibition agents and the police in the enforcement of the prohibition law.

"It has been asserted that on the night of Dec. 31, riots practically happened or occurred in this city," said Judge McIntyre. "If that is so, it may be necessary to take the matter up, to investigate it, and to find the cause of it. It may be necessary to find where the blame lies, and who initiated the disturbance. I have not as yet received official information. Maybe what I have heard and read is mere hearsay, but if it is on substantial information, I will deem it my duty to order an investigation to find out what the difficulty is and what it rises out of.

"The question is one of a serious conflict of authority. When two bodies, authorized by law to do certain things, come into conflict and that conflict amounts to what might be called a riot, it is time for an investigation. We have three laws under which we are acting at the present time on the liquor question. They are the Eighteenth Constitutional Amendment, the Volstead act and the Mullan-Gage State prohibition law. Trying to enforce each of the provisions created by these three statutes seems to have led up to a situation which is serious for this city.

"If what has been said is true and I find it is true and based on fact, I will ask you to make the necessary investigation and take such action as you think proper."

Yellowley Denies Any Friction.

E. C. Yellowley, Acting Federal Prohibition Director for this State, declared that there is absolutely no friction between his department and the police, but that, on the other hand, they are working in the closest cooperation. He added that the police rendered very valuable service to the Federal agents, and that the agents in turn helped the police in the enforcement of the prohibition laws on New Year's eve. Mr. Yellowley said that he was in close touch with police captains and other police officials who visit his office almost daily, and that they are working together in complete harmony.

Mr. Yellowley said that reports continue to come in from persons who had observed the conditions on New Year's eve this year and last year, and that most of them agree that conditions were much better this year than last. He said that he was well satisfied with the work of his men. Yesterday he received reports from Albany, Syracuse and Buffalo showing that there was less drinking than in former years on New Year's eve. Conditions were especially good in Buffalo, he said.

Joseph S. Green, head of the prohibition enforcement agents in Brooklyn, expressed satisfaction at what he said was the small number of liquor violations in Brooklyn over the New Year's holiday. Several saloonkeepers and their bartenders who were arrested on charges of violating the Volstead act were arraigned before United States Commissioners.

From Saturday noon to Monday afternoon, sixty-five arrests were made in the Newark district by Federal agents, according to reports in Newark. The defendants were arraigned before Commissioner Emery.

La Montagne Case in Court.

The four La Montagne brothers—Montaigue, Rene M., William A. and Morgan E.—indicted with nine others last Friday by a Federal Grand Jury, were arraigned for pleading in Federal Court yesterday before Judge Learned Hand. Six of the other defendants also were on hand for pleading. The La Montagne brothers were held in bail of $15,000 each, Colonel Hayward declaring that they were the principals in the two alleged conspiracies in which they are involved. The charges are participation in conspiracies to violate the National Prohibition and Internal Revenue laws through the withdrawal of liquors from bonded warehouses by means of altered, forged and counterfeit permits.

The indictments came as a result of the investigation of a dinner at the Racquet and Tennis Club. The La Montagnes are members of the E. La Montagne's Sons, commission merchants, in business at 623 West Thirty-fourth Street.

Others admitted to bail in the same case were Edwin Schuttenberg, salesman for the LaMontagne concern; Eddie Harlow, cigar stand man at the Racquet and Tennis Club house; 370 Park Avenue; James R. Burrows, truckman employed by the LaMontagne concern; Joseph S. Burrows, father of James, garage owner; Patrick McAllister, otherwise known as "Patrick Allen," and John George. In the case of three men who failed to appear for pleading, Samuel A. Story, Vice President and General Manager of the La Montagne concern; Rex E. Sheiden and Herbert Horgan, a bench warrant was issued by Judge Hand, on motion of Colonel Hayward. Story, it is said, is not in this country.

G. J. Simons, Chief Federal Prohibition Agent for this State, said that four injunctions for alleged violation of the Prohibition law had been served as follows: Frank Litwinsky, café owner, 53 Rutgers Street; Dora Teck and Peter Pitz, café owners, 222 South Street; Joseph Friars, café owner, 835 First Avenue, and Albert W. Henderson, Secretary; John Jenkins, President and Treasurer; Edward Ford, waiter, and Joseph Alerboni, waiter, of the Tumble Inn, at Croton-on-the-Hudson.

Mr. Simons said that his agents raided a grocery at 940 Third Avenue, owned by Albert Klenk, and that seventy-five or eighty bottles of assorted liquors and thirteen cases of beer were seized.

TURKS PESSIMISTIC AS PARLEYS REOPEN

SOME PROGRESS EFFECTED

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

LAUSANNE, Jan. 2.—After the two days' New Year holiday, the Lausanne conference reopened today with the Turks freely predicting a rupture over the Mosul question. According to the Turkish spokesman, the breaking off of the negotiations here would not necessarily be followed by war between Great Britain and Turkey, but there would be anti-British insurrections in the Mosul district too powerful for the British to put down.

The Turks naturally hint that they know a good deal about the plans for insurrection. They point to the reports of disturbances in the Mosul oil district as proof of their arguments that the Kurdish inhabitants are opposed to English rule.

As for the conference proceedings today, they were rather lackadaisical. On the one hand, Lord Curzon was absent in Paris, whence he returned tonight, and, on the other hand, the Turks were awaiting new instructions from Angora. That the Turks wish to delay all real discussion until after the Paris reparations negotiations have shown whether there will be a break in Anglo-French unity is obvious.

Turks' Proposal to Reform Laws.

This morning the capitulations subcommittee met to consider the Turkish proposal to enact new laws controlling the personal status of foreigners in Turkey. It was tentatively agreed that a commission composed of equal numbers of the Angora Government and minorities should frame new law projects, and that in case of their failure to agree recourse should be had to an arbiter named by the Turkish Government in consultation with the Council of the League of Nations.

The meeting of the economics subcommittee this afternoon reported no progress, and a second meeting of the capitulations subcommittee was deadlocked on the issues of amnesty, the British asking for pardon for the Turks who had served them in Turkey since the armistice and before. This was refused by the Turks, who pointed out that the Allies were still trying their nationals who had served as enemy spies during the World War, and it was not reasonable to ask the Turks not to punish the traitors of their own nationality.

May Permit Patriarch to Remain.

The minorities sub-committee had another session to discuss the fate of the Greek Patriarch, which was marked by the reading of a note signed by Lord Curzon and saying that the British Government would not agree to the Turkish demand that the Patriarch quit Constantinople. Dr. Riza Nur Bey replied, saying that the Turks maintained their position that the Patriarch must leave the city. However, Turkish headquarters indicated tonight that the Ottoman delegation might make a concession to the extent of tolerating the presence of the Patriarch in Constantinople without recognition by the Turkish Government. This indicates a drift toward the French compromise plan of permitting the Patriarch to remain, stripped of all civil powers and exercising only his ecclesiastical primacy.

Although it is possible that Lord Curzon will try to speed up affairs here, it is probable that there will be no big developments for several days, while the Paris meeting of Premiers is under way. Certainly in the meanwhile the atmosphere of the conference is far from good. If new instructions are daily expected from Angora, ordering Ismet Pasha not to yield on the Mosul or capitulations question, it is difficult to see how there can be a settlement here.

Conjectures on Hassan Bey's Mission.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The Daily Telegraph's diplomatic correspondent writes: "There is a tendency in some quarters to put not too pessimistic an interpretation upon the return to Angora of Hassan Bey, hitherto Turkey's third delegate at Lausanne. It is believed that the object of his journey is to secure wider discretionary powers for General Ismet Pasha at Lausanne.

"In other quarters, however, this optimism finds no echo. Indeed, the opinion prevails that Hassan has been recalled because, as Chairman of one of the economic subcommissions at Lausanne, he was thought far too conciliatory. The uncompromising speech that delivered by Mustapha Kemal Pasha in person on the subject of the capitulations, minorities and Mosul should suffice of itself to dispel any excessive hopes. The similarly intransigeant attitude of Dr. Rüs Nur Bey is, as a matter of fact, strongly supported at Angora.

"Meanwhile at Smyrna the Kemalists have found relaxation in blowing up the one Orthodox church which had remained relatively immune from the general arson. Whether in connection with Mr. Washburn Child's strong appeal on behalf of the Christian minorities and for a national home for the Armenians or on more general grounds, American financiers and concessionaries interested in Turkey have received a hint from their authorities that in the present circumstances no money should be advanced to the Turks, who were actually touting for loans in every possible and impossible quarter."

Some Predictions of Early Peace.

LAUSANNE, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—Although the Turkish delegates still insisted tonight that the conference was in a delicate situation, a more hopeful feeling prevailed among the other delegates, some of whose representatives predicted that peace would be signed at Lausanne within three weeks.

The developments indicate that the Allies are seeking to counterbalance the pessimistic prognostications of the Turks by pointing out that real progress has been made on many questions, and that the situation is not at all desperate. The Co-ordination Committee is actively at work drafting a preliminary treaty.

One of the English delegates, voicing the sentiment of the Anglican Church, opposed the deportation of the Greek Patriarch from Constantinople, saying that it was unjust to strike a blow at the spiritual jurisdiction of the Patriarch as Primate of the Orthodox Church and as chief of the Orthodox Church in Turkey.

This question will be considered again at a later meeting.

ANGORA COMPACT UPHELD.

Turkish National Assembly Is Unanimous in Reaffirming It.

CONSTANTINOLE, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—The Turkish National Assembly has unanimously decided to uphold the National Pact, according to a dispatch from Angora.

It is also reported, but without confirmation, that Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation to the Lausanne conference, has been instructed to insist upon literal maintenance of the pact, and that he has been authorized to sign a separate peace with such powers as are willing to subscribe to its terms.

The National Pact, which Mustapha Kemal Pasha has repeatedly declared should be fulfilled, provides among other things, that the Mosul district of Mesopotamia shall be Turkish territory. It is this district, containing some of the richest oil wells in the world, that is one of the chief bones of contention between the Turkish and British delegates, the latter claiming it as a part of the Kingdom of Irak, a British mandatory State.

Another article of the pact calls for a plebiscite to determine the juridical status of Western Thrace. This plebiscite was one of the first demands made by the Turks after their arrival in Lausanne.

The pact declares for abolition of the capitulations, and guarantees the rights of the minority populations in Turkey "on the same basis as is established in other countries by conventions hitherto concluded between the powers of the Entente, their adversaries and certain of their associates."

The Straits of the Dardanelles and the Bosporus would be open "to world commerce and international communication," under the terms of the pact.

NO REVOLUTION IN MOSUL.

So Says London Colonial Office, but Angora Persists in Reporting It.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The Colonial Office this evening declared that the reports originating in Constantinople of a revolution in Mosul were untrue.

It was remarked in official circles earlier in the day that the source of the report—Angora through Constantinople—was sufficient to characterize it as one of the numerous rumors which might be expected to be forthcoming daily until a settlement of the Near East question was reached.

It is pointed out here that Mosul is in constant touch with Bagdad by wireless, and any disturbances would be reported to London immediately.

The Air Ministry this afternoon officially denied that the hangars of the British Air Forces in Mosul had been burned, as reported.

LAUSANNE, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation to the Near East conference, said tonight that he had no confirmation of reports reaching Lausanne by way of London that a revolution had broken out in Mosul.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 2.—Official announcement that an insurrection had broken out at Mosul, in the Kingdom of Irak, was received here from Angora today. The telegram asserted that the inhabitants of the entire oil-producing region were demanding annexation of the territory to Turkey.

GREEKS READY FOR WAR.

Going to Front With "Olive Branch in One Hand, Sword in the Other."

ATHENS, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—In an interview today with regard to the possible failure of the Near East conference at Lausanne, General Pangalos, the new Generalissimo of the Greek Army, said:

"We go to the front with an olive branch in one hand and a sword in the other. It is true we want peace, but we must be ready for war. It will be impossible to accept any new humiliations, and we have the necessary strength to defend the rights of Greece."

WARN OF ANOTHER WAR.

Appeal to Church People Issued by 160 Prominent Persons.

Declaring that the nations are frankly pushing preparations for another war, and that the prevention of such a war is the foremost duty of the Christian Church, a group of 160 prominent Americans, including many well-known clergymen, educators, business men and editors, yesterday issued a new year appeal to church people throughout the nation. They declare "another war is inevitable unless a better mind can prevail."

Among the signers are William J. Bryan, Frank A. Vanderlip, George W. Wickersham, Cardinal O'Connell, Kenyon L. Butterfield, President of the Massachusetts Agricultural College; John B. Clark of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Professor Irving Fisher of Yale University, Bishop Thomas F. Gailor of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Shailer Mathews, Dean of the Divinity School of Chicago University; President Thwing of Western Reserve University, Miss Mary E. Woolley, President of Mount Holyoke College; Mrs. Philip North Moore, President National Council of Women; Judge Henry Wade Rogers of the Circuit Court New York, and John R. Mott, General Secretary of the International Y. M. C. A.

SENT ONLY A FEELER ON NO-WAR COMPACT

AMERICA NOT COMMITTED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Announcement was made today by the State Department that the American Government had refused to transmit to the principal allied powers the formal proposal from the German Government for an agreement by France, Great Britain, Italy and Germany binding them not to make war against each other for a period of one generation without being authorized to do so by a vote of their own people.

The Harding Administration considered it inadvisable to transmit such a proposal unless it appeared that it would have been considered a useless gesture in the face of the French Government's informal declaration.

The State Department's announcement read:

"The German Ambassador, on behalf of his Government, recently submitted to the Secretary of State a proposal to the effect that the powers interested in the Rhine, to wit, France, Great Britain, Italy and Germany, should 'solemnly agree among themselves and promise the Government of the United States that they will not resort to war against each other for a period of one generation without being authorized to do so by a plebiscite of their own people.'

"It was deemed inadvisable to transmit the proposal to the Governments named unless it appeared that it would be favorably considered by the French Government. On making informal inquiry of the French Government the Secretary of State was informed that that Government could not view the proposal with favor as such an arrangement could not be made under the provisions of the French Constitution."

Limit on American Role.

While the German proposal provided that the four powers should not only reach a solemn agreement among themselves, but also give a promise to the Government of the United States, and while this in a sense would have made this Government the trustee of the proposed pact, it is not understood that this Government would have been obligated other than by receiving and depositing in its archives the text of any such agreement along with the "promise" as the powers might be willing to make to the United States.

The State Department's announcement was the first official declaration of this Government on the subject. When the first intimation was given that Germany had approached the United States more than a week ago, unofficial reports from London and Berlin indicated that the proposal contemplated a thirty-year agreement during which there would be a "protection" of the frontiers between Germany and the Allies. Officials denied that "any proposal for guarantee of frontiers" had been received, and refused to discuss the subject of the German proposal in any way.

The conviction has steadily grown, despite official silence, during the last week that Germany had asked this Government to lay before the allied powers named some kind of a proposal for a four-power peace compact. This was confirmed by Chancellor Cuno's Hamburg speech, which resulted in the decision of the State Department to issue its brief official announcement today.

While the informal sounding of the French Government by our Secretary Hughes cannot be regarded as committing the United States on the merits of the German proposal, there is a disposition in Washington to construe the action of the Government as meaning that the Administration looked upon the German move with more than perfunctory interest. It was, of course, out of the question for the American Government to suggest in any way that it considered that the German proposal contained merit as a basis for negotiation, and at the same time the Administration could not well refrain from seeking to ascertain informally whether France would entertain such a proposal.

It is intimated that the American Government's reticence in the matter was due to a request to consider the German proposal as "confidential" pending developments as to the result of the Cuno Government's move, which is believed here to have been inspired by the recent suggestion of President Harding in his annual message that the four-power Pacific treaty which is to terminate the Anglo-Japanese Alliance might serve as a "model" for use elsewhere.

Under the French Constitution the power to declare war rests with the French Parliament. There is no provision in the Constitution under which a plebiscite on the question of going to war can be held.

The stated objection of France on this ground is believed to have been very largely technical. It is based on her unwillingness to tie her hands in any way so long as the question of the collection of German reparations remains unsettled. It is asserted in French quarters in Washington that if France should enter such an agreement as Germany proposed, and the Germans should then decline to make reparations, the suggested four-power treaty would constitute more or less of an obstacle to the occupation of German territory to enforce productive guarantees.

British View Not Developed.

Whether the German proposal would have been more favorably received by Great Britain and Italy has not developed. The American Government felt that France was most directly interested and took the attitude that if the French Government did not approve there was no use in carrying the matter to the London and Rome Governments.

The move of the Cuno Government is looked upon by observers here as somewhat clever. Despite the fact that the proposal is objectionable to the French, the Germans will be able to contend that they have made a voluntary move toward the guarantee of the France-German frontier against attack.

President Poincaré, both in and out of official life, have for months been urging that France may be in danger from attack from a rejuvenated Germany and have explained the maintenance of a big French army in terms of this alleged menace. Mr. Harding did so in the Washington Arms conference, and the security of France was the keynote of the speeches recently delivered in this country by former Premier Clemenceau. The latter, in a speech in Washington the very day that President Harding expressed to Congress the hope that the Pacific four-power compact might well serve as a "model" for other nations, quickly caught up the President's suggestion by declaring that it might be regarded as an "overture." The present French Government, however, has not indicated that it considers either the Harding "suggestion" or the Cuno "proposal" the kind of an "overture" it could regard with favor.

PARIS, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—Premier Poincaré today furnished the reparations conference with further information concerning the non-aggression proposal referred to in the recent speech of Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno of Germany. M. Poincaré said that the proposal originated with the German Ambassador at Washington and that it reached Paris through Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Jusserand on Dec. 18.

The French Premier asserted that he informed M. Jusserand that the proposed pact was no doubt a manoeuvre by the German Government on the eve of the Paris conference. He said that the proposal was renewed on Dec. 21 and that in replying this time he pointed out that Article X. of the Versailles Treaty contained a formal non-aggression provision which was binding to France.

It was evident to him that Germany wanted to be able to equivocate on the penalties likely to be enforced against her in case of default, France, he said, declined to walk into such a trap, and he subsequently requested Ambassador Jusserand to inform Secretary Hughes of the true meaning of the proposal.

More eggs were laid last year than ever before—something like twenty-two billion—

Yet the per capita consumption in the United States was only one-half an egg a day.

The Department of Agriculture suggests that we double this by eating the other half an egg—

DE VALERA APPEALS TO SINN FEIN CLUBS

SEIZURE OF SHIP IS DENIED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 2.—In the midst of the peace talk, and there is more today than at any time since the treaty, republican headquarters declares in a new year bulletin that the objects of the reconstructed Sinn Fein five years ago have not been achieved and that its aims and constitution are as appropriate and necessary for the national purpose today as in October, 1917.

It declares further that the Sinn Fein's policy and organization are the only visible means for reuniting the national forces, reconciling brothers and undertaking a program for the national regeneration of social justice enthusiastically and earnestly.

The bulletin, which is addressed to the officers of the Sinn Fein clubs and all members of the Sinn Fein, is signed by Austin Stack as Honorary Secretary and Eamon de Valera as President and trustee. It concludes:

"Ireland is really yours for the taking, and who at the worst would not choose to face again the four glorious, terrible years when the mettle and courage of her sons and daughters made Ireland's name reverenced throughout the entire world rather than face the continuance of the inglorious strife that England's dictated treaty makes inevitable and that will cause more brothers' hands to be steeped in the blood of brothers and the name of our country to pass into a byword?"

Though rumors were busy all day that four men were executed at Tralee, County Kerry, there is no confirmation, official or semi-official. Army headquarters and all possible channels of information denied any knowledge of the supposed executions.

DUBLIN, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—The Irish Free State Government notified the American Consulate here today that there had been no seizure of an American ship by a British destroyer on orders from the Dublin Government, as recently reported.

A Queenstown dispatch on Dec. 31 said the British torpedo-boat destroyer Venomous had arrested an American steamship which was supposed to be trying to land a cargo of arms and ammunition in Ireland. The vessel, according to the dispatch, was halted off Castletown Bere and conveyed to port by order of the Free State Government.

IRISH REPUBLIC OUT; PICKETS CITY HALL

The New Year's armistice over, war started anew yesterday at the Irish Consulate, 119 Nassau Street, where Irish republicans engaged in a dispute with officials of the Irish Free State over possession of the consular offices. If force of numbers had been the determining factor considered by the police, the republicans would have won easily. But as possession has been declared to be nine points of the law, the right of possession in this case, backed by a receipt for rent, Lieutenant James J. Regan of the bomb squad decided in favor of the Free State.

Having ruled, Regan and his men cleared the consular offices which were besieged by fifty republicans, many women among them. The first rushes gathered outside in the corridors, until the crowd of sympathizers filled the entrance hall. Then the police ordered that all except two of the republicans leave the building.

Three times before noon the police cleared the building of the trespassers. On every occasion they were back in a few minutes. Once some other republicans on the fourth floor rear, where Charles Daly were interesting by their actions in the consulate.

A committee headed by Mrs. Ellen Quinlan proceeded from the Consulate to City Hall, where they sought to enlist Mayor Hylan in settling the row. Mrs. Quinlan told the Mayor that the republicans regard the consular offices and that Minister Crawford, newly arrived from Dublin, was one of the trespassers. "He's not a real Englishman, anyway," Mrs. Quinlan affirmed. She said she wanted to know whether the Irish republic or the Free State was to be recognized by England and that the police had been "brutes."

"In this country," he said, "we have a government of law and order. The police are at the Consulate to maintain it. If any one among you has been injured, he or she may go to a Magistrate and obtain a warrant for the arrest of any one who has violated the penal law. On the other hand, if you have a cause of civil action, you may go into the courts and enforce your claims. Nothing I know of in your claim are immediately with you."

The delegation left in a huff, proceeding to picket City Hall. At 5 o'clock five pickets appeared bearing placards with inscriptions reading "Ireland for Irish." Some of Scotland Yard was interviewed by Mayor Hylan's committee while Mayor Hylan's police assailed Mortal McSwiney. "Sir Basil is here to teach Mayor Hylan's police third degree and tear methods," said Lieutenant Regan acting as aide and jury American courts to the fear."

The pickets, who were marshalled by Mrs. Gertrude Corless, kept a sharp lookout for Mayor Hylan. The Mayor left the building at 6:15 and hurried into his car before they had time to reach him. Although aware of the picketers, the Mayor had no comment to make.

The rival factions, who began their fight for possession of the consular offices a week ago, had agreed to a truce over the holidays. The republicans were on hand early yesterday morning, and when Crawford arrived he found a vanguard of the opposition awaiting him. The republicans pushed their way into the offices and took up the siege until expelled by the police.

Mrs. Muriel McSwiney, among those ejected, charged that the police seized her roughly by the shoulder. Others among the republican visitors were Dr. Gertrude B. Kelly, Linder Grinnell, representing Valera; Miss Vera Finnerty and Michael O'Brien.

Crawford, when he had freed his offices of disturbers, locked the doors, announcing that he would remain in actual possession until the matter was settled one way or the other. Because of threatening letters he was said to have received, Crawford left for lunch guarded by a heavy police detail. Patrolmen were left on guard during the day.

Arthur Briscoe, an officer in the Irish Republican army, who has been appointed Consul by de Valera's representative here, said he had spent the holidays in the building at 119 Nassau Street to make certain that the Free State did not accomplish a coup d'etat during the truce. Briscoe said that Daniel J. McGrath, whose withdrawal as Consul precipitated the present trouble, had altered his position. Briscoe quoted McGrath as saying he had refused to turn over the Consulate to the Free State agents, but was ready to give the keys to the republicans. McGrath, it was recalled, resigned as a protest against recent executions by the Free State Government. Crawford was said to have received the keys of the offices from McGrath.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Justice Hitz in the Probate Court here today authorized the payment of $57,000 of the assets of the estate of the late Levi P. The total distributions and disbursements from the estate amount now to $5,914,122.60. The total value of the estate is about $7,000,000. Mr. Morton, who was Vice President of the United States from 1889 to 1893, died at his home in New York on May 16 last.

The Horse Saint

"Whatever became of your old friend, Dan, we used to have an occasional drink with at the S. P. C. A. Cafe?" asked Knickerbocker Winnie of teammate Ned. "Oh, didn't I ever tell you, the Horse Saint took him," answered Ned. "He's dead, then?" "Not on your life, Winnie—he was completely broken down and Mrs. Ehrlich, President of the Horses' Aid Society, had him taken to her beautiful farm for a rest cure. Mrs. Ehrlich is known as the 'Horse Saint.' She takes old, worn out horses that can hardly stand up and has them running around like two year olds in a few weeks." "Bless her," said Winnie. "That goes double," said Ned, "for while we are lucky and work for a company that loves us and has a hospital for our care, there are many of our race who would suffer terribly if it were not for the Horses' Aid Society and the S. P. C. A."

SMITH WILL NOT GET AID OF REPUBLICANS

With the Republicans lining up for a united stand against the ascendant Democratic everything is not serene within Governor Smith's own party. Many Democratic leaders who were here for the inauguration, and improved the occasion by hunting jobs for their henchmen, left the Capitol apparently deeply aggrieved because they failed to get what they were after. They appeared to forget that the Governor, at this time, had only a handful of jobs to give out and seemed to hold Mr. Smith responsible for what they termed their "failure to obtain recognition."

The suggestion was even made that Governor Smith was deliberately picking a quarrel with the bosses of his own party, but this was strenuously denied in quarters close to the Governor, even though it was admitted that differences had arisen and that possibilities of future unpleasantness were in the air. Some leaders who slammed a prominent door in the face of Mayor Hylan, forgetting the nomination and in turning the scales in favor of Smith, left the Capitol remarking that they had not even been invited to submit recommendations for candidates for vacancies that existed.

Walker and Donohue Outline Program.

It has now been definitely determined that Governor Smith is to appear before the Legislature in person to read his annual message. It is probable that the Senate and Assembly will hear the message, convened in extraordinary session in the Assembly chamber, with Lieutenant Governor Lunn presiding, immediately after the two houses have effected organization tomorrow.

In an official statement made public tonight Senator Walker and Assemblyman Donohue, Democratic leaders, announced that a number of important bills along the lines of the state platform would be introduced at the session tomorrow. Their statement follows:

"Perhaps the most important will be the Direct Primary bill. This bill restores the law as it was prior to the legislation of 1921 which provided for state and judicial nominating conventions. Under the provisions of the Democratic bill, State officials and Supreme Court Judges would be nominated by direct vote, the same as all other officials, with the proviso that unofficial conventions may be held without public expense; this provision was also in the old law prior to 1921.

"Another bill to be introduced, relating to elections, provides for bipartisan County Election Boards uniformly throughout the State, wiping out the special provisions for a single headed commission in Monroe and Niagara Counties and for the performance of the duties of the Election board by County Clerks in several of the up-State counties. Still another provides for personal registration of voters throughout the State.

"Bills will be introduced to repeal the Lusk laws for the licensing of schools and imposing so-called loyalty tests upon school teachers.

"There will also be a series of labor bills, carrying out pledges of the Democratic platform along lines for which Governor Smith has stood throughout his public career. The principal measures in this category establishes a board to determine a minimum wage for women and minors in industry; establishes a forty-eight-hour week for women and repeals statute, creates a bureau of women in industry, creates a commission to investigate matters of the workmen's compensation law, [illegible] and appropriates $15,000 for it, and provide that labor of human beings shall not be deemed a commodity.

Appointments Made.

Governor Smith today cleared up a most unusual situation which arose in Wyoming County following the last general election, where one man was elected to two judicial offices. The Governor appointed Michael L. Coleman of Warsaw a county judge of Wyoming County, to fill the vacancy caused by the failure to qualify of James E. Norton, Supreme Court Justice-elect.

Sherman Appoints Deputies.

Attorney General Sherman of Buffalo today appointed the following Deputies: Milton Gibbs of Rochester, salary $6,000; Frank X. Disney of Elmira, $5,000; Lyman Kilburn of Dunkirk, $5,000; Edward E. Tanner of Buffalo, $5,000; Wellington T. Winchester of Buffalo, $5,000.

The Attorney General reappointed Edward J. Mone of Ithaca as Second Deputy at $6,000; H. S. Aiken of Auburn, deputy in charge of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau, $6,000, and Claude T. Dawes of Johnstown, corporation and banking law expert, $6,000. Mr. Mone, who is a specialist in water power litigation and State claims work, will supervise the work of the Court of Claims bureau of the Attorney General's office.

William J. Reardon of Buffalo was appointed Investigator and Agent of Claims at $5,000.

Charles L. O'Connor of Buffalo was named secretary to the Attorney General at $3,000.

Controller Fleming announced the appointment of James B. Wallace, a Troy newspaper man, as his secretary.

F. Clifford Curtain, Division Engineer of the Middle Division of the Barge Canal with headquarters at Syracuse; Thomas J. Morrison as Engineer of the Western Division, with headquarters at Rochester, and Mrs. M. A. Bigg of Albany as confidential clerk.

Dominick F. Mullaney, who was State Senator in 1907 and 1908 was unanimously picked as candidate for clerk of the Senate by the Democratic Senators in caucus tonight.

His name was presented by Senator Walker, who himself has been nominated for and will be elected Temporary Chairman of the Senate at the session tomorrow.

Both Houses Select Officers.

Senator Walker was anxious to have his former clerk, Edward L. Stanton, elected Clerk of the Senate, but for some reason Mr. Santon, who is an Albany Democrat, failed to receive the endorsement of his organization. Mr. Mullaney had the Tammany endorsement.

Ralph Delli Paoli, another Tammany Democrat, who lives at 182 Mulberry Street, was picked for Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, to succeed Charles R. Keating of Albany. A Republican, who has spent half a lifetime as the guardian of decorum in the Senate chamber, M. J. Deignan of Troy was picked for the position of official stenographer.

The Republicans reshuffled their present officials, including former President Pro Tem. Clayton R. Lusk, who at the coming session, will be reduced to leader of a minority in the upper house.

Mr. Machold was unanimously renominated for Speaker at a caucus of the Republican Assemblymen tonight.

Fred Hammond of Syracuse was renominated for Clerk, Harry W. Haines of Westchester for Sergeant-at-Arms and George Munson for Official Stenographer.

The Democratic Assemblyman offered the name of Minority Leader Donohue for Speaker and Dr. Robert P. Kunz of Chemung, who was Speaker of the Assembly thirty years ago, for Clerk.

AUTOS KILL 2 BOYS; MANY ARE INJURED

CHAUFFEUR GETS 60 DAYS

Reports Show That of 1,902 Persons Killed by Cars Last Year 860 Were in City.

Coincident with the reports of the killing of two children and the injury of more than ten persons in automobile accidents, the National Highway Protective Society yesterday issued a statement which revealed that of 1,902 persons killed by motor vehicles in this State in 1922, 860 of the deaths were in this city.

A sentence of sixty days in the workhouse was imposed on William Grimes, 23 years old, of 2,255 Seventh Avenue, the first chauffeur to be arraigned in the Traffic Court this year on a charge of operating a car while intoxicated.

"This court has been too lenient with the class of drivers you represent," said Magistrate Frederick B. House in sentencing Grimes. "Your sentence is the first step toward reducing the number of such violations in the coming year. The first objective will be to reduce by 25 per cent. the number of cases of persons driving while intoxicated. No sentence less than sixty days in the workhouse will be given in these cases, and the sentences will be increased to the limit, six months, if necessary."

James Nugent, 8 years old, of 36 Alaska Street, West New Brighton, S. I., was killed by an automobile in front of his home. Walter King, operator of the car, who lives at 46 Stuyvesant Place, St. George, was released on bail after he had been arrested on a technical charge of homicide.

Witnesses told the police that the boy ran in front of the car from behind a large motor truck and was knocked down before King could stop his car.

Phillip Newton, 6 years old, a negro, of 42 West 136th Street, was killed by a taxicab at Lenox Avenue and 138th Street. Samuel Korn, the chauffeur, of 1,002 Garrison Street, the Bronx, was locked up on a technical charge of homicide, after he had taken the boy in his machine to the Harlem Hospital.

Patrick Pallace, 50 years old, a motorman of 116 Huron Street, Brooklyn, died at his home last night of a fractured skull received when he was struck by a motor truck in the afternoon on Greenpoint Avenue, near Review Avenue, Long Island City. The driver of the truck fled.

Two Dying From Crash in Pelham.

Two of six persons injured last evening in a head-on collision between a motor truck and a touring car at Wolf's Lane and the Boulevard, Pelham Manor, were reported later to be in a dying condition at the New Rochelle Hospital. Miss Caroline Thomas of Woodbine Avenue, Mamaroneck, one of the occupants of the car, and Harry Bean of 9 Euclid Place, New Rochelle, chauffeur of the truck, were the most seriously injured, each having suffered a fracture of the skull.

The touring car was driven by Sanford Hamilton of 436 South Fifth Avenue, Mount Vernon, who was detained by the Pelham police.

Maurice Spain, 21 years old, of Lake Mahopac, who, with Thomas Walsh of the same place, was in an automobile which overturned on Barmour Hill, between Mohegan and Peekskill Sunday night, died yesterday in the Peekskill hospital. Walsh, who was driving the car, was instantly killed.

An automobile with eleven occupants crashed into a southbound surface car early yesterday morning at Eighth Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street. John Rogers, 25 years old, of 434 West Fifty-third Street, and William Flanagan, 23 years old, of 147 West Sixty-second Street, were removed to Bellevue Hospital with fractured legs.

Six of the occupants fled, but Owen Sweeney, 18 years old, and his brother John, 21 years old, of 322 West Twenty-sixth Street, and George Berliner, 18 years old, of 278 Ninth Avenue, were arrested and later held in $1,500 bail each for examination tomorrow. The police said that the license plate on the car belonged to another vehicle.

Henry Cohen, 35 years old, of 220 East 103d Street, and Harry Cohen, 32 years old, of 22 East 103d Street, were pinned under a motorcycle when it overturned at Tenth Avenue and Fifth Street. They were removed to the Roosevelt Hospital, where it was found that Harry sustained a possible fracture of the skull and Henry had a fracture of the jaw and cuts on the face.

Woman Is Severely Injured.

Miss Reina MacGilvarey of 56 Cedar Avenue and Henry Ell of Prospect Avenue, both of Patchogue, L. I., were victims of an automobile collision Monday night at the intersection of Roblson Boulevard and Montauk Highway, East Patchogue. When they were removed to Unger's Hospital at Patchogue it was found that Miss MacGilvarey had sustained a fractured skull and probably would die, while Ell's right foot was so badly crushed that it may have to be amputated.

ADMIRAL SINGER HURT.

Retired Navy Officer Run Down by Auto in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2.—Rear Admiral Frederick Singer, U. S. N., retired, was injured seriously today when run down by an automobile in the business district.

Examinations at the hospital showed he had a scalp wound and bruises and cuts about the body. Because of his age his condition was said by hospital physicians to be serious.

Street, Stapleton, Staten Island, was killed on Oct. 25 last by a municipally-operated surface car. A recent decision of the Appellate Division of the Second Department in Brooklyn, in the case of a driver of a milk wagon struck by a car of the same line, was to the effect that the city was liable for damages in such accidents. It was said that a flood of actions, the result of accidents during the two years of city operation, had been held in abeyance until the Appellate Division's decision and now were ready to be filed.

Witnesses testified in the Newcomb suit that Mrs. Anderson, who was waiting for a car at Richmond Turnpike and Theresa Place, Sunnyside, had signaled for the motorman to stop. The motorman, they said, failed to do so, and the edge of the car struck Mrs. Anderson. She died a few hours later in the Staten Island Hospital.

The City of New York, through its Department of Plant and Structures, of which Grover A. Whalen is Commissioner, has been operating the former lines of the Midland Railway Company on Staten Island since the company two years ago refused to operate further without an increased fare. The city now operates four of this company's lines at a five-cent fare. The Port Richmond and Concord line, on which the death of Mrs. Anderson occurred, is one of them.

The action brought by Harry Kesner, a milk driver of Stapleton, against the city was the first case resulting from an accident on these municipally-operated lines to be tried. Kesner received a verdict of $7,500 in Richmond County Supreme Court. The Appellate Division of the Second Department upheld this decision in an opinion rendered last November. Mrs. Newcomb's action is the first brought to trial since.

Triangle Club Presents "The Man From Earth" at the Metropolitan.

THE PRODUCT OF STUDENTS

Performance Reveals Serious Study of Settings, Costumes and Music.

The Princeton Triangle Club brought its new varsity show, "The Man From Earth," to town yesterday for two performances, one in the afternoon at Daly's Sixty-third Street Theatre and one last evening at the Metropolitan Opera House. The performances were the last of fifteen given during the holidays, most of them in the South and West.

The new Triangle show is something more than a good entertainment. It is, like most of its predecessors, a musical show, with plenty of jingling tunes and bright lines. But more than any other college show that has been seen here it shows devotion of much serious artistic study to the settings, costumes and music.

The settings are done according to the expressionistic methods of Rheinhardt, the German producer, and Appia, the Swiss designer. On the Metropolitan stage they were most effective. The costumes, designed by James E. Davis, '23, were in keeping with the settings, and much of the music, following the tone scale of Debussy and Revel, added toward the same effect.

Everything in and of the show has been done by Princeton undergraduates, except for some professional dancing instruction and coaching of Professor Donald Clive Stuart of the Princeton Faculty, who directed the production. The book is by John S. Martin, '23; Louis E. Laflin, '23, and Henry C. Miner Jr., '23; the music by Robert M. Crawford, '25; Frank T. Corbett, '23, and William R. Stuhler Jr., '23. The settings and lighting effects were worked out by Harold L. Strong, '24, and were completely constructed by undergraduates.

"The Man from Earth" deals with the tendencies of the present day youth, which it satirizes by shooting an earthly bootlegger up to Mars on the explosion of a still. He introduces laws, jazz, flapperisms and other earthly things and the results are most amusing.

The leading parts are played by J. B. Darley, W. H. Smith, F. M. Chapman, E. A. Bartlett and L. E Laflin. Some of the others in the show are J. C. Taylor, holder of the intercollegiate 220-yard hurdles championship; J. S. Martin, Chairman of The Daily Princetonian and a member of the soccer team; E. T. Thomas Jr., varsity pitcher and just elected Rhodes Scholar from Maryland, and W. Pell II., Rhodes Scholar from New York.

WELCOME NEW JUDGES IN MANY COURTROOMS

Speeches, Band Concerts and Presentation of Gavels Mark the Ceremonies.

Proceedings in the Surrogates' Court, Supreme Court and City Court were devoted largely yesterday to the induction of new Justices to seats on the bench. In the cases of new Justices the usual speeches were made and gavels were presented. Justices Lehman and McGoldrick, who had just finished terms, dispensed largely with any formality, although Justice McGoldrick, who was twice named to fill vacancies, received the attention of friends and members of the bar when he entered upon his full fourteen-year term.

Justice William Harman Black attracted the most attention in the Supreme Court because of an elaborate program that had been arranged in Trial Term, Part 12. Two women attorneys, Ruth Lewinson and Anna Moskowitz Kross, spoke for the first time in such ceremonies.

When Justice McGeehan, former City Magistrate, took his seat in the City Court, the address of welcome was made by Chief City Magistrate McAdoo. City Court Justice Callahan introduced Justice McGeehan.

The police band furnished music when Surrogate John P. O'Brien ascended the bench. Surrogate Foley introduced him and said he was confident that the efforts of Surrogate O'Brien would exalt the administration of justice in that court. Corporation Counsel Nicholson, who succeeded Surrogate O'Brien, Morgan J. O'Brien, Edmund L. Mooney and others spoke.

Judge Cornelius J. Collins was escorted to Part II., General Sessions, by Judge Alfred J. Talley, District Attorney Banton and lawyers representing the Bar Association.

Friends of Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman, who was appointed the day before by Mayor Hylan, felicitated him on his appearance in the Tombs Court.

LOST $58 MATCHING PENNIES

Canadian Has Chance Acquaintance Arrested in Aquarium.

Charles Sherman, 42, a salesman living at 1,223 Broadway, was arrested yesterday afternoon in the Aquarium by Patrolman Smith of the Old Slip Police Station on the complaint of Joseph Boles of Alberta, Canada. According to Boles he arrived in New York last Friday en route to Ireland. On Saturday afternoon, while wandering about the city, he strolled into the Grand Central Station, where he met Sherman, who represented himself as a stranger in town. The two men weer discussing the city when they were approached by a third man, who asked for some information. In the end all three made their way to a near-by saloon, where one of the men proposed that they match pennies.

Boles won several times and when his new friends proposed that they raise the ante he agreed. In a short time he had lost $58. His friends then stated that they must leave to catch their trains, whereupon Boles became suspicious and reported the matter to the police of the East Fifty-first Street Police Station. Yesterday, while visiting the Aquarium, Boles recognized Sherman.

Do you want to become a Fraction?

Why not, if it pays?

If your business doesn't warrant employing a truly capable advertising man on full time, it will pay you to become one of my Fractional Employers—using me only as needed and letting other Fractions pay me between-times.

Remember, the brain put into sales-effort is only a part of the cost. Everything else costs the same (or more) when you employ cheap brains. And the cost-per-results soars.

So don't lose money for the mere pleasure of being a Whole Boss, but come down to a Fraction. Why not, if it pays?

Now ask me some question, or for Booklet G-40, which tells why it pays to employ me as counsel in sales problems, to write sales letters, to create every kind of sales literature.

BRITISH FINANCIER KILLED IN MEXICO

W. H. Gore Is Struck by Stray Bullet From Roysterer's Gun in Hotel Room.

GOVERNMENT STAFFS CUT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 2.—New Year's Eve brought death to an English capitalist here, Wilfred Herbert Gore, well known in London financial circles, who was found dead in a hotel. The failure of Gore to appear led the police to break into his room, where he was found lying in front of an open window in a pool of blood. Death was caused by a bullet which entered his head.

Investigations show that Gore was sitting at his window watching the celebrations incident to the advent of the New Year when struck by a stray shot, fired in honor of the coming year.

Mr. Gore headed a group of English capitalists investigating Mexican business conditions.

The New Year has brought distress to thousands of the office help employed by the Government. More than three hundred employes have been discharged from the Treasury Department and several hundred from the War Department. Other departments of the Government also intend to cut their payrolls. The Administration of the Federal District has discharged six hundred employes.

These measures are being taken to bring the budget in line with the reductions made by Congress when they approved the budgets for the governmental departments.

Augustin Montgomery, who, the daily papers state, is connected with the man named Cunningham arrested in Chicago last week on a charge of swindling, has been arrested here. Montgomery denies any connection with Cunningham and says he is a well known banker, who is looking for investments in Mexico. Local Judges refuse to vacate the order for his arrest, although no charges to date have been filed against Montgomery.

Owing to the lack of an extradition treaty Montgomery cannot be taken back to the United States unless President Obregon uses his constitutional privilege of applying Article thirty-three of the Constitution.

Dr. Wastphal, President of the German War Veterans here, has made an official protest to the Secretary of the Interior against granting permission for a production of the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," a film based on the novel of Blasco Ibanez. The German veterans say the film insults the German. The veterans are backed by the German Embassy.

The War Office denies reports of friction at Jalapa, State of Vera Cruz, between the Fascisti and laborers there. General Serrano, the Minister of War, is at Jalapa, where he is supposed to be consulting Governor Tejada of the State of Vera Cruz regarding the issue of rifles to farm hands. President Obregon has ordered the concentration of all arms by the military officials, as he fears trouble if the farm hands are allowed to have arms and ammunition.

PREDICTS AMERICA WILL ENTER LEAGUE

Jane Addams Says Farm Bloc, Bankers and Women Voters Will Stimulate Movement.

LONDON, Jan. 2 (Associated Press).—On the eve of starting her tour of the world, Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, addressing a meeting in London today, referred to the United States as a recalcitrant country, but predicted that it would enter the League of Nations.

Miss Addams said she saw increasing indications toward such a movement, first, in the influence of the farm bloc in Congress; second, through Eastern bankers becoming quite vocal for participation in European affairs, and, third, through the influence of the women voters, whose hearts had been wrung by the sufferings of the ill-fed and uneducated children of Europe, and who would become ashamed of their entry into politics unless they were able to achieve something in this direction.

MISS ROYDEN TO LECTURE.

Wants to Give British Views of European Position to Americans.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The well-known woman preacher, Miss Maude Royden, will sail aboard the Homeric tomorrow for a three months' lecture tour in the United States. Her itinerary includes New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and St. Paul.

"My desire," she said today, "is to make Americans understand British views of the European situation."

First Will Filed Here in 1923.

The first will filed for probate in 1923 at the Surrogates' Court, in the Hall of Records, yesterday was that of Frank Fasanella, otherwise known as Frank Fasinelli, who died here Dec. 13. He leaves United States postal savings deposits totaling $900 to a brother, Theodore, of 3 James Stret, New York City, who is named sole executor.

Papers Left at Home of Hugo H. Schmidt, a Passenger on the Majestic.

ACTION FILED ON LAST DAY

When Hugo H. Schmidt arrives today from Europe on the steamship Majestic he will find out that by order of Supreme Court Justice Gavegan papers were left at his home, 40 Parcot Avenue, New Rochelle, on Saturday in a suit against him and others for $370,000 and an injunction. The other defendants are the Topken Company, importers of gloves and fine leather at 268 Fourth Avenue, and Eugene L. Loring, formerly known as Lowenberg.

The suit is brought by Peter W. Topken of East Orange, Carl Meentzen of Bremen, Germany, and Amos F. Peaslee as administrator in this country of the property of Melchior F. Topken, formerly President of the Topken Company, which had its headquarters in Chemnitz, Germany, and was one of the best-known glove concerns here and abroad. The complaint asks an injunction against Schmidt and the Topken Company to restrain them from continuing to do business here as the Topken Company, and for $150,000 damages because they have used the name without authority since Jan. 2, 1918. The plaintiffs ask an accounting from all the defendants and judgment for $120,000 additional.

Peaslee & Compton, attorneys for the plaintiffs, got the order to serve the papers on Schmidt by leaving them at his home, on the ground that the six-year time limit in which the suit could be brought expired yesterday and Mr. Schmidt could not be served personally until his arrival here today. The papers were filed yesterday. The plaintiffs say the name Topken became known in the world of business through the efforts of the family which originated the glove business at Chemnitz. They want to start in the same business again, "but have been prevented from doing so by reason of the absorption and monopoly of the name within the trade by the defendant, the Topken Company."

The complaint asserts that one of the promises made by the defendants was that after Jan. 2, 1918, they would not use the name Topken or be associated with any person or concern that used it.

BERLIN IS STARTLED BY NEW YEAR'S ORGIES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—"A truly elevating spectacle for our many foreign visitors" is the comment of a Berlin newspaper on the scenes here on New Year's eve. This is how the paper summarizes those scenes:

"Drunken people staggering through the streets in hundreds, shouting and screaming; there were fights on every hand, and through this wild tumult raced police motor cars and ambulances."

Official statistics reveal still more strikingly the extent of the orgy. In the course of twelve hours occurred one murder and five suicides; eighty-nine persons were taken to hospitals suffering from alcoholic poisoning; thirty were injured by revolver shots and fireworks, and a similar number in street fighting; there was a record number of burglaries, including thefts of ecclesiastical plate from churches.

All five of the suicides took their lives at the stroke of midnight. On the body of one man was found a note which read: "I refuse to have anything to do with 1923."

In order to deal with the appalling number of attacks by robbers on pedestrians—now the feature of Berlin night life—the Chief of Police has constituted what he has called flying commands. On New Year's eve these squads, who travel in motor cars, were kept busy from twilight until dawn.

Will of Frank L. Hall, Massachusetts G. O. P. Leader, Filed.

Yale College was bequeathed $10,000 by Frank L. Hall, formerly Chairman of the Massachusetts Republican State Committee, and at the time of his death, Dec. 12, 1922, a lawyer of this city. The will was filed for probate yesterday. He was a graduate of Yale.

A 108-acre farm at Bridgeport, Conn., where Mr. Hall was born and which was the family home for many generations, goes to a nephew, Francis Hurlbut Hall, who receives the income from the residue of the estate until the age of 30, and then the principal. Ernest P. Hoes of Yonkers is to have the deceased's law library, safes and office furniture and equipment.

His marriage to Anita Stewart in 1909, at Tulloch Castle, Scotland, was a brilliant event after royal complications over the status of Miss Stewart had been smoothed out by a patent from Emperor Francis Joseph, which gave the American girl the rank of Princess until the wedding was over. Miss Stewart was reported to have received a wedding gift of $2,000,000 from her mother, Mrs. James Henry Smith, who obtained a South Dakota divorce from Rhinelander Stewart in 1906, marrying James Henry "Silent" Smith subsequently. Mr. Smith died in 1907 while on his honeymoon in Japan.

The Portuguese pretender opposed his son's marriage, but yielded when Prince Miguel renounced his rights in favor of his younger brother, Prince Francis Joseph. The pretender was present at the ceremony in the historic Scottish castle.

Buy on Oakland's "Mileage-Basis" Plan—and Know In Advance!

When you go to the show judge the cars you see on the basis of the actual mileage they will deliver!

You have probably owned one car, perhaps more—you're motor-wise! Look for power, beauty, economy—look for a body that pleases the eye and a price that fits your purse—but look beyond these things!

Make sure—in advance—of the quality built into the car, and of the satisfying mileage it will deliver!

For the first time in motor car history, you can do this!

Under Oakland's "mileage-basis" plan you can know, before you buy, those things you have hitherto, perhaps, learned only by experience.

Oakland will tell you, for instance, that its valves will function properly for 15,000 miles or more before requiring grinding!

Oakland will tell you that its main crankshaft bearings and connecting rod bearings will require no attention or adjustment under 40,000 miles or more!

An Oakland Six will deliver 20 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline—15,000 to 25,000 miles per set of tires!

And the major parts of an Oakland Six (axles, frames, bodies, etc.), will endure throughout the life of the car.

When you weigh these figures in the light of your own personal experience as a motorist with cars of various makes—you will appreciate how remarkable they are.

And when you remember that Oakland last year guaranteed the performance of its engine for 15,000 miles, and that it cost Oakland only a fraction of a cent per car to make good this guarantee—then you will appreciate how certain Oakland is of its ground and how accurate these figures are!

See all the cars at the show! —judge them all on Oakland's "mileage-basis" plan—and only a car with Oakland quality (which will be way above Oakland in price) will satisfy you!

MUSIC

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

The Philadelphia Orchestra.

The Philadelphia Orchestra came again to New York last evening; but Mr. Stokowski had sailed for Europe in the morning, and the orchestra was under the direction of Mr. Georges Enesco, "guest" conductor. Mr. Enesco, a Rumanian who lives in Paris, is well known to New York music lovers as a composer through a number of his compositions that have been played here in recent years—compositions for orchestra and for chamber music. Mr. Enesco is also known in Europe as a violinist and as a conductor.

His program comprised two of his own compositions, the second "Rumanian Rhapsody" and the symphony in E flat; also Tchaikovsky's "Pathetic" symphony. Under ordinary circumstances this would not be considered a highly successful attempt at program making, but perhaps the circumstances were other than ordinary. It was natural that the guest should wish to be heard as interpreter of his own works and that the audience should wish to hear him so. Tchaikovsky's symphony did not seem inevitably to belong with them. Was Mr. Enesco moved by that universal desire of foreign conductors to display their skill in this symphony when they come to America? Or was the selection made for him?

The two pieces by Mr. Enesco were not new to New York, though they were also not familiar. The rhapsodie is apparently based on Rumanian folk tunes, especially on one broad, almost hymn-like melody that is played several times by the orchestra in different orchestral dispositions, and on a contrasting dance tune. The material is simple, but it is interestingly treated, and the piece is particularly rich in its orchestral color.

The same orchestral skill is shown in the symphony, a work of very different intellectual calibre; powerfully conceived and elaborately executed. Mr. Enesco in an interview quoted in Mr. Gilman's program notes avowed himself consciously "ultra modern." His disavowal is borne out by this symphony. It is modern, perhaps; but the listener is engrossed in the strong and individual character of the music, in the variety and resource of the composer's thematic invention and treatment, in the numerous original and powerful effects that he has gained in his development. He is not baffled by extravagant or deliberate assaults upon his ear.

Mr. Enesco has something to say, and a great skill in saying it. It is notable that though he has long been a resident of Paris, his style shows little or none of the influences now so persuasive there and that are so easily perceived in most of the current music that comes out of France. He is singularly independent in his style.

The symphony is too long; all three movements are too long, and suffer in their effect from this fact. But they all have many traits of beauty, of imagination, of ingenious orchestral presentation; they create and sustain a mood. The last movement seemed the finest of the three, the most eloquent in the melodic material, the most persuasive in its development.

The playing of these two pieces was on the highest plane of orchestral performance; brilliant, rich, delicate, refined in detail, sonorous and big in the larger proportions. The second movement of the symphony ended with a pianissimo such as is rarely to be heard—perhaps was hardly heard by some. The spinning out of this movement to its magical close was remarkably achieved.

What an orchestra does is to be attributed, by and large, to the conductor's direction of its efforts. Mr. Enesco arrived in New York last Sunday and reached Philadelphia in the evening; so he has not had time to impress his ideas very deeply upon the orchestra. Probably the pieces were all rehearsed in preparation for his coming. And the Philadelphia Orchestra is to be recognized as an orchestra of virtuosos. The performance was in no particular less than admirable; and it seemed clear that Mr. Enesco's intentions were completely carried out. He is a conductor, evidently, of the highest rank; a man endowed with authority, with all technical skill and with a full knowledge of orchestral effect and how to obtain it.

Still more remarkable for some reasons was the performance, or perhaps rather the conducting, of Tschaikowsky's "Pathetic" symphony. The statement had not been published, but it was made on the best authority, that Mr. Enesco had never conducted this symphony, had never heard it, and had never seen the score until he arrived in New York last Sunday. Then he borrowed one to read on the train to Philadelphia. Last evening he conducted the performance from memory.

Of course, the orchestra knew the symphony. If Mr. Enesco did not—and it would seem that he must have been the only man left in Europe who had never heard it. The performance, at least of the first movement, was a fine one, though Mr. Enesco took some tempos that, on further acquaintance with the work, he may change. But he left the impression that he was a remarkable musician, to whose hands is entrusted an extraordinarily fine instrument. The chances are that in the next few weeks he will enjoy himself.

Denver Soprano Sings Here.

Anne Robinson, a soprano from Denver, made her first New York appearance in Aeolian Hall last evening before a large audience. Her program included "Depuis le jour," from Charpentier's "Louise," and four groups of smaller pieces. The operatic selection and several of the songs contained notes which were very within the range of the singer and which she strived unsuccessfully to attain, but the lower tones were true and of vibrant quality. She was at her best in the lighter French songs, and Weckerlin's "Jeune Fillette" was particularly suited to Miss Robison's voice and style of singing. Rubi Davis, violinist, played in a spirited manner Vitali's "Chaconne" to open the program and Chopin's Nocturne and "Spanish Dance" by Sarasate and between two of the song groups.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Gringo" will end its run at the Comedy this week.

"The Little Kangaroo," renamed "Lady Butterfly," will open in New York on Jan. 22 at a theatre yet to be announced.

"The Red Poppy" has been withdrawn only temporarily from the New York stage. The play, which was withdrawn from the Greenwich Village Theatre last Saturday, probably will reopen uptown next Monday.

"The Green Scarab," instead of being withdrawn from rehearsal, as stated yesterday, has postponed its out-of-town premiere for a week. It will open in Hartford on Jan. 15.

A play entitled "Papa Joe," produced in London under the title of "Mr. Malatesta," is announced for production here by R. G. Kemmet. The author, William Ricciardi, will play the title role.

"The Sporting Thing to Do," by Thompson Buchanan, has been placed in rehearsal by Oliver Morosco, and will open out of town on Jan. 15. The cast includes Emily Stevens, Frances Underwood, H. Reeves-Smith, William Boyd and others.

BERNHARDT'S ROLE FILLED.

Understudy Will Take Great Actress's Place as Latter Grows Worse

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—The state of Sarah Bernhardt's health is such as to end all hope that she will create the part written for her by Sacha Guitry in his new play "Un Sujet de Roman."

This became known this morning when definite announcement was made that the first night presentation would take place this week at the Edouard VIII Theatre, Bernhardt's part being taken by Mlle. Henriette Roggers, who already has played several of Sarah's roles at the latter's theatre.

It now appears doubtful that Bernhardt ever will appear in public again. Yesterday she fainted several times. Today a slight improvement was announced, but whatever the outcome of her present illness it is thought unlikely that at her age she will be able to regain sufficient strength to appear on the stage.

SHUBERT COMPANY SUED.

Chicago Evening Post Seeks $500,000 Damages From Theatrical Producers

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Suit for $500,000 damages was begun today by The Chicago Evening Post against Sam S. & Lee Shubert, Inc., theatrical producers, and the Jackson Theatre Company.

The action is based, according to the papers filed, on a notice printed by the defendants in their theatre programs here in 1918, in which it was alleged The Evening Post had published "untruthful statements" about the Shuberts and their attractions.

Some time ago the Shubert brothers failed to press suits against the newspaper because of alleged criticism of some of the Shubert theatres and performances.

"Cosi Fan Tutte" on Opera Bill.

Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte," with the Metropolitan's captivating production and cast of last year, will be the new bill of the opera season's ninth week, to be sung next Wednesday night by Easton, Peralta, Bori, Meader, De Luca and Didur, conducted by Bodansky. Next Monday's opera is "Lorelei," with Alda, Sundelius and Gigli; Wednesday matinee "Tosca," for the fourth time, with Jeritza, Martinelli and Scotti; Thursday evening "Ernani," Ponselle, Martinelli and Ruffo; Friday "Thais," also a fourth time, with Jeritza, Harrold and Whitehill; Saturday matinee, Massenet's "Manon," Bori, Chamlee and De Luca, and Saturday night, Jan. 13, "Die Walkuere," Matzenauer, Rethberg, Taucher and Whitehill. Olga Samaroff pianist, assists at next Sunday's concert, when the singers are Mario, Peralta, Peterson, d'Arle, Arden, Diaz and Kingston.

'Three and the Man' at Art Theatre

"Three and the Man," a play by Gabreyla Zapolska, the Polish author of "Sonya," was produced last night at the Yiddish Art Theatre. Unlike "Sonya," this is a realistic play. It is unlike also in that it is a joyless play, particularly in its sentimentally spoken ending. Joyless though its realism is, however, power is in it and gusto. The play concerns the relations of a young journalist with three women. "Three and the Man" has the same magic which made "Anna Christie" a Broadway success—the magic of tense and colorful human beings in a haggard world.

HOOVER FOR RADIO CONTROL

Seeks Regulation to End Nightly "Bedlam in the Air."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Control must be established over the bedlam filling the air from 21,000 radio transmitting stations, Secretary Hoover told the House Merchant Marine Committee today at hearings on the Kellogg-White Federal Radio Control bill. Representatives of amateurs and various others interested in wireless communication also were heard by the committee.

The bill provides that the Commerce Department shall have supervision over all radio communication, assigning wave lengths, approving apparatus, licensing operators and otherwise supervising wireless communication to bring order out of the present chaos of jazz bands, sermons, crop reports, sporting services, concerts and whatnot running simultaneously on the same wave lengths.

Vigorous protest was entered by the War and Navy Departments against a provision of the bill which stipulates that whenever Government apparatus is used for other than Government business it shall come under supervision of the Commerce Department. The Navy operators, it was said, would have to obtain license from the Commerce Department if the section was retained. Secretary Hoover told the committee he would confer with Secretary Denby in an effort to reach an accord on that feature, but he insisted that the Navy should not be permitted unlimited privileges to the discomfiture of other users of wireless.

GOSHEN FROGS VENTURE OUT

This Leads Weather Prophets There to Predict a Mild Winter.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Elmer M. Hunter of Goshen has caused the weather prophets of this section to commence issuing prophecies regarding the weather for the rest of the Winter by the discovery of two frogs which had ventured out owing to the warm weather.

The prophets have it figured out that the remainder of the Winter is to be mild, some declaring that they see in the appearance of the frogs unmistakable evidence that there is not to be any more zero weather this Winter.

TO RESTORE FANEUIL HALL.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Restoration of Faneuil Hall, the "cradle of American liberty," to its original condition architecturally was provided today in a contract signed by Mayor Curley. The cost will be approximately $150,000.

The pen with which the Mayor signed the contract was given to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, which has quarters in the historic structure.

be permitted to bring up a bottle of wine for the enjoyment of the party when the New Year should arrive.

His offer accepted, the man below brought up a bottle of champagne and glasses enough to supply all the guests and himself. A toast to the New Year was drunk in his champagne and he was invited to join a poker party going on in the apartment. He accepted.

Shortly before 1 o'clock in the morning, the poker players decided to call it a night. The man from below excused himself and left first of all. The next to leave the apartment was Mrs. Schoellkopf.

The holdup and robbery took place in a brief period—variously estimated at from five to twenty minutes—between the time Mrs. Schoellkopf left the apartment to return to her rooms at the Ritz and the time she rushed back up the stairs to announce her loss. The robbery was committed, she said, in the fourth floor apartment of which the man with the champagne was one of the occupants.

Mrs. Schoellkopf has told two divergent stories to account for her having been in the fourth floor apartment. In one of the stories, which her friends quoted last night, she said that on leaving Carman's apartment she started downstairs alone, and was seized by a strange man on the stairs between the fifth and fourth floors. She said that he thrust a handkerchief soaked with chloroform over her nostrils, preventing her from screaming, and carried her bodily into the fourth floor apartment.

Declares She Was Bound.

According to this story, the apartment contained three men—the man who had seized her, the man who had taken the champagne to the party, and another. Mrs. Schoellkopf was quoted as saying that one of the men had held a pistol to her head, while the others bound her arms and legs with ropes and telephone wires, gagged her with handkerchiefs and towels, and administered more chloroform.

Inspector Coughlin of the police, however, told reporters that, after first telling this story to the police, Mrs. Schoellkopf had admitted that she had entered the fourth-floor apartment voluntarily. She said that on leaving Carman's apartment alone she had gone to the street before she remembered that she had not called a taxicab. Then, she said, she accepted an invitation from the champagne donor she had met at Carman's party to wait in his apartment until a taxi arrived. As soon as she entered the room, she said in this story, the men pounced upon her and attacked her. In this version, however, she said that the robbers had not used ropes or wires, but had held her down on the bed and had gagged her with a pillow-slip and chloroformed her.

Two See Fleeing Men.

When the robbers had taken all her jewelry, Mrs. Schoellkopf said, they warned her they would come back and kill her if she made any outcry. Then they escaped. It is reported that a man and woman who were standing in a doorway across the street saw three men run out of the house, and that the man, suspicious of their haste, followed them and obtained information that has been very valuable to the police in their search.

Mrs. Schoellkopf says that as soon as she recovered from the effects of the chloroform and bestir herself she rushed up to Carman's apartment and told him and his guests, who were still there, that she had been robbed. Another discrepancy enters the case here, as Mrs. Schoellkopf's friends say they notified the police immediately, while Inspector Coughlin says the police were not informed until yesterday, when Mr. Schoellkopf arrived upon the scene.

Mr. Schoellkopf, a middle-aged man of distinguished bearing, is a member of the family of the same name which is closely connected, with the business and financial development of Buffalo. He is Vice President of the Niagara Fal

MOORE STILL SPEED SKATING CHAMPION

JEWTRAW SECOND WITH 70

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Jan. 2.—The Middle Atlantic outdoor speed skating championship was ended this afternoon with Joe Moore of the 181st Street Ice Palace again holder of the championship and Valentine Bialis of the Lake Placid Club winner of the Joseph F. Donoghue Memorial race of three miles. The struggle between Moore and Charles Jewtraw for honors of the meet was close and exciting, and it is claimed by those who have made the sport a study that Moore simply outgeneraled his rival from up-State. The record is made by points, a first place counting 20, second 20 and third 10. At the finish Moore had 80, Jewtraw 70 and Bialis 60.

By permitting himself to lose position in the 440-yard race, while his rival succeeded in getting in, Moore saved himself for semi-finals and finals, permitting him to rest up for the other events. In the Donoghue medal race he again exhibited his prowess by holding Jewtraw back from the lead and thus permitting inferior skaters to win the honors. This was patent to all, for in the finish lap Moore spurted and led his rival by many yards.

The races were witnessed by about 3,000 persons. Nearly all the inferior skaters had left the city after the postponement of New Year Day owing to rain and poor ice. Those remaining over night were the cream of the entries, and instead of more than a hundred making the start in the various events, about one-half the number competed. During the night the ice had stiffened and much of the water had disappeared. The day opened with sunshine and with rising temperature.

Ice Becomes Dangerous.

In the trial heats of the morning the surface was passably fair, but during the afternoon the ice on Downing Park Lake became soft, and at the northeast turn really dangerous. Several of the skaters fell in manipulating the turn, and spills were frequent.

No one was seriously hurt, although two of the competitors were forced to drop their aspirations for the Eastern championships. One of these was Charles Gorman of St. John, N. B., who has numerous champion honors this season. He fell and was spiked in the right leg. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital for treatment, but it is reported tonight that he will be able to return to his home tomorrow. Paul Forsman of the Iceland Skating Club also was hurt, but did not require hospital treatment.

There were several exhibition events at others than prize competitors, one of them being by Terry Connors, six-year-old wonder from Connecticut, who made the 220 yards in 44 4-5 seconds. Gladys Robinson of Toronto declared that she had come too far to be disappointed in not showing her skill, notwithstanding the withdrawal of the ladies' championship, the dozen or more entries having returned to their homes. Miss Robinson made the 220 yards in 30 seconds, paced by Roy J. Schwanenkamp of the Morningside Skating Club, New York City. Raymond Murray, the twelve-year-old schoolboy from New York, made the 440 yards in 54 3-5 seconds.

No Chance for Records.

With all the heat races disposed of in the morning with the ice in fair condition, the semi-finals were pulled off during the early afternoon, so that when the finals were ready for disposal the ice was such that all hope of records being approached had vanished, and the skaters, notwithstanding the poor showing on time, were glad to have the opportunity of disposing of the event they had anticipated as being one of the best of the season in this section of the country.

A diamond medal will be awarded by the Long Branch Ice Boat and Yacht Club to the winner of the greatest number of points in the meet.

MAY EXTEND CONFERENCE.

New England College Body Likely to Include Other Institutions.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—The plans for an athletic conference of the six State colleges of New England have been extended to make possible admission of other than State institutions, it was learned today. As proposed, membership was to have been limited to Massachusetts Agricultural College, University of Vermont, New Hampshire College, University of Maine, Rhode Island State College and Connecticut State College. It was found desirable, however, to maintain traditional relations between several of these colleges and other institutions.

Plans are under way also for another conference of New England colleges, in which Amherst, Williams and Wesleyan authorities have been active. It has been suggested that steps be taken toward linking the two propositions, but to date it is said the movements are distinct.

Spring Practice for Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 2.—John F. Meehan, football coach at Syracuse University, has decided to have Spring practice over a period ranging from four to six weeks this Spring, the work to include scrimmage as well as signal drill and routine.

Joie W. Ray, middle-distance runner of the Illinois A. C., is again in the good graces of the Amateur Athletic Union and probably will be seen in action on the board floors here during the current indoor season. Ray's reinstatement became definite yesterday, when Secretary Treasurer Frederick W. Rubien of the A. A. U. announced receipt of the fine of $100 levied on the middle-distance champion. This fine represents alleged exhorbitant expense demands for which Ray was suspended from November until the end of last year. Ray's reinstatement was made contingent on his refunding $100, and his check for the amount was received by Secretary Rubien yesterday. Jo G. Loomis, Chicago A. A., who with his brother, Frank, was suspended with Ray for a similar offense, has been reinstated upon refunding $5. Frank Loomis, who has withdrawn from the A. A. U. ranks to coach, was requested to return $20, but has not yet complied.

DISTANCE OF CREW RACE NOT CHANGED

No Decision Yet Made as to Length of 1923 Intercollegiate Varsity Contest.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 2.—No decision to restore the varsity crew race at Poughkeepsie to four miles has been reached by the Board of Stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, according to Charles E. Treman, Cornell's representative on that body, in a statement today. The stewards, he said, have held no meeting in months, but they will come together some time in the next two weeks to decide upon plans for the 1923 regatta, and it is probable that the question of the length of the varsity race will come up for discussion.

Cornell men assume that the regatta will be held at Poughkeepsie, as usual, and, while no official statement could be obtained, it is assumed in rowing circles here that the three-mile race will be retained at least for another year.

While it is true that some old Cornell oarsmen favor the four-mile race, the late Charles E. Courtney's opposition to the shorter course is not forgotten and it is unlikely that Cornell officials will favor a return to the longer distance.

VETERANS TO POOL BASEBALL MONEY

Funds Received From Second World's Series Game to Be Spent by Joint Committee.

Plans for the disbursement of the money received from the New York baseball clubs in the division of the receipts of the second world's series game were announced yesterday by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans of the World War. They have decided to pool their shares, amounting in all to about $41,000, and a joint committee has been named to determine how the money will be spent. Commissioner K. M. Landis probably will accept a place on this committee.

The American Legion, which also received about $20,000 from the baseball clubs, is not included in the scheme. That organization will go it alone in the disbursement of its fund.

The following statement was issued by Colonel T. L. Huston yesterday:

The two principal organizations of ex-service men have decided to pool their interests in the Baseball Fund for Disabled Veterans and to disburse the money for the purposes intended by the operation of a joint committee.

This plan was decided upon today at a conference attended by Colonel T. L. Huston, Commander-in-Chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Captain C. Hamilton Cook, National Commander Disabled American Veterans; Captain R. W. Elton, Adjutant General of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Raymond A. Lasance, Adjutant General, Disabled American Veterans.

The joint fund which the two organizations received from the two New York baseball clubs, the Yankees and the Giants, amounts to about $41,000. This money will be deposited in the Equitable Trust Company of New York City as Treasurer and expended according to recommendations and upon the suggestions of a joint committee consisting of A. J. Rabing, Past Commander-in-Chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and R. S. Allyn, Judge Advocate General of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; John E. McCarthy, National Staff Representative of the Disabled American Veterans, and George M. Calvert, Senior Vice Commander of the Department of New York of the Disabled American Veterans.

Judge Landis has been requested to serve on this committee, and will probably accept.

The disbursements will be made on vouchers signed and countersigned by Colonel T. L. Huston and Captain C. Hamilton Cook, as representatives of their two organizations.

Dr. Calvert, a member of the disbursements committee, is totally blind, having lost his sight through a wound from a machine gun at Chateau-Thierry. He is Commander of Syracuse Chapter of Disabled Veterans and an intimate friend of both Captain Cook and Colonel Huston.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees and Secretary Jim Tierney of the Giants will confer again today on the charity money distribution. Their immediate purpose is to determine what organizations in the Bronx will share in the $7,500 set aside for charities in that borough. At the time of the original allotment only a lump sum was decided upon, the baseball people desiring to consult with prominent residents of the Bronx and thus determine which charities were the most deserving.

This inquiry is now finished, and the matter will be closed up today. Colonel Ruppert will submit most of the names, the Giants having only one organization on their list.

TO PLAN FOR TOURNEY.

Committee Will Discuss A. A. U. Wrestling Championship.

Plans for the Metropolitan A. A. U. wrestling championship tournament will be adopted at a meeting of the committee in charge of the event, to be held in the Boys' Club on Friday night. A meeting of the local A. A. U. gymnastic championship committee, headed by Roy H. Moore, will be held at A. A. U. headquarters on Jan. 10 to award the gymnastic championship tournaments and adopt plans for an extensive season. The association has decided to conduct a senior gymnastic championship tournament and a junior title tournament and in addition will conduct a special tournament for non-champions and a girls' tournament.

Williams Honors Golf Captain.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Jan. 2.—The Williams College Athletic Council has honored George B. Secor, '22, of Toledo, Ohio, captain of the varsity golf team last year, by awarding him a "W" as the result of his strong showing in the national intercollegiate golf event last July when he finished runner-up in the tournament.

MAY SEEK NATIONAL BOXING RECOGNITION

N. B. A. Will Consider Proposed Plan at Annual Convention Here Jan. 15 and 16.

A plan to gain national recognition for professional boxing will be one of the matters which will come up for discussion at the third annual convention of the National Boxing Association, to be held at the Hotel Astor on Jan. 15 and 16, according to Secretary Tex O'Rourke. The groundwork already has been laid for legislation at Washington which would attach to the ring sport a national significance, O'Rourke said. Gutzon Borglum, noted sculptor, who is president of the International Sporting Club and an advocate of the plan, according to O'Rourke, has made several visits to Washington and has discussed the project with President Harding and officials of the War and Navy Departments. As yet, however, nothing concrete has come of these discussions, O'Rourke said.

Exactly what method will be employed in the attempt for national recognition for the ring sport is the question that the N. B. A. convention will be asked to decide, O'Rourke said. A possibility mentioned by the association secretary was the appointment of a national head for boxing.

It is expected in this way to remove the opposition to professional boxing in States where the sport is not now legalized, or to lessen the antipathy of the sport's opponents. Secretary O'Rourke declared it likely that if the sport is granted a measure of official recognition it could be elevated to a point never before attained. The objections to the ring sport would be overcome by the fact that the nation's official heads had recognized it, according to O'Rourke.

"The convention will be asked to consider the question of adopting some definite plan under which boxing can be submitted to officials in Washington as qualified for some national recognition," said O'Rourke. "Already work has been started on such a plan. Gutzon Borglum, who is an enthusiastic admirer of boxing, has visited Washington, and in talks with President Harding and officials of the two service departments has discussed the plan. It is possible that at the coming convention some definite and suitable plan for securing this desired recognition will be evolved.

Says Sport Is On High Plane

"Such recognition would serve a two-fold purpose. It would stifle opposition to professional boxing and at the same time encourage States where boxing is not now permitted to look differently on the sport. The association is in a position to testify to the strength of opponents to boxing. These opponents of the sport do not seem to realize that boxing today is conducted on a higher plane than ever before in history, that the improvement is being continued with a steady, progressive, upward trend and that the sport is flourishing under the favorable conditions which exist today.

"The association gave its assistance to attempts made in six or seven States during the past year to legalize boxing, but in as many States efforts to establish the sport were defeated. I am glad to say that we expect legalized boxing in Illinois, Missouri and Tennessee during the coming year, but there are many other States where the sport should be flourishing instead of being prohibited. If success attends the plans under consideration the opposition to boxing probably will be overcome and the path made easier in the campaign to establish the sport all over the country."

Efforts to reach Borglum last night at his home or in Stamford, Conn., were unsuccessful.

Secretary O'Rourke, expressing the attitude of the N. B. A., said he was hopeful the association's membership would be increased at the coming convention by the return of New Jersey to the fold and the affiliation of New York and Massachusetts. New Jersey, O'Rourke said, had not applied for reinstatement during the past year, following its suspension in 1921 for permitting an admission charge of $50 to the Dempsey-Carpentier bout. The association previously had placed a maximum admission charge of $15 on all bouts conducted by the affiliated bodies throughout the country.

Expects New York to Join.

O'Rourke stated further that the association's constitution had been revised and that with modifications of provisions which were objectionable to New York and Massachusetts at the time the N. B. A. was organized, two years ago, and the elimination of other obstacles, it was expected that the New York State Athletic Commission and its contemporary body in the Bay State would come into the fold. According to O'Rourke, both the New York and Massachusetts commissions now can affiliate with the association without affecting their individuality or subordinating their State powers to an independent body. Invitations to attend the convention and join the association have been extended to both boxing boards, O'Rourke said.

Eighteen States where boxing is legalized under the jurisdiction of commissions are members of the N. B. A., and with the addition of New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts the membership roster of State supervising boards will be complete.

The coming convention promises to have an international flavor. Representatives from England, France, Italy, Canada, Australia and Cuba are expected to attend the session.

The report of Walter H. Lisinger, Wisconsin boxing official, who has been President of the N. B. A. since its organization, will disclose that the association has made progress in the achievement of its objective—to elevate and preserve boxing and to protect the sport and its exponents, supporters and promoters. O'Rourke pointed out that, while New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts were not members of the N. B. A., the commissions of the three States nevertheless worked in harmony with the other members of the association in enforcing and observing the rulings of the different bodies, particularly in relation to suspensions. The N. B. A. Secretary pointed to a decrease of from 160 to 60 in the number of suspensions inflicted during the last year as supporting the claim of President Lisinger that the association had a corrective influence on professional boxing throughout the country.

MAY HOLD WRESTLING MATCHES IN ARMORY

Cycle Club Seeks License for Contests at Home of Seventy-First Regiment.

Professional wrestling in a National Guard armory will be revived here soon if the State Athletic Commission issues a license to the Cycle Club, of which Matty Zimmerman is President. An application for a license for the club was submitted to the commission yesterday, together with a letter from Zimmerman and a lease for one year of the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, where it is planned to confine the club's activities exclusively to conducting wrestling exhibitions and matches.

In his letter to Chairman Muldoon, Zimmerman pointed out that there was no club in existence which catered exclusively to wrestling and stressed the necessity for such a club. Chairman Muldoon expressed himself as in accord with the need for a wrestling club. The commission has referred the application for a license and the armory lease to the Attorney General's office for investigation. This is the usual procedure in such cases. If all the commission's requirements are found to have been complied with in the application and lease, Chairman Muldoon said, the license would be issued for wrestling only.

The commission reinstated Carl Tremaine, Cleveland bantamweight, who was indefinitely suspended some time ago. The license of the Columbus A. C. Yankees was removed.

West Virginia Expects Spears Will Coach Eleven Next Fall

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 2.—Completing a circuit of nearly 7,000 miles, the West Virginia football squad returned here today from its Christmas Day game with Gonzaga University at San Diego in time for the reopening of the University Thursday morning. The trip was made with the loss of only one day of school work. The players and Director Stansbury were besieged with questions relative to the Pacific Coast report that Dr. Spears was considering other coaching jobs for next year, but Director Stansbury stated that he was fully convinced that this was a mere rumor, and that, while it was true that no formal contract was signed, Spears was expected to coach the team again in 1923.

TIGERS DEFEATED BY M'GILL ON ICE

McGill University of Toronto defeated Princeton at hockey last night on the Iceland rink by a score of 3 to 2. The Canadians had to come from behind to win. Davis of Princeton was first to score. This was after one minute and twenty seconds of play in the second period. Davis took the puck down the ice alone from behind his own goal and made the count from a scrimmage in front of McGill's goal.

Flanagan, right wing of the Canadians, was the chief figure in their victory. He scored all three of the Canadians' goals in the third period, the first after three minutes and a half of play and the second thirty seconds later, both from scrimmage. Princeton had a man off the ice through penalties when both scores were made. Princeton tied the score at 2 to 2 when Van Gerbig, football star, took a pass from Davis and counted after the last period had been extended to 18 minutes, 30 seconds. The final and victorious score for the Canadians was made by Flanagan with only one minute left to play.

The game was witnessed by a crowd that occupied all available space both on the floor flanking the rink and in the balcony. The Canadians especially were favored by the cheers of a large number of rooters. The game was rough, but the conduct of both teams was always sportsmanlike. The Canadians did the better passing, but the difference in team work was slight. The Orange and Black was the aggressor through the first two periods.

BOSTON A. A. SEXTET TIES TORONTO TEAM

Hockey Game Ends in Deadlock at 2-2 After Two Extra Periods Are Played.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—The Boston Athletic Association hockey team tonight held the crack University of Toronto team to a tie, 2 to 2. The game went two five-minute periods over time. The goals were made by Westman and Hudson for Toronto and Small and Enright for Boston. Enright's tying goal came within 54 seconds of the end of the third 15-minute playing period and when Boston had only five men on the ice. A few seconds before the close of the last of the overtime periods Small dribbled past every Toronto player but the goalkeeper, Thompson, and the latter was able to stop a score only by sitting on the puck.

The line-up:

HOCKEY TEAMS TO CLASH.

St. Nicks and Canadians Will Meet in Iceland Rink Tonight.

The first hockey game in the Eastern League of the United States Hockey Association will be played tonight, starting at 11 o'clock, at the Iceland Rink, with St. Nicholas lining up against the Canadian Club of New York. These two teams have already met twice, with the Canadians victors, but these were practice games. Both teams are in splendid condition and a scrappy contest is anticipated.

The women's metropolitan outdoor championships in ice skating, which were to have been held on New Year's Day at Newburgh, but which were postponed because of the weather conditions, will be held tomorrow evening at Iceland. There will be two events, the quarter-mile championship, taking three and three-quarters laps of the track, and the half-mile, requiring seven and one-half laps of the track. Twenty of the leading women skaters are entered, including Miss Gladys Robinson of Toronto, the Canadian and International speed champion; Miss Elsie Muller of Hoboken, former national and metropolitan champion, and Mrs. Jack Ruping of Troy, N. Y.

HERRMANN TO FIGHT TO RETAIN BENTON

Reds' Owner Writes Sharp Letter to Heydler—Latter Is Non-Committal.

Garry Herrmann's little chat with Ban Johnson and Rube Benton in Cincinnati on Saturday evidently did not improve Garry's temper as regards the disposition of the Benton case. It appears now that the owner of the Reds is determined to wage a bitter fight on behalf of the pitcher whom the National League would like to bar from its lily-white ranks. He has written a letter to President John A. Heydler, and rumor has it that the epistle was not overflowing with the happy holiday spirit. It is said that the tone of the communication was sharp and emphatic.

The Cincinnati magnate undoubtedly got much comfort out of the defense of Benton which John McGraw delivered on Saturday. McGraw took a position on the other side of the fence from Heydler, and Herrmann is now said to have decided to battle to the last ounce, counting on the aid of John J.

President Heydler was non-committal on the Benton case yesterday. "I've said all I intend to say for the present," he declared. "It is now up to the Cincinnati club. They know what the league thinks about the matter, and it is now their turn to take what action they see fit."

"Suppose Cincinnati decides to sign Benton to a contract; would the National League make any move to bar him?" Heydler was asked.

"I'm not going to cross my bridges until I come to them. The league has done everything that it will do for the present. No mail vote will be taken, probably, but the sentiment of the club owners will be learned in a more informal manner."

May Start on Different Days.

President Heydler said that there is a possibility of the major leagues opening their season on different days. As the situation now stands, the National League favors the 17th and the American the 18th. The latter date is the normal one for the opening, but owners in the senior circuit see a crying wrong in the fact that the Giants, if they open in Boston on the 18th, would get the Patriots' Day double header and also the Saturday plum.

Heydler pointed out that there is no compulsion on the leagues to have the same opening date. The amalgament will be ironed out by the joint schedule committee, which will meet at French Lick Springs, Ind., within a few days.

May Deal Not Completed.

"The Jake May deal is still in a state of suspended animation," said Ed Barrow yesterday by way of squelching stories that the Vernon southpaw has already been acquired by the Yankees. "True, I got a definite telegram from Owner Maier of Vernon on Saturday night, but it was definite in the wrong direction. I had expected to have some news on the trade today, but it looks now as if it will be three or four days before anything develops."

The two clubs are still far apart on the question as to which Yankee players will be shipped over the river in exchange for May. At one time Barrow thought that he had all four athletes safely packed for shipment, but a complication developed. Meanwhile Jan. 10 approaches on winged feet, and after that date Vernon may refuse to accept the players unless they receive a guarantee that they will not be subject to the draft.

Giants Have 39 Players.

The Giants have thirty-nine players under contract and will take at least that many to the San Antonio training camp. Seventeen are pitchers and four catchers, leaving eighteen gladiators to fight it out for the infield and outfield posts. McGraw has a number of promising youngsters among his twirlers—Blume, Cvengros, Webb, Morrison and Jack Bentley, who is not exactly a youngster.

Contracts will be sent out about Feb. 1. Ross Youngs, Frank Frisch and Heinie Groh form a neat nucleus of those players who have holdover contracts.

Reports that the Yanks would announce yesterday that the Army-Navy game would be played in their palatial new stadium were scoffed at by Ed Barrow. The Yanks have their fingers crossed and are hoping that the big game comes their way, but the question apparently is still up in the air.

BASEBALL MEN PAY TRIBUTE TO KEELER

McGraw and Heydler Are Among Those Who Pay Famous Old-Time Player.

"The best place hitter I ever saw" was the tribute paid by John J. McGraw yesterday to Willie Keeler, one of the greatest batsmen of all time, who died Monday afternoon at his home, 1,010 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn. For five years McGraw and Keeler were teammates on the famous Baltimore Orioles. Later, for part of one season, "Wee Willie" was under McGraw on the Giants—the last major league club he played for actively.

"What a wonderful hitter Keeler was!" said McGraw. "He could place hits better than any other batter I ever saw. He was also the fastest man going down to first base that I ever watched on a ball field. That was in his prime, when it was child's play for him to beat out bunts and infield grounders. He was one of the best fielders baseball has ever seen, and a tremendous influence on the club—aggressive, smart, dauntless. I am sorry to see him go."

Scores of other tributes came to the Keeler home yesterday. Messages of condolence were received from prominent men in baseball, including Keeler's old teammates at Baltimore and many other old-time players who remembered Willie when he was the most scientific batter in baseball.

President John A. Heydler of the National League made this statement to newspaper men:

"In an age when roughness—and sometimes rowdyism—was almost a virtue in baseball, Willie Keeler was always a gentleman. That strikes me as the most remarkable of his many fine traits. He was a fighter, a never-say-die player, a man who had the will to win ingrained deeply in him. But whatever he did was always done in a clean, gentlemanly manner. He was not an umpire baiter, although he wanted always to win. Keeler's impress on baseball was great."

Funeral services will be held at the Keeler home tomorrow morning, with a requiem mass afterward at the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Putnam and Ralph Avenues, Brooklyn. The mass will be celebrated by Father McGowan, for many years a close friend of Keeler. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery. The Yankees, Giants and Brooklyn Robins, three of Keeler's old teams, and the National and American Leagues will be represented at the services.

Veach Changes Date.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—The first squad of Chicago National players, including the battery men, will depart for Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 17, instead of Feb. 22, as originally announced, President Veach of the Cubs said tonight.

SETTING SUN MAKES SHOW OF HIS FIELD

IS FIRST BY SIX LENGTHS

Amole, at 20 to 1, and Delhi Maid, at 7 to 1, Victors in Mud—"Also Eligibles" Discontinued.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2.—There was no sunshine at the Fair Grounds for patrons or form players today, but Setting Sun, a three-year-old chestnut gelding, provided a bright spot in the drab day for his owner, E. K. Bryson, and a small group of followers, when he scampered home first in the Graduate Purse, carded as the day's feature. The son of Olambala and Sunburst made a show of a field of six, finishing eased up six lengths ahead of Punta Gorda and a full ten in front of Vennie, the favorite. Punta Gorda showed fine speed for three-quarters of the mile distance, but tired from the heavy going and was all through at the end. Vennie apparently took no liking to the muddy track and was a grievous disappointment to the form followers.

The failure of the favorites began in the first race when the winner turned up in Amole, a 20 to 1 shot, which slashed home four lengths in the van of Prince Til Til, the choice among the eleven which accepted the issue. Rupee ran a fair race and got the short end of the purse.

Seven to one was the price paid on the winner of the second contest. This was Delhi Maid. She liked the mud and, well handled by Lyke, took the lead at the turn and just outstayed Minute Man. The latter went wide at the turn into the stretch, else the result might have been vastly different.

The finish of the third race was closer still. In this contest Mom, an outsider at 20 to 1, apparently had things all her own way, when only a few strides from the finish Hadrian came again and got up in time to win by a nose. Harvey, who had the leg up on Mom, had been so sure of the victory that he had let the filly's head down and this contributed to her defeat.

The stewards today announced that the also eligible list had been discontinued and that fourteen entries would be accepted for future races, six of which might be scratched, but that no further scratches could be made except by special consent of the stewards.

HAVANA, Jan. 2.—First-time starters of the meeting accounted for two races at Oriental Park this afternoon when Erica won the opening event for Frank Frisbie and Immokalee won the third event for John Walters, both in easy fashion. Both horses trailed the pace-makers to the stretch turn, where they assumed their respective leads to win in hand.

CRESCENT A. C. FIVE DEFEATS CANADIANS

New Mooners Win From University of Toronto, 38 to 22, in Rough Contest.

The Crescent Athletic Club's basketball team triumphed last night over the University of Toronto five by a score of 38 to 22 at the Crescent court. The Canadians showed that they have the making of a strong team, but their throwing was not of the best. They frequently missed easy baskets. The game was rough and hard fought. Taylor, for Toronto, went in as a substitute for Duffill in the second half and lasted less than thirty seconds, being injured in the first play in which he engaged, and giving way to Caple. Crescent led at the end of the first half by a score of 21 to 8 and scored seven points before the Canadians were able to locate the basket for their first tally.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Cornell defeated the University of Rochester basketball team in the last five minutes of the game here tonight, 37 to 23, after Rochester had led by a slight margin throughout the most of the contest. Rochester took the lead on field baskets for Brugler and Kirschmaier at the outset, and maintained it until the last minute of the first period when foul goals by Luther put the visitors in the lead, 12 to 11.

H.P. Whitney Leads Nominators For Pimlico Futurity of 1925

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 2.—Many interesting nominations for the 1925 Pimlico Futurity are disclosed in the list made public today by the Maryland Jockey Club.

Samuel D. Riddle has named ten mares bred to Man O' War, the three-year-old champion of 1921, and Walter M. Jeffords has named six bred to the "Wonder Horse of the Age." Mrs. Jeffords nominated seven mares bred to Man o' War, the J. K. L. Ross, the Canadian sportsman, listed mares bred to Sir Barton and Cudgel. Harry Payne Whitney was the largest nominator to the 1925 Futurity, having named 102 mares. The Pimlico Futurity was established two years ago.

BILLY SHADE WINS OVER WOLF LARSEN

Gets Decision in Featured Bout at the Pioneer Club—George Shade Is Knocked Out.

Billy Shade, California light-heavyweight, gave a boxing lesson to the rugged Magnus (Wolf) Larsen of Brooklyn, last night in the main bout of ten rounds at the Pioneer A. C., It was the second meeting of the season between the two boxers and was practically a duplication of their previous clash. When the bout ended Shade was awarded the decision. The Californian out-boxed and out-generaled his rival in convincing fashion.

Save for the first round Larsen did not threaten to become dangerous. He stung Shade in the opening session when the Californian, surprised by the onward rushes of his Brooklyn rival, absorbed some hefty punches on the side of the head and face. In the second round and through the third and fourth sessions Larsen proceeded with a vigorous assault, which, however, was quite ineffective because of the wildness of the Brooklynite. After the fourth session Larsen served only as a receiving station for an assortment of punches rained on him by Shade.

The Californian, encouraged as Larsen weakened under the strain of his own earlier exertions, cleverly and convincingly out-boxed the Brooklynite in every round from the fifth to the tenth. Larsen was willing and at times lashed out blindly in desperate attempts to offset the superior boxing of his lad from the coast, but Shade's speed, cleverness and ring generalship effectively thwarted Larsen's efforts.

In scoring his victory Billy upheld the fighting prestige of his family. His brother, George Shade, grown into a rather slow light-heavyweight, made a sorry mess of his efforts in this direction in the semi-final number. George was pitted against Mike Burke, heavy-hitting Greenwich Village light-heavyweight in the semi-final bout scheduled for ten rounds. The contest ended after 50 seconds of the eighth session with Referee Johnny Gallagher counting the fatal ten seconds over Shade.

Danny Rose, Brooklyn middleweight, won the decision over Bobby Lyons of the Bronx in the other ten-round bout. Lyons substituted for Al Boyle, and was outclassed throughout. In the six-round contest Jack Tillyou, west side middleweight, won the decision over Howard Hall. Joe Lewis, Harlem heavyweight, gained the decision over Alex Sellar, former amateur champion in the opening four-round bout, which was Sellar's first professional contest.

A. A. U. BANS BOXING IN CLEVELAND RINGS

Will Permit No Amateurs to Compete There Until 'Housecleaning' Is Made.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 2.—No further permits to conduct amateur boxing bouts in Cleveland will be issued by the Allegheny Mountain Association of the Amateur Athletic Union until there is a thorough "housecleaning" there, the Registration Committee of the A. A. U. decided here today.

William B. Haddock, President of the A. M. A., said the committee had learned that Cleveland promoters were staging "so-called amateur bouts" without the sanction of the union and without registering boxers. Prizes outside those called for by A. A. U. rules were awarded, he added.

Sport Abolished Entirely.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2.—The decision of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the Amateur Athletic Union not to issue any more permits for amateur bouts here virtually means a death knell to boxing in Cleveland. The professional game has been under the ban for some time.

The announcement from Pittsburgh was received here with a shock. Promoters say they are at a loss to understand the decision, as they claim their shows have been conducted according to the rules and regulations of the A. A. U.

YALE AND HARVARD CLUBS VICTORIOUS

Defeat Montclair and Heights Casino Teams, Respectively, at Class B Squash.

Team.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Yale Club	7	0	1.000
Harvard Club	6	1	.857
Montclair A. C.	4	4	.500
Heights Casino	1	6	.143
New York A. C.	0	7	.000

The Yale and Harvard Club teams were the winners yesterday afternoon in the two squash tennis matches played in the Class B race of the Metropolitan League. The Yale Club, playing on its home courts, defeated the Montclair Athletic Club, by a score of 5 to 2, and the Harvard Club, also playing at home, won seven straight matches from the Heights Casino team. The results strengthen the lead of the two victorious clubs upon first and runner-up positions in the second section of the tournament so that it is certain they will enter the final round-robin with the D. K. E. and Princeton Clubs for the title, no matter what happens in next week's matches in Section 2. The race in Section 1 was completed last week.

G. L. Smith, H. P. Davidson, E. A. Guggenheim and C. P. Goodhue won their matches for the Yale Club in straight games, while D. M. Blodget was extended to an extra game to take the measure of C. A. Hipkins of Montclair. The two Montclair winners were J. Graham Waldron, who defeated S. S. Walker by 18—14, 18—12, and R. E. Luchars, who won the decision over Ralph W. Wolf by 3—15, 15—11, 18—13. This was not only the closest match of the afternoon, but it also contained some of the longest rallies with both men hitting hard and making good use of the angles.

Five of the victories for the Harvard Club over Heights Casino were registered in straight games. R. C. Rand, Geoffrey Taylor, Grover O'Neill, J. A. Milholland and P. E. Stevenson won them. G. Henderson, a newcomer on the Crimson seven, was the winner over E. B. Vollmer, by 15—6, 9—15, 15—6, and the closest match of all was captured by A. Musgrave Hyde, brother of the former national champion, from R. L. Carter by scores of 18—16, 14—17, 15—12. A trifling difference in the matter of steady getting enabled the Harvard man to keep his team's record clear of defeats. Hyde was hard pressed at all stages and the match was a pretty one to watch. Both men were skillful in playing for position and both had good finishing shots. The match was exciting down to the last long rally.

The summaries:

BIG WELCOME FOR GOLFERS PLANNED

Elaborate preparations are being made by Pittsburgh golfers for the entertainment of those who attend the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association, according to word which has been received by New York officials of the association. The meeting will be held on Saturday, Jan. 13, and, inasmuch as it is the first time that the city of iron and steel has been so honored, knights of the niblick who are residents of that centre are anxious to give the delegates such a reception that Pittsburgh will again be faverably considered in the future as the place for the annual session.

According to present indications, every section of the country will be represented at the coming meeting. New York will doubtless have the largest delegation, but a number of representatives will be present from Chicago, Washington and St. Louis, in addition to the Pennsylvanians.

Billiard Results.

The opening game in the amateur championship preliminary tournament at pocket billiards promoted by the New York Billiard Room Owners' Association was played last night at Doyle's Broadway rooms, John Hampton defeating John McGrath by a score of 50 to 34. Hampton made a high run of 25, which virtually won the contest for him, as he was far in the rear when he made the run. There are twenty entries in this event, which will be an elimination affair until there are six survivors. The six will play a round robin, and the two finishing first and second will represent Doyle's in the final.

The final round matches in the Manhattan handicap pocket billiard tournament at the Recreation Academy, Manhattan, were started last night, J. R. Miller meeting Martin Ackerman and defeating him by a score of 50 to 34. Ackerman, a scratch man, was playing for 75 points. Ackerman found his stroke too late in the game to win. The score was 35 to 30 in Miller's favor, when Ackerman began to pile up the points. Both men had high runs of 15. Tonight's match in this tournament will be between Frank Deegan and Morris Bloomgarden.

Clifford Bash defeated Joseph Van Tassell in the Class A amateur three-cushion billiard tournament at Thum's Academy last night by a score of 35 to 28. The game ran sixty-eight innings. Bash led throughout and had two high runs of 4 each to one run of 4 for his opponent. H. Frantzen and H. Jarrett are scheduled to play tonight in the same tournament.

Edward O'Brien defeated H. B. Towbis by 100 to 37 last night in the pocket billiard tournament at Cranfield's Academy for the amateur championship of the Washington Heights district. The winner had a high run of 15 and the loser one of 13. The game consumed thirty-six innings. C. A. Vaughan is at present the leader in this tournament with three games won and no defeats.

The final and play-off match in the Class C 18.2 balkline billiard tournament at Lawler Brothers' Academy in Brooklyn was won last night by Joseph Hosch from George E. Steinbugler by a score of 100 to 69. Hosch averaged 3 22-26 and Steinbugler 2 19-25. The winner's high run was 13 and the loser's 11. Both players, prior to this match, had won seven games and lost one. Play will start tonight at Lawler Brothers' Academy in the straight rail tournament for the championship of Brooklyn with the following entries: E. McGill, F. Hammer, Dr. C. W. Kramer, Joseph Hosch, S. A. Eickell, J. H. Clemens, J. Paddock, E. Cresler, S. A. Cash, J. Lobardon, S. Muggard and W. Chase.

Moving Out Used

Studebaker Cars

To Make Room for New Ones

THERE'S a whole lot of difference—to the purchaser particularly—in buying just a "second-hand car" from a man whose sole business that is and a used car from its original manufacturer.

The difference lies in the fact that you are bound to get full value from the manufacturer.

His used cars go out with the same name on the radiator that his brand new cars carry.

He knows very well that if a used car with his name on it—a name that is worth millions as an asset—goes wrong, his new car business suffers.

The dissatisfied, unhappy owner immediately begins to kick and he kicks about the name on his car. He always neglects to say that it is a used car of that make.

It is only common sense for a great manufacturer like Studebaker to thoroughly re-condition every used Studebaker that goes out.

We have been putting a great deal of time on this work. When they go to their new owners they are in splendid shape—ready to deliver the thousands of miles which have been built into them at the factories.

This is a new year and our new cars are coming in. They demand the space on the floor now held by used cars. The sun has begun to come north again and it won't be many weeks before spring is here. Meanwhile there are on our floor many closed cars, perfectly adapted to winter driving and even the open cars with their tight-fitting curtains are most comfortable on wintry days.

As examples of supreme value with the great Studebaker name behind them we leave it to you to decide if any more attractive purchases have ever been offered on Broadway.

We have cars to fit any pocketbook from $200 to $2,000.

EXECUTIVE VIGOR.

The exchange of courtesies between Governor MILLER and Governor SMITH at the inauguration of the latter was obviously sincere and such as befitted the occasion. In welcoming and congratulating his successor, Governor MILLER dwelt upon one aspect of the duties of an Executive which is too often overlooked. He remarked that in addition to the legal powers vested in the Governor, it was his privilege to exert a personal influence which might extend throughout the entire public administration.

This is the almost indefinable and certainly the incommunicable talent of the born executive. Governor MILLER possessed it in a high degree. Putting aside for the moment all that he did in recommending and securing legislation, he displayed a vigor and a vigilance as Chief Executive of the State which toned up all his subordinate officials. If they were inclined to be lax and laggard they at once felt the drive of the Governor's energetic spirit. Some heads of departments at first protested that they could not possibly do what Mr. MILLER asked of them in striving for rigid economy and heightened efficiency, but they soon found a way under the steady pressure from him. Such executive ability, permeating the whole organization of the State, is a part of the record of Governor MILLER which Governor SMITH will find it easiest to admire and envy, but hardest to duplicate.

GERMANY'S OFFER.

It would be an excess of suspicion to question absolutely the sincerity of Germany in her new approach to France and the other nations. It is only fair to the present German Government at least to assume that it honestly desires to establish peace, to win a breathing space for recuperation, and to promise such payments in reparation as it believes the Reich can meet without too severe a strain. But when this has been granted, as it must be in common charity, the fact stares every one in the face that the Germans set about their latest diplomatic manoeuvre with a large amount of their old clumsiness. However well meant the offer to France may have been, it was made with such awkwardness, and with so maladroit a failure to anticipate its effect, that rejection by the French was inevitable.

It is clear, also, to every mind except the German, that the proposal to France of an agreement not to make war was intended to influence public opinion in other countries. This purpose is revealed with a charming innocence in the particular offer not to go to war until after hostilities had been decreed by a popular vote. This looks unmistakably in the direction of WILLIAM J. BRYAN, Senator LA FOLLETTE and other American happy-thought improvisers of everlasting peace. The net impression of the whole German gesture is that it was an ostentatious bid for praise from the former enemies of Germany, with the implication that it would expose France to the reproach of being implacable in her militarism. "See how "ready we are to give every pledge of "peace," the German Government seems to have been saying, "but "note how hard-hearted is France in "brusquely repelling our advances."

The German proposal ought not to have been declined simply because it was made with so much of what DISRAELI used to call "Batavian grace." Diplomats who really want to do business must be dealt with even if they trip over their own spurs. And the French Government did not stick at the mere form of the German advances. It had solid reasons to give, going to the substance of the matter, why it could not entertain the German proffer. It asked with force why it should be requested to enter into a new agreement with Germany when she was not living up to her existing agreements. As for peaceful intentions, France asserted that she, too, cherished them, and that if Germany would only take the necessary steps to qualify for admission to the League of Nations, both nations would then be signatories to a treaty binding them to a policy of non-aggression. Meanwhile there was the indispensable preliminary question of German reparations, and it was essential that the German Government address itself seriously to that subject before venturing into new diplomatic fields.

The German Government has agreed to this view so far as to send an agent to Paris to try to arrive at a final settlement of the reparations dispute. Here, too, it may be conceded that the attitude of the Cuno Ministry is sincere. It doubtless heartily desires to put an end to uncertainties and to secure for Germany the respite and the resources necessary if she is to put her financial house in order. But something more than sincerity is needful. There must be a firm grasp of realities. Germany must perceive what her position truly is. If she frankly admits her fault and her ensuing obligation, and will give guarantees of good behavior in the future during which she will live up to her pledges, the conference in Paris may lead to results more positive and satisfying than any attained by its several predecessors since the armistice.

SECRETARY FALL RESIGNS.

It can hardly be pretended by any that the resignation of Secretary FALL will weaken the Harding Administration. On the face of the announcement there lies the hint that the Secretary of the Interior has suffered disappointments in office. These probably had as much to do with his impending retirement as has that "pressure of private business interests" which is given as the reason. It has been no secret that Mr. FALL from the first had an exaggerated idea of the influence which he expected to have with the President. His friends represented him as having accepted the Interior Department only as a consolation prize, in the confidence that he would always be closely consulted in all the great affairs of State. The event did not sustain this illusion; and when, in the Administration's plans for reorganizing the Government departments, Secretary FALL discovered that his advice was not taken, and his official prestige was lowered rather than heightened, he naturally began to think of those personal concerns which he had too long neglected. As a private citizen again, everybody will wish him well.

A GOOD YEAR'S WORK.

District Attorney BANTON's report of his first year in office is a record of remarkable industry, faithfulness to duty and solid achievement. When he took office, 2,087 criminal cases were pending. These have been disposed of with the exception of 938; and the adjournment of the Court of General Sessions for the ten days before Jan. 1 is responsible for a little of this unfinished business. Mr. BANTON says:

> So well oiled is the machinery of the office at this time that a man arrested in the morning for a crime of violence can be indicted the same day. He can be tried and, if convicted, can be placed in Sing Sing within a week. In some cases such speedy trials and convictions actually have taken place.

The District Attorney made extraordinary efforts last Spring to punish and abate crimes of violence. Governor MILLER and the Legislature gave him the additional court facilities he asked. Two additional parts of General Sessions were created and two special criminal terms of the Supreme Court were held. In about a month more than 1,000 cases were disposed of. In most of them pleas of guilty were entered. The activity in the District Attorney's office and the severe sentences imposed by the courts had a salutary effect. A criminal is much more likely to "take a chance" when he knows that it will be a year or even two years before he can be put to trial. If he is to be tried a week or two after his arrest, his professional privileges are gone; and Mr. BANTON has sometimes followed the excellent policy of giving a speedier trial to the criminal out on bail and free to resume his profession than to the prisoner in jail and therefore temporarily harmless.

Burglaries, robberies, all crimes of violence, particularly if they are sensational and there seems to be a recurrent cycle of them, fix the public attention; but people forget the great number of cases of commercial fraud that arise in this county, the financial capital of the United States. Fraudulent trade acceptances, fraudulent claims against insurance companies, fraudulent statements by which credits or goods have been obtained—the list is long and the cases are often complex and require a considerable time for trial. Again, every now and then a committee of the Legislature makes a report of conditions here, and a new batch of criminal indictments for conspiracy and what not has to be tried.

In 1922 the District Attorney secured the conviction of more than twenty of those inveterate pluckers of gulls, the bucketshop keepers; and there will always be more to come. Mr. BANTON has done a mighty good year's work. He deserves the thanks of the public. We have criticised him when we thought he deserved it, and may have to do so again. None the less heartily we say to him, Good for you, and keep at it!

THE CITY'S COLLEGES.

The tradition is that when the people of Leyden, after their heroic defense of their city under William of Orange, were offered the choice between a university and a certain exemption from taxes, they chose the university. The people of New York have chosen as wisely in maintaining their two colleges which are open without fee, the one to the young men and the other to the young women of this city. During the last few years, their scope and their direct service to the city have been greatly enlarged. It is stated that over twenty thousand are in attendance by day or by night upon courses given at the City College alone. If the people today were specifically asked to choose, as they were in 1847 and as they were through their representatives in 1877, between the continuance of such institutions and the reduction of their taxes by the amount of the annual budgets of the two colleges, the answer would be overwhelmingly in favor of the colleges. They are among the highest testimonials to the real greatness of this city of millions. When democracies begin to pull down their educational institutions their own destruction is foretold.

Our Mayor says that no hostility toward the colleges is to be inferred from his attitude toward the salaries of the administrative heads and of the teachers. But it was because the City Administration stood in the way of proper increases in the salaries of the men and women directing or teaching in these colleges that it became necessary to go to the Legislature to compel the granting of such increases. Salaries in the City College, at any rate, had not been raised appreciably, if at all, since 1907. Yet the schedules throughout the entire educational system of the city and State had been raised. These alone of all the teachers in the city were without increases in a time of greatly heightened cost of living. The city officials stood in the way of making the efficient existence of these institutions possible, except at great sacrifice on the part of the teachers. It was then and not till then that the people through their representatives in Albany secured that which their representatives here had repeatedly refused.

As for the President's occupation of the college house, purchased long before his time and for the very purpose of making the President more accessible to the Faculty and students, it is certainly unfair and unsportsmanlike, to say the least, to hold him guilty of any impropriety in living where he is expected if not required officially to live. The Mayor will not have to travel far to find other college or university Presidents occupying houses provided by their institutions. But the pity of it all is that the Mayor of this great city should even appear to asperse and injure the institutions which are the symbols of the city's nobility of aspiration and the agents of its higher development.

AN UNSATISFACTORY IMMIGRATION LAW.

Could the Three Per Cent. Immigration law be changed for the better? Representative JOHNSON of Washington would argue that it could, by reducing the quota to 2 per cent. Mr. GOMPERS says that he is entirely satisfied with 3 per cent., because "it "gives the working man a chance to "get a job at a living wage," but he would lose no sleep if the quota were wiped out altogether. The very fact that Representative JOHNSON was recently drafting a 2 per cent. bill with the sanction of the Secretary of Labor indicates that the followers of Mr. GOMPERS are not satisfied with the present law. The Commissioner General of Immigration, Mr. W. W. HUSBAND, has made some sensible observations about the law as it stands:

> I am inclined to the opinion that it would be entirely possible to continue the basic number of immigrants at a minimum, and then provide for modifications that would meet the actual needs of the country. We might develop administrative machinery that would serve to invite those actually needed, whether for farming, for industry or for any other activity in the United States.

The New York Board of Trade came out in a report the other day for selective immigration without regard to a quota. Selective immigration with a quota might be embodied in legislation. Congress is set for restriction. But the New York Board of Trade report hits the nail on the head when it says that "without unskilled labor "the heart-beat of our country's ac-"tivities will stop." Secretary MELLON thinks that the country's need is not immigrants who become small merchants and peddlers, but sturdy workmen who can swing a pick, wield a shovel and trundle a barrow. A speaker at the American Farm Bureau Federation's annual meeting had the shortage of farm labor in mind when he said that "what the country needs "is more producers and fewer peddlers."

The present immigration law has not functioned satisfactorily, although Congress spared neither labor nor pains upon the original bill. Only two Senators voted no on it, only forty Representatives. Most of the latter came from districts where the foreign-born voters are in great strength. In what respects the law has been a disappointment a committee of the National Association of Manufacturers submits in a report that was the result of two years of study. The committee declares that prosperity is menaced by "the "present emergency of depleted labor "caused by the restrictions of the "law." Amendment is asked to admit needed laborers. The report calls for a quota in terms of net immigration. In the last fiscal year 309,556 immigrant aliens were admitted and 198,712 emigrant aliens left the country. The net immigration was therefore only 110,844. It is urged that the Secretary of Labor should be authorized, upon evidence of a continuing shortage of labor of a particular class, "to admit otherwise "admissible aliens in excess of the "quota until in his judgment such "condition is improved." It is also proposed that physical examination be made at the point where passports are visaed; also, that the literacy test be omitted and reserved as a naturalization requirement; that "the "United States assert the right to "register, distribute and educate and "otherwise supervise the alien during "the period of his alienage."

President JOHN E. EDGERTON of the Manufacturers' Association declares that "unless rough labor is to be had "in the basic industries, many skilled "workers cannot be utilized," and that without such labor railroad expansion, extension and repairs will be impracticable. Similar reports come from leaders in many industries. The Manufacturers' Association advocates selective immigration as of the utmost importance. There is no reason why it can't go hand in hand with rational restriction.

FARM CREDIT PROGRESS.

The multiplicity of farmers' bills in Congress has one advantage. It has forced a struggle for life of the fittest among them. Secretary MELLON's letter ought to end all suggestions for putting the Government, or Government money, into banking for any class. There is nothing Government is less fitted for than dealing with such matters of discretion as credit and deposit currency. The pressure upon officials for more money by the embarrassed is irresistible. Just now the farmers need higher prices for what they sell, and lower prices for what they buy, more than they need money, or cheaper credit, or lower railway rates. The very dissensions in the farm bloc show that they know neither what the trouble is nor how to remedy it.

When Secretary MELLON and War Finance Director MEYER agree with each other, and are reinforced by Senator CAPPER, the farm bloc would be well advised to follow their leadership. The country does not wish the Government to set itself up as a gigantic middleman, financing and regulating the distribution of farm products. Neither would it be pleased with banks specifically for the farmers. No system of farm banking which calls for higher taxes, or tax exemptions, or arbitrary nationalization of credit, deserves anything but such condemnation as that of Secretary MELLON.

Mr. MEYER gives valuable advice how to strengthen the Federal Reserve in a manner helpful to farmers. He points out that there are 9,640 country banks eligible for Federal Reserve membership, but which are not members. They have resources a little larger than those of the State banks and trust companies which are members of the system, or about nine billions. The farmers do their banking mostly with these country banks, and if the latter were to secure rediscount rights by membership in the Federal Reserve there could be no complaint of scarcity of farmers' credit. Secretary MELLON and Mr. MEYER add one item to this program of farm credit. They concede the force of Senator CAPPER's argument that the cattle industry needs particular accommodation because its trade period runs into years. All told, the plan is liberal and safe. It should hold the field against any sort of political banking.

NEW YEAR'S NEWS FROM RUSSIA.

Mr. HOOVER, reporting as Secretary of Commerce at the beginning of the new year, pointed hopefully to the fact that "Bolshevism has greatly "diminished and even in Russia has "been replaced by a mixture of so-"cialism and individualism." Simultaneously, Mr. HOOVER's American Relief Administration stated informally that it had fed ten million people in Russia and that the famine was checked; also that the Russian people were much cheered up by learning that "America sympathizes with their distress."

One would hardly get that impression from a sermon delivered by Brother TROTZKY last week at a meeting of the Communist members of the Soviet Congress. TROTZKY sympathizes with America's distress. America is still "the Babylonian tower of capitalism," but the great and glorious world revolution is on the way, and when it sweeps over Europe the Babylonian tower will fall, too, and everybody will be happy in the Communist millennium. It might be asked who will feed Russia when the blessings of communism have been imposed on America. But that's easy for TROTZKY. He warns his Russian brethren that they will have to be ready to feed Europe after the great European revolution has arrived, "be-"cause America will refuse to give "bread to the revolutionary prole-"tariat of Western Europe." Nobody would know from this speech that America has been giving bread to the revolutionary, or revolutionized, proletariat of Russia. For TROTZKY that fact does not exist. He lives in a joyous ecstasy; he sees visions of Russia feeding herself, and dreams dreams of Russia feeding a revolutionary Europe while all the boys get together for one last push to overthrow the Babylonian tower of capitalism on this side of the Atlantic.

You would hardly think it was the same TROTZKY who sent a cheer-up New Year's message to the Osaka Mainichi about Russo-Japanese relations. Nothing in that message about the Babylonian tower of capitalism. TROTZKY is enthusiastic for brotherhood, union, the education of non-Russian peoples and disarmament. He calls attention to the fact that Russia has twice proposed reduction of armies all round, but her neighbors have "preferred empty phrases about moral disarmament."

It is fashionable to suppose that this is the real TROTZKY, and that the orator at the Communist revival meeting was merely trying to cheer up the faint-hearted brethren who are getting tired of waiting for the world revolution. But is this the case? Why has the world revolution been postponed? Because the Russian brethren can't put it over. They had to eat before they could go forward to overthrow the Babylonian tower of capitalism; but having persuaded us to feed them on the surplus accumulated in the Babylonian tower, they hope to recover their strength and overthrow us later on. So long as the rulers of Russia are of this opinion moral disarmament is not exactly an empty phrase.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

We'd Best Let Well Enough Alone.

Nobody who has given the matter any attention can deny that there is merit in the old proposal, now repeated by the New York Chamber of Commerce, to change the year from twelve months to thirteen of twenty-eight days each. Several obvious conveniences would result, but they are mostly of the sort that appeals to lovers of regularity for its own sake, and the often mentioned inconveniences of the Gregorian system really are not felt to an appreciable degree by anybody else.

To justify an alteration in a long established system more is required than the existence in it of slight imperfections; it also is necessary to balance the amount of trouble these imperfections cause against that which would follow the abandonment for an admittedly better one of a system with which everybody is familiar, and to which innumerable other things have been adjusted. It is almost appalling to think how many millions of dates in how many millions of books and documents would be made "wrong" if the plan to which the Chamber of Commerce is asked to give formal approval were to be adopted the world over.

When, in the eighteenth century, the error into which the Julian calendar had fallen was cured, no little confusion for no little time resulted, but the change from Old Style to New Style was nothing to what a change from twelve to thirteen months would be. Inevitably, some nations would refuse to accept the innovation, and thus would confusion be worse confounded. One of the recalcitrants, most likely, would be Great Britain, which has refused even to count its money by tens, a reform for which much better, or at least much stronger, arguments are presented than can be offered in behalf of the thirteen-month year.

He Needn't Fear Persecution.

Commendable calmness of mind is shown by the members of the city's medical profession for whom Dr. CHARLES L. DANA, as Chairman of a subcommittee of the Academy of Medicine, has spoken in regard to M. EMILE COUE. They are not at all excited by the prospect of his speedy arrival, they do not fear or hate him and they are willing to hear what he has to say and to see what he does. That, of course, is the right attitude, though the New York doctors all know what M. COUE will say and do, as he is just now one of the world's best-advertised personages, and his form of occultism is wrapped in no secrecy or mystery.

According to Dr. DANA, as reported, he and his colleagues will object only if M. COUE holds clinics and prescribes drugs; he can lecture as much as he pleases about auto-suggestion.

That is a little hard to understand, for Dr. DANA would be among the very last to admit that nothing except the prescription of drugs is "the practice of medicine," and nobody knows any better than he that M. COUE cannot practice medicine legally in this State, or anywhere in this country for that matter, until after he has passed examinations which he certainly will not even attempt to pass.

The druggist of Treves and later of Nancy is not himself a person at all alarming. It is not to be forgotten, however, that he does, or did while at home, claim competence to discriminate between maladies which can be treated successfully by his system of suggestion and those which are beyond its power to cure or relieve. That is, or in some cases may be, a source of serious danger to the invalid who consult him, for such diagnosis often requires all the skill and knowledge of the regularly educated physician.

What Will Maine Say to It?

A Washington correspondent of The New York Tribune tells a truly interesting tale to the effect that certain of our prohibition leaders recently approached the British Government, or an official in it, with the proposal that the British West Indies be given to the United States in payment of England's war debt to us.

The desire of the prohibitionists was to shut off the stream of assorted alcoholics now coming from those islands, and they naturally didn't think of asking either whether this country wants those unprofitable possessions or whether England would pay her debts with them. Anyhow, they were told, according to The Tribune's correspondent, that England didn't do business that way, and especially that she wouldn't sell any of her subjects into "the slavery of prohibition."

That sounds rather solemn—and a little offensive—but the British official must have a sense of humor, for while he rejected in seeming indignation the proposal made to him, he is quoted as saying that though England was not in the real estate business, she often had consented to readjustments of territory and that if she were approached with an offer to give Maine and her all-Winter ports to Canada in return for the British West Indies, a bargain might be arranged.

That would be a fine scheme indeed! It will not be regarded as funny by the inhabitants of Maine, but the rest of us can laugh at it as a brilliant example of answering according to their folly those who are—well, of the kind that deserves thus to be answered.

Flying Fast With Small Engines.

When a German airplane, manned by Germans, came flying across the North Sea on Monday and landed in Kent, the observers of its arrival must have had many thoughts about the days when ships of the air thus manned were frequent visitors, and something more than unwelcome. Seemingly they kept their thoughts to themselves, however, and the dispatch announcing the resumption of aerial traffic between England and Germany gives most attention to the fact that the Germans, limited by the terms of their surrender to the use of small engines in airplanes, have succeeded in building machines thus equipped that fly as fast and carry as many passengers as do those with almost twice the power.

That is an achievement of which Germans are quite capable. They are wonderful adapters and improvers of inventions made by others.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Civilization intended to make us all better, more gentle and less material, but has not done its perfect work in the year past. Even here at its centre there are people savage and brutal and without consideration for others.

Commerce and business are supposed "to feed the hungry and clothe the naked" and fill the world with prosperity and peace, but the grafter and profiteer get in their work, hinder the beneficent work of business and commerce and make the hungry hungrier, the poor poorer and the middle class angry by high prices and poor goods.

Even prohibition is not perfect. It is meant to make a man, or a nation, "healthy, wealthy and wise," but some say "it makes me sick," others "it makes me poor at $100 a case," and still others "it makes cowards of us all."

What shall we say to these things? Shall we say "there is none good, no, not one," or that "all men are liars"? Or shall we say "it is all in all, spite of war, petty statesmanship, greed and selfishness, this old world is becoming a new world"? We believe that 1923 will make a vast stride into a better and brighter civilization.

A Place for Germany.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Richard M. Hurd, in THE TIMES of Dec. 28, says: "Keeping Germany down is the one avenue of escape from the dread of another war." Germany may come under the habitual criminal act, as Mr. Hurd intimates, but, if "the rest of the world will not be prosperous unless Germany is prosperous," there must always be a place among the civilized nations of the world for even a habitual criminal nation.

VIAE NOVAE.

New roads ahead! How kind the high gods are!
New gates unbarred! New pilgrimages set!
New dawns, and noons, and twilights! Ay, indeed.
"Old things have passed away." Lo—all is new!

A chime, a knell, a promise—and withal,
"Old things have passed. Behold, all things are new!"

Nay, solemn rather — meditant and grave.
New roads ahead? Approach them fearfully!
Pitfalls, unwary feet will ever find!

On other shores, for here all things are new.
Old fears, old superstitions, they are dead.
Old hates, old anguishes and old regrets—
These we have cast away. Old wars are done.
Of burdens borne so many a weary mile,
New songs begin, new stars, new fragrant winds—
New sunsets and new silvered, purpled nights!
And therefore, yes! "Wild bells, to the wild sky!"

We laugh, and end our laughing with a sob.
Those roads—new roads ahead—how far they go!
How full they are with all we have to do!
How joyous full, they wind and wind away.
How fair they are — clean-swept and sanded white,
Waiting the footsteps of courageous feet.
We sob, and end our sobbing in a laugh.
New hopes to hearten us, new fleets of dreams;
New blessed silences—a new content.
New cups to quaff, new magic of the May!
New breath of roses and new piper's tunes.
Yes, Poet, yes! "Wild bells—to the wild sky!"

We buckle on our sandals. They are white.
Scrip for the journeying? A meagre store
Of trifling coins—they are but little worth.
For the new ways are highroads of the gods,
Along their course there is not any lack.
So—wild bells, ring! Ring on! With happy cries
In breathless rapture, let us take our way!
On—through the unbarred gates! For Paradise

GENERAL WOOD'S MESSAGE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Those who have asked what motive had Leonard Wood to sacrifice the headship of a great university for a tour of duty in the Oriental tropics may read their answer in his message as Governor General to the Sixth Filipino Legislature now in session.

The message reveals a deep study of the delicate problem of governing, guiding and developing an alien people, a thorough knowledge of their desires and their needs, an honest sympathy with their ambitions but no tolerance of mischievous delusions. General Wood sounds a note of hope:

"I also congratulate you on the excellent condition of public order throughout the Archipelago. Life and property have been safe and the conduct of the people characterized by respect for the law. * * * I am confident that we have passed through the period of greatest depression and that better times are ahead."

Then a note of caution: "Hard work, thrift and self-help are the agencies to which we must look for relief. There must be less paternalism on the part of the Insular Government and a greater degree of self-help and local initiative on the part of municipalities and provinces."

The finances are treated briefly. The bond issue of $45,000,000 gold, which has rescued the Treasury from the disastrous operations of the Philippine Bank, has imposed upon property owners the hardship of an increased though light taxation. The Government is admonished to get out of business and the lesson is sternly laid down that the gold standard must be maintained and no diversion allowed of appropriations or loans from specified objects.

To the inhabitants he appeals to return to the practices of sanitation prevailing under the old commission, from which they have so lapsed that infant mortality in the islands approximates 32 per cent. in the first year of life, and malaria, smallpox and tuberculosis have increased, though leprosy is being successfully dealt with. Administration of justice is being brought back to the old standards, and education, the passionate desire of every young Filipino, is well supported. Agriculture, forestry, land tenure and fisheries are luminously if succinctly discussed, while emphasis is laid on the need of change in the burdensome coastwise shipping laws of the United States applicable in the islands.

As to the policy of Government operation, General Wood says: "I am of the opinion that it should adopt as a general principle centralization of policy, supervision and inspection, with decentralization of execution."

This review of a Philippine program tells us why a man of General Wood's capacity, strength and tenacity refuses to leave his hard but enticing task unfinished. He would refit and refloat the craft he has saved from administrative shipwreck. He is unwilling to forsake the Filipino people, upon whose lovable and meritorious traits he has learned to set high value.

Another great administrator, Earl Cromer, has written: "The want of gratitude displayed by a nation to its alien benefactor is almost as old as history itself."

We trust that far other and better may be the reward of Leonard Wood, whose great services in the Philippines, first as Military Governor of the Moro Province, afterward as Commanding General, later as one of the President's Commissioners, and finally as Governor General, have earned for him the gratitude of two peoples.

HALF MOON IN THE MUD.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A news story in your issue of today tells us that the Ship Model Society is answering an S O S call to the rescue of Henry Hudson's ship the Half Moon, as represented in the reproduction of that historic craft presented to the State of New York by the Government of the Netherlands. May the rescuers arrive in time! There were many expressions of appreciation of the royal gift of the Dutch to this State, at the tercentenary in 1909. Now you say that the tides play through a hole in the ship's bottom—that she is abandoned and her instructive furnishings are missing.

I had the pleasure of considerable conversation with the distinguished Dutch engineer and marine architect who produced this vessel. He told me that while no plans or individual description of the old Half Moon could be found, this model was an accurate reproduction of the Dutch merchantman of the period, and furnished accordingly in every respect (including arms); therefore a true picture of Hudson's ship—and therefore, I might add, all the more worthy of the Ship Model Society's attention and the attention of this community.

Some of the "furnishings" may have been the prey of relic hunters or vandals, but cannot the arms and the nautical instruments be traced? With the United States Navy's known high principles and careful regard for itself and others, it seems unlikely that the Half Moon would have received (as she did) the hospitality of the Navy Yard in Brooklyn after the Hudson-Fulton celebration with such portable objects aboard unless listed. When I saw her there they were absent; they were in place when I had last seen her shortly after her arrival here.

The Hudson-Fulton Committee might, I should suppose, have the records. If memory serve, Edward Hagaman Hall, interested in all historical matters of local import, gave valuable service to that committee. Recollections of his name brings to mind the organization of the Trustees of Scenic and Historic Places and Objects, in which Andrew H. Green and Charles A. Dana (among others) were interested, an organization that later simplified its title, becoming, I believe, the Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, of which, if I mistake not, George F. Kunz is President.

If the State of New York is neglecting the Netherlands gift, why could not that society properly take over the care of the Half Moon? Apparently it has not done so. The Ship Model Society may do so with a fine propriety, however, and if its endeavors toward the establishment of a Marine Museum in New York come to fruition, as they certainly should, this society might even take the Half Moon herself into the museum. Note the American whaler reproduced half-scale within the museum of the Dartmouth Historical Society at New Bedford, Mass.

The Late Mr. Bligh's Index.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your obituary of the late Mr. Robert W. Bligh failed to mention that he was the founder of the old New York Herald's famous index, begun by the order of the senior Bennett in 1862 and the compiling of which was continued by Mr. Bligh until 1872, when he resigned. He frequently referred with pride to this comprehensive collection of indices, which covered the history of the world from day to day, as the greatest work of his life.

BUTLER TAKES SEAT ON SUPREME BENCH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—After a three weeks' recess the Supreme Court met today and began the delivery of opinions as soon as Associate Justice Pierce Butler had been inducted into office. Although he had taken the "iron-clad" oath to support and defend the Constitution before Judge Booth at St. Paul on Dec. 26, Justice Butler was sworn in today by Chief Justice Taft with a combination "ironclad" and "judicial" oath.

In a decision rendered today the Court approved the Government's contention that in assessing excess profits for 1917 the entire net income should be apportioned among the different income brackets of Section 201 of the law, and that authorized deductions should be subtracted from the amount of income included in the first income bracket. The Greenport Basin and Construction Company had claimed authorized deductions should be subtracted from net income, which should then be apportioned among the different income brackets. The suit originated in the Eastern New York District Court.

Taxpayers whose property is assessed at a higher relative value than other property in the taxing unit are entitled to have their demands for a reduction of taxes considered, even though such action is not provided for by law, the Supreme Court held, in passing on an appeal brought by the Sioux City Bridge Company against Dakota County, Nebraska. The case was considered of importance to bridge companies and State taxing boards.

Court papers issued against business concerns located outside New York cannot legally be served on persons affiliated with such firms while they are temporarily in the State in capacities other than that of representing their companies, the Supreme Court decided in a case brought by Rosenberg Bros. & Co. of New York against the Curtis Brown Company of Oklahoma.

The liability of railroads for injuries suffered by passengers riding on interstate passes issued under the Hepburn act can only be determined by Federal courts, it was held by the court in a case brought by the Kansas City Southern Railway against Elizabeth Van Zant.

The court upheld decisions of North Carolina courts affirming heavy taxes imposed upon railroads in that State through a new valuation system. In suits brought by five railroads the roads assailed the ad valorem property and franchise taxes in North Carolina on the ground that these taxes violated the equal protection, the due process and the commerce clauses of the Constitution. The claim also was made that the taxes violated the State Constitution and the statutory methods of valuation.

Two questions which have been in dispute among admiralty experts and shipping men were answered today by the court. In a case brought by Standard Brothers against the United States, which appealed from Baltimore, the court held that the legal proceedings cannot properly be brought against the Federal Government in the courts of this country for damages to the cargo of a Government vessel which at the time is in a foreign port.

The other case involved the issue whether a steamship can be compelled to accept a full cargo under a charter, and whether refusal to do so creates a lien upon the ship. The court declared unsound the opinion of the lower courts that a ship is not liable in "rem" for breaches of an affreightment contract so long as it remains wholly executory, but that she becomes liable thereby whenever she partly executes it, as by the taking on board some part of the cargo.

Several prohibition cases also were decided by the court today. Three cases—one each from Missouri, Arizona and Ohio—challenged efforts of the Government to use old internal revenue laws in the enforcement of prohibition. The court held that the supplemental Prohibition Enforcement act of Nov. 23, 1921, from the time it went into effect "had the same operation as if, instead of saying that the laws referred to (in it) shall continue in force, it had enacted them in terms."

The Gorham Manufacturing Company was ordered to show cause why the case it had brought against the State Tax Commission of New York, so far as the Controller of the State was concerned, should not be dismissed. Should the proceeding against the Controller be dismissed, it would leave the proceeding against the Attorney General of the State. The Gorham Company is seeking to obtain a ruling on the constitutionality of the New York State income tax law so far as its application to corporations organized outside the State is concerned.

PART-TIME IN THE SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Statements in your editorial of Dec. 29 relative to "an administrative affront" to the Superintendent of Schools by me lead me to request you to give space to this letter. The statistics in my letter to the Board of Education were submitted to me by the Superintendent of Schools in response to a request from me. When I noted that the new school buildings being opened were providing new sittings far in excess of the increase in school population, yet part time was increasing, I deemed it important to submit the facts to the members of the Board of Education, not in a formal report, but in a communication to them and to the Superintendent of Schools so that the facts might be considered by them in advance of the meeting.

The outstanding facts are that the new buildings opened from Sept. 1, 1921, to Oct. 31, 1922, cost approximately $32,136,834.02. They provided 39,822 sittings. The school population on Oct. 31, 1922, had increased 19,193 over the Sept. 30, 1921, figures. The surplus of sittings was 20,629. Part time increased during this period 26,752. Recognizing the importance of the situation these statistics revealed, the members of the Board of Education voted on Wednesday last to request the Superintendent of Schools and the Board of Superintendents to institute an investigation as to the extent to which the great building program upon which the Board of Education is engaged will affect relief of congestion. The board also decided that changes in school organization involving an increase in budget charges or an increase in part time should not be made unless and until it had received a recommendation thereon from the Superintendent of Schools.

You will note from this that the Board of Education, far from proceeding to ignore the Superintendent of Schools in asking him and the other Superintendents to check up the extent to which the building program, so far as completed, is relieving part time and to ascertain what relief may be expected from carrying through the remaining portions of this great and costly building program. We are concerned to know what it will cost this city in money and in new sittings to reduce part time when part time increases although sittings in excess of the increased registers are provided.

they could to secure evidence of guilt. They have had a long time to find it, but have been unable to. There has been no neglect by the prosecution of the cause of the people, and there is no reason why the Court should hesitate to do what the Constitution and code lay down, because it is plain to be seen that the prosecution cannot move to trial because they believe the evidence is not sufficient to get a conviction. I believe that it is better for the people, under the circumstances, to grant the motion for the dismissal of the indictment than to compel the District Attorney to go to trial with insufficient evidence, because if the case went to trial and the defendant were acquitted, as he undoubtedly would be, the acquittal would be a perfect bar to further prosecution."

Ex-Supreme Court Justice Mills, who previously had been the principal speaker at the installation of a newly-elected Supreme Court Justice, George R. Taylor Jr., of Mount Vernon, in another part of the Court House at White Plains, opened the Ward hearing with an hour's argument. He divided his argument into three parts, citing first the Sixth Amendment to the Constitution, which guarantees "a speedy and public" trial to the accused in all criminal prosecutions, and pointing out that this guarantee went back to Magna Charta. He mentioned the case of the People vs. Martin, 99 App. Div. 372, as precedent for dismissal of the murder indictment under similar circumstances unless good cause to the contrary be shown.

In the second part of his argument, Mr. Mills read a chronological history of the case, emphasizing as Ward's voluntary surrender, his statement of how the killing occurred, his efforts for a speedy trial, and the refusal of the prosecution to bring him to trial.

"On May 12, 1922," Mr. Mills said, "Peters was discharged at Parris Island, S. C., from the United States Marine service, on account of his record as a thief, after he had been there since about the 27th of April previous. On May 15, having been furnished transportation to Philadelphia, we have been able to establish that he arrived in Philadelphia about 1 o'clock or perhaps 1:30. None of us has been able to find out why or how he went to New York, but he arrived there on the same day, probably not earlier than 4 o'clock in the afternoon. On May 16, at 7:40 o'clock in the morning, his body was found by the first persons using that road after daybreak. On May 19, only the third day thereafter, before the slightest suspicion had been attached to Walter S. Ward—and had he not come forward there never would have been any suspicion of him to this day—this defendant, by his attorneys, gave himself up to the Sheriff and District Attorney at White Plains.

In the third division of his argument Mr. Mills said the prosecution had shown no cause for delay and that the prosecution had had ample time to investigate. Pointing out that 231 days had passed since the killing, and 201 days since the indictment, he said the defense itself had furnished the prosecution with the most important evidence and the hardest to get—the identity of the slayer—within three days of the killing. To show how hard it was to get such evidence ordinarily, he cited the Hall-Mills case in New Brunswick, N. J., where the identity of the slayer is still a mystery, although love letters strewn about the bodies when they were found on Sept. 16 showed the motive clearly. Mr. Mills said the bills filed by the prosecution to account for its expenses was in investigating, as it showed the expenditure of about $7,000, including payments to the Pinkertons and to James Cunningham, the race track youth who told a lurid tale of the shooting, placing it in the Ward house at New Rochelle.

Says Ward Gaurded Family Secret.

Answering a charge that Ward's story was incredible because he had failed to notify the nearest police at once that he had been attacked by blackmailers, Mr. Mills pointed out that it was natural for Ward to suppose that by going to the police he would have had to give up his chief aim throughout the whole case—that is, "to prevent the blackmailers' scandalous stories becoming public."

"The query may arise," Mr. Mills went on, "why should the blackmailers have taken Ward to such a remote place, and why should they have wanted Peters to make him get out of the automobile there? The natural answer is that very likely they intended to take him away in their car and hold him until at their demand he wrote some letter or some order upon his father, which they thought would produce the money from the father upon his return from abroad that very night. Such a course is a common incident of blackmailing operations."

Denouncing blackmail as worse than killing, Mr. Mills said it often involved the kidnapping of children and slander of wives, and he inquired why the prosecution should be so particular how a blackmailer, plying his nefarious trade, was shot and killed by his intended and outraged victim." Pleading on behalf of Ward's wife and two children, the lawyer closed by urging that his client be reurned to the bosom of his family a free man. "He has already suffered far too much for an innocent man, and even enough for a man of some guilt," said Mr. Mills. "He has in no manner sought to evade prosecution and there is not the least danger of his running away. If further evidence should be discovered by the prosecution, and another indictment found, he will be here ready to meet the accusation."

District Attorney Rowland said: "There is no doubt that this case is still fraught with a great deal of mystery. I doubt very much that we as yet have the full God's honest truth. Thousands of dollars have been spent investigating every possible lead, but we have been able to get nowhere. Murder will out, but when it will out is hard to say. We are in the same position today we were in several months ago. If your Honor sees fit to set a date for trial I will be glad to go ahead." Mr. Rowland did not protest against the motion to dismiss, or ask for delay, or move for trial.

Where to go this Winter

HEED the coal situation. Deliveries are limited and uncertain. Get away from bleak, wintry days, the snow and slush. Go to the lands of perpetual summer and revel in the fun and freedom of outdoor life. Golf, tennis, bathing, boating, fishing—these and other healthful sports are yours to enjoy in the great resort centers of

CALIFORNIA

Health and diversion await you in the South Carolina pines — Summerville, Aiken — or Augusta, Ga., or along the Florida East Coast, famous as "The American Riviera," St. Augustine, Ormond, Daytona, Cocoa, Rockledge, West Palm Beach, Miami and Long Key.

There's a wonderful lure in the Florida resorts bordering on the balmy Gulf of Mexico—Tampa, St. Petersburg, Belleair, Clearwater, Sarasota or, further south, Sebring, Fort Myers and Key West, "The American Gibraltar," with Uncle Sam's greatest naval and wireless stations, and the new attractive Hotel Casa Marina.

Visit the great Southwest—Galveston with its celebrated Hotel Galvez, on the beach—San Antonio, the historic Alamo—and other Texas cities. Or plan to spend the Winter at San Diego, Los Angeles or elsewhere in California.

Any one of these and many other resorts in the South and Southwest are most comfortably and conveniently reached by "oil burning" luxuriously equipped passenger steamers of these companies.

From New York Tues., Wed., Thurs., Fri., Sat.

(Detailed sailing schedules furnished on application)

Minimum rates include all meals and stateroom berth on steamer, as well as transportation to destination. Bedrooms with double or twin beds and private bath; or other staterooms in special or preferred location, may be secured at varying extra room fares.

Tell us when you plan to go and what place you have in mind; we will help you arrange the most enjoyable and economical route.

Gray Goods Start Year Well.

The local gray goods market resumed the new year with a fair degree of animation yesterday. February and early March deliveries of 39-inch 68-72s were sold at 11½ cents, and "quick" lots of 39½-inch 64-60s and 60-48s were disposed of at 10¾ and 9¾ cents respectively. The feature of the day in the print cloth market was the selling of some February 49-quare four-yard goods at 11¾ cents, which was a rise of a quarter of a cent a yard. Some business was reported in five-yard sheetings at 9¾ cents and in 2.85s at 9¾ cents. Pajama checks were sold at 11½ cents.

Expect Good Buckskin Season.

Consumer purchases of men's Winter resort footwear, more particularly of white buckskin oxfords, have been such of late as to presage the largest general Spring business in this merchandise that has ever been experienced. The oxfords that are selling best at the moment range from $12 to $16 a pair, and this price range is expected to remain popular during the sports months in other parts of the country. Buyers with a reputation for carefulness have not been backward in placing orders for white "bucks" for Spring delivery, which is regarded among makers of the higher grade men's shoes as a sure sign that they will be "good."

Co-Operative Purchase Plans.

It is expected by those in charge that the co-operative buying plans of firms in the Garment Centre Capitol will be in full operation for the Fall season. Buyers of silks, woolens and furs, it was said yesterday, will be shortly appointed, and the scheme should be working smoothly by Feb. 15 or slightly later. The buyer of miscellaneous items has been busy, and a contract involving the purchase of a tremendous quantity of paper boxes and twines for the various firms in the two buildings is about to be signed. Efficient delivery of these articles, especially the paper boxes, will be made possible through a specially located storeroom. One of the largest items in the cost of paper boxes to garment manufacturers, who use great quantities of them, has been that of handling and delivery, owing to their bulkiness.

Tendencies in Spring Gloves.

Glove manufacturers here yesterday said they look for a big Spring season in fancy lines. Their showings are described as comprising a probably larger variety of both silk and cotton fancy gloves than ever before. Those of silk are looked upon as especially good for the Easter season, for which manufacturers are now preparing. Blacks, it was said, will do better after Easter. The long silk glove appears to be featured by most manufacturers, with those around 322-5s a dozen wholesale the accredited leading sellers. There is, however, much attention given by manufacturers to the tendency toward long sleeves for Spring, which may indicate the vogue of the short, wrist glove. In the silk merchandise, chartreuse, pearl and poudre are described as leading shades. In cottons, mode, beaver and sand are said to be foremost.

Less Increase Expected.

Less tendency to talk of striking advances when overcoating lines are formally opened is the latest development in the heavyweight situation. Despite the supporting interest on the part of some buyers who have placed "at value" orders for overcoatings, and the general strength to this division, it is said that expectation of marked increases is no longer as well based as it formerly seemed, indication of this was afforded yesterday by the answer of an executive of a foremost concern making high-grade overcoatings, in reply to a question concerning probable levels. "Buyers have come to me," said this executive, "and have mentioned prices named elsewhere which represent increases from 10 to 20 cents, but no prominent numbers of this company's line, however, will not show such an increase, but will be priced substantially lower than this percentage. These numbers are such that they may be taken as the guide for our line, with some priced below them and others higher. We plan to open our line about Jan. 15. Little business, comparatively speaking, has already been booked by us."

Early Buying Urged.

All present indications point to pronounced activity in the local garment trade during the next three weeks. Buyers are now in the market for merchandise for immediate sale and their number will be daily augmented by others during Spring's goods. The peak of selection slightly after the middle of the month. Resident buyers here look for one of the busiest periods for several years and are urging their clients to come into the market early. It seems certain that, in line with the earlier wholesale purchasing, retailers will show their Spring merchandise sooner, thus making up in part for the lessened time allowed to early buyers. Manufacturers are keenly watching the policies pursued by buyers. A more liberal tendency seems to be indicated, they say, but as far as can be judged, purchases will still be for no great time ahead and will be frequent.

To Speak to Dry Goods Men.

Several speakers prominent in the business world will make addresses at the nineteenth annual convention of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, which will be held, together with meetings of its auxiliaries at the Waldorf-Astoria from Jan. 15 to 18. The main meeting will be addressed by Robert Amory, Jr., of Jackson & Co.; Preston F. Cox of the Interstate Commerce Commission and J. Austin Smith of J. Austin Smith & Co., this city. The speakers at the meetings of the Jobbers' Association of Knit Goods Buyers and the Jobbers' Association of Dress Fabrics have been increased from one to two since the program was first drawn up. John E. Rousmaniere, Lawrence & Co. will address the latter body, while Arthur Powell Bliss, Folyan & Co., will speak before the silk goods organization. James Wheelock, First Vice President of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, will act as toastmaster at the annual dinner of the association, which will be held at the Waldorf on Jan. 17. The speakers will be Edward James Cattell, the Rev. James W. Crowther, D. D., and Dr. Willard Scott.

Something New in Earrings.

Something new in "drops" for earrings and for use on bangle bracelets will shortly be shown in this market. It consists of tiny figures of animals, humans, &c., both in oxidized sterling silver and in hard colored enamel on sterling. These figures, which retail at 50 cents each, include cats, elephants, rabbits, owls, bears, Dutch boys, &c. Attached to earrings of imitation pearl, they bring $2 a pair at retail, while attached to sterling chain bangle bracelets, which are made with several colored enamel inserts, they sell at $1.50. The effects produced, especially in the earrings, are not a little bizarre.

Not Yet Through With Winter.

Despite indications that the Spring garment season will open early, the feeling is held in some quarters that a good Winter business will yet be had by retailers. Stock houses are still feeling a demand for special values to be used in clearance sales covering the next two months. At least one of them has cut up large quantities of coats, fur trimmed and of the better grade. It has about 1,000 of them on the racks now and a large number in work. An executive of the concern has received the following letter from one of the leading retailers in New England: "You asked me while I was in New York about making up Winter merchandise. I want to write and tell you I think you will be playing a perfectly safe game to go ahead and manufacture. The market is pretty well cleaned up on coats from $29 to $60. Boston hasn't anything and there is not much in New York. I think you will find you will secure a few dollars' margin if you have the goods. There is a pretty good feeling throughout the country. Everybody has money and there is bound to be a lot of business done between now and March 1. If I were running a factory I should not be the least alarmed to keep at it."

BUSINESS RECORDS

Equity Receiver.

TERMINAL AND TOWN TAXI CORPORATION—Judge Knox yesterday appointed Kenneth H. Brick receiver for the Terminal and Town Taxi Corporation under $10,000 bond in an equity proceeding filed by the Obner Taxi Register Company with a claim of $941.50. The concern is attributed to the recent strike of taxi chauffeurs, which resulted in the Black and White Cab Company, a subsidiary operating company, discontinuing business about Nov. 1. The latter company leased about 400 taxicabs from the debtor corporation and is indebted to it for rentals amounting to about $300,000.

The Terminal and Town Taxi Corporation, incorporated under laws of Delaware, had a contract with the New York Central Railroad Company and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company for the carrying of passengers. It was authorized to issue 1,500,000 shares of 1 par preferred stock, par value $100, and 25,000 shares of common stock, no par value, but only 7,000 shares of preferred and only 13,837 of common have been issued. The corporation has a lease on Terminal Garage, 310-328 West 48th street, with an annual rental of $19,000, which does not expire until 1937, and has received an offer to publish for $56,100 per annum.

The liabilities are not enumerated, but debts amounting to $62,000 are mentioned; assets are stated to exceed $200,000, including indemnity deposits of $50,000 with the State Industrial Commission and the U. S. Mortgage and Trust Company. Creditors are to file claims by March 31. Earl Barnes was named as special master. Salkin & Cohen represent the complainant and Lester L. Callan the debtor corporation.

SHORTAGE HERE INCREASES

William H. Woodin, who resigned as State Fuel Administrator, effective Jan. 1, was still performing the duties of the office yesterday in the absence of word from Governor Alfred E. Smith as to the appointment of his successor. Mr. Woodin said he expected he would be relieved by the end of this week at the latest.

Commenting on a report that General George W. Goethals was being considered for the post, Mr. Woodin said he had no knowledge that this was true, but said he thought General Goethals would be "an ideal man for the post." General Goethals said he knew nothing about the report except what he had seen in the newspapers, and would not comment upon it. As chief consulting engineer of the New York Port Authority, General Goethals, it was pointed out, had been associated with Governor Smith, then a member of the Port Authority.

Last night in Albany Governor Smith said that he had not had time to consider the coal situation since he assumed office.

"I have the letter of Mr. Woodin, asking to be relieved, before me, but I have not considered it at all as yet," he said.

Governor Smith said he had a talk with Mr. Woodin on Monday and that the Fuel Administrator had pleaded poor health and pressure of private business.

New York State's shortage in domestic anthracite shipments below the amount allotted by the Federal Distributor has been increased by 130,200 tons as a result of curtailment of production during the holidays, according to a statement from the Fuel Administration office, which said:

"Curtailment of production at the Pennsylvania anthracite mines and falling off in our loadings on account of Christmas and other religious holidays resulted last week in shipments from the mines of only 1,500,000 tons, all sizes of anthracite, as compared with 1,975,000 tons the preceding week and 2,167,000 tons for the week ending Dec. 16.

"This 25 per cent. shortage as computed by the United States Geological Survey throws a further burden on New York State as there is no possibility of making up lost production. The average weekly consumption of the State, under reduced allotments, is 525,000 tons, or 28.32 per cent. of total production. Applying this percentage to last week's production, New York State will got only 394,800 tons of the coal mined and loaded for the week ending Dec. 30. The deficit is 130,200 tons.

"The Survey returns for the complete year of 1922 show that 52,372,000 tons of anthracite were mined for all purposes, as compared with 91,000,000 tons last year—a shortage of 36,628,000 tons or 42½ per cent. New York State received normally about 14,000,000 tons of anthracite domestic sizes; actually there were received last year only 8,000,000 tons. Greater New York gets normally 6,500,000 tons. Last year it received about 4,000,000 tons. There are still under the ground in the mountains of Eastern Pennsylvania 6,000,000 tons which should be in the cellars of New York State householders—2,000,000 tons of it in the bins of Greater New York."

Mr. Woodin issued a warning yesterday against "mushroom" dealers, who he said were shipping "refuse" into New York and selling it as anthracite.

"At the suggestion of William B. Ainey, Pennsylvania Fuel Commissioner, we are once more asking the people of New York State to beware of unknown and irresponsible coal companies which continue to spring into being as a result of the present coal shortage," he said. "Mr. Ainey advises me that there are a number of such companies forming in Pennsylvania and other states unknown to the Pennsylvania authorities and not included in any of the directories, many of them not even operating mines.

More than 200 tenants, most of them women, speared against eighteen landlords in the Morrisania Court, the Bronx, yesterday, charged with having failed to provide sufficient heat and hot water.

Mrs. Amelia Labree of 617 East 169th Street, who is blind and does weaving, which she learned at the "Lighthouse," complained that for two weeks her rooms were so cold she finally froze one of her hands and was not able to do any more work. She was one of thirty-three tenants in the building, which is owned by William J. Drummond of 1,640 Monroe Avenue. Magistrate Douras adjourned the case for two weeks, pending an investigation.

Louis Rothman of 91 Eldridge Street, landlord of a tenement at 1,242 Washington Avenue, waived examination and was held for the Court of Special Sessions in $300 bail. Sixteen other cases were adjourned from three to ten days and instructions were issued for the Health Department to investigate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The United States Coal Commission sent today an urgent appeal to bituminous operators and miners who are to meet in Chicago tomorrow to get together and spare the country from the distressing conditions which resulted from the strikes in both the anthracite and bituminous fields last year.

The contract under which the bituminous miners are working will expire on April 1. The questions involved in making a new wage scale are largely similar to those which produced the last strike. The delegates who will meet in Chicago are not empowered to negotiate a new wage scale, but to pave the way for bringing the wage scale committees of the operators and the miners into accord.

How serious the Coal Commission regards the situation is indicated in the telegram sent today by John Hays Hammond, its Chairman, in the name of the commission, the text of which follows:

"The United States Coal Commission respectfully calls your attention to the fact that among the subjects assigned to it by the Congress of the United States for investigation is that of the causes which from time to time induce strikes in the industry. There is sharp conflict in opinions expressed to the commission as to whether the cessation of work on April 1, 1922, in the unionized bituminous coal fields of America was a strike by the miners or a lockout by the operators.

"As the duly appointed representatives of operators and miners in the fifteen organized union districts, you have met for the purpose of finding a way to maintain peace in your fields. Failure to agree would create an intolerable situation. Such failure would inevitably result in most serious injury to the general business and the common welfare of this country. All branches of the industry have promised this commission their co-operation in the discharge of its duties. The commission, therefore, in public interest urges upon you the obvious necessity of promptly devising some plan whereby the mines affected by your conference will be kept in operation to the end that the revival of all industry be unchecked, the uninterrupted flow of commerce among the States be maintained, and the menace of an insufficient coal supply be averted.

"Business halts while in doubt as to your action and awaits with anxiety the speedy and successful outcome of your labors.

"You can contribute to the peace of American economic life by reaching a speedy agreement and avoiding further conflict in the fields under your control. Your agreement will spare the commission the necessity of fixing the blame for failure to adjust your differences.

"JOHN HAYS HAMMOND,
"Chairman,
"United States Coal Commission."

Lamps of great beauty and modest price

LACKING the mystic power which made Aladdin's lamp such a topic of conversation, Ovington lamps seem to be vested with a mystic power of their own.

It is the power to transform a cold room into a livable room—to invest the area surrounded by four walls with the friendly glow of a soft and beautiful light.

To those women with a flair for decoration of their own homes, Ovington's lamp collection will prove to be a fruitful source of new and more beautiful effects. For it is hard to conceive of a need for a lamp for which Ovington's have not an apt report.

It is hard to conceive that such rare and beautiful things as Ovington lamps can be had for such a modest outlay.

Big combines and little trademarks

OUR business era has been and probably will be characterized by important manufacturing and financial consolidations.

Whatever advantages have been gained by these combinations, it is noteworthy that to the ultimate consumer the name of a familiar product is still a greater controlling factor in its purchase than the mere immensity of the interests which produce it.

The name Cadillac has a far more important association to the prospective buyer of a good automobile than the name General Motors.

Nujol and Polarine and New Perfection are relatively recent concessions to the fact that so great and powerful an institution as Standard Oil should offer the individual buyer names which fit naturally into his scheme of thinking.

Combinations may have natural advantages in financing, buying, manufacturing, and selling; but in the struggle for favorable Public Opinion the little name on the package is the one which Johnny-on-his-way-to-the-store murmurs to himself.

In no classification of business has this been more manifest than in food products.

The manufacturers of food products whose profits are derived from prudent operation and whose sales are nourished by Little Trademarks, soundly advertised, have outstanding causes for self-congratulation.

They are in a field where the power of advertising is unchallenged even by other major business advantages and where the favorably known name, creased into the mind of myriads of people, is an impregnable fortification.

The development of food product advertising, its relation to sales growth, and its possibilities of future development have been the subject of some study by us.

The facts we have and the conclusions we draw from them might prove the basis of an interesting and profitable discussion with any manufacturer who desires at this time to consolidate his trademarks with favorable Public Opinion.

ONCE a month, or more frequently, we issue a publication called Batten's Wedge. Each issue is devoted to a single editorial on some phase of business. If you are a business executive and would like to receive copies, write us.

ROBBER EMPTIES GUN IN TIMES SQ. THRONG

TWO ROBBED AS MANY DINE

BOYS TRY TO STEAL $1,000

Six Attack Man, but He Beats Them Off, and Three Are Captured.

New York's criminal substratum broke through in a number of places yesterday in holdups and robberies that caused the police to fear that a season of post-holiday crime was upon them. Three of the most spectacular were on Broadway, and in one of them a robber was chased through Forty-fourth Street to Times Square, shooting into the crowd.

Times Square was filled with strolling clerks, shoppers and theatrical folk shortly after 1 o'clock, when a little melodrama in the raw was staged that thrilled the onlookers as much as any make-believe crimes in the theatres round about. There was a scurry for shelter, women running or too startled to move as a fusillade of shots came from West Forty-fourth Street and a man with a pistol in his hand ran into the midst of traffic in the square and jumped into a taxicab, only to be seized a few moments later by two patrolmen.

He said he was John Russo, 21, of 88 Ashland Avenue, West Orange, N. J. He had been frightened in his attempt to loot a theatrical boarding house at 254 West Forty-fourth Street, and in his attempt at escape had run through the street shooting. He hit Miss Alice Osborne of 265 West Fifty-seventh Street and Michael Seclaire, 56, of 338 West Thirty-seventh Street. Miss Osborne was slightly wounded in the thigh, but Seclaire, badly wounded in the hip, was taken to Roosevelt Hospital.

Russo, who later confessed to four-teen burglaries in the last few weeks, twice visited the Forty-fourth Street house yesterday. On his second trip Mrs. Marvel McGovern, a daughter of Sanford D. Sifter, both of whom live in the house, saw Russo enter and go upstairs, and she told her father. They thought Russo was a burglar, and Mrs. McGovern went out to get Patrolman Kellegan, who was directing traffic at Forty-fourth Street and Eighth Avenue. He hurried back toward the house with her, with his revolver in his hand. In the meantime Mr. Sifter had followed Russo upstairs and spoke to him when Russo was about to enter Miss Shirley's room.

Begins Firing Wildly.

Russo whirled and jumped for the stairs, running down, with Sifter behind him. At the door Russo hesitated a moment, saw Kellegan hurrying up the street, and, taking an automatic pistol from his pocket, ran down the steps and turned toward Times Square. After a few feet he stopped and fired a shot at Kellegan, who returned the fire in the air and kept on after the burglar. Russo, apparently panic-stricken, ran blindly toward Times Square, firing indiscriminately into the crowd.

He jumped on a taxicab, ordering the chauffeur at the point of his pistol to drive on. The chauffeur obeyed, but at Forty-third Street had been halted and the taxicab's way was blocked. As it stopped another car, in which was Patrolman Halstead of the West Thirtieth Street Station, who was out for the first time in several weeks, after being on sick leave, finally captured Russo in the taxicab in which he had taken refuge. Halstead jumped from his car to the taxicab and grabbed Russo by the arm.

While scores of persons were dining and dancing in a Chinese restaurant two floors above, and many others were passing the entrance, two partners of a billiard and bowling establishment at 2,822 Broadway were held up yesterday morning at the muzzles of four guns in the hands of two hold-up men. A half hour before the men entered with their guns drawn they had visited the place and played a game of pool.

The victims were Joseph Weiss, of 83 Hart Street, Brooklyn, and his son-in-law, Herman Kaufman, of 169 Hart Street. With Kaufman's brother-in-law, Herman Brown, who also lives at 83 Hart Street, the men own the billiard room. They were robbed of $645.

Bus Driver Felled.

A hold-up in wild west style took place at Seventy-first Street and Broadway early yesterday when three men jumped from an automobile to a Fifth Avenue bus, knocked the conductor over the head and robbed him of his coin box containing $3. Several automobiles passed, but apparently none of the drivers noticed anything amiss.

The bus was bound uptown, and had stopped to let several passengers alight. Martin Rooney, the conductor, of 466 West 134th Street, said the car drew up beside the bus and that the men got aboard and knocked him down with the butt of a gun without saying a word. He got up in time to get the number of the car as it drove away, and ran to the West Sixty-eighth Street station.

Detectives John J. Cronin, Martin Owens and John A. Kiernan went out in a police car to look for the machine used by the robbers. They found a car with the number Rooney had given them at 161st Street and Broadway three hours later. They waited until three men entered the car and arrested them. The prisoners said they were Frank Smith, 22, of 4,565 Broadway, Martin Shivitz, 28, of 502 West 170th Street, and Anton Elrman, 21, of 4,565 Broadway. Rooney later identified them and they were held in $15,000 bail each by Magistrate Charles E. Simms in the West Side Court.

Three boys charged with having attempted to rob Philip Schwartz of 294 South Street, Brooklyn, at Delancey and Pitt Streets last night were locked up in Police Headquarters. They said they were Murray Berson, 16, of 230 Monroe Street; James O'Brien, 18, of 144 West 120th Street, and Philip Sandler, 16, of 5 Hester Street.

Schwartz said he drew $1,000 from a bank in the afternoon and had the money with him when he was attacked by six boys. He drove them off, and the three who were arrested were caught while running away.

A row in a taxicab at Manhattan Avenue and Ainslee Street, Brooklyn, last night resulted in the arrest of Thomas Lind of 181 Russell Street on a charge of attempted robbery made by Mrs. Anna Payton of 321 Bainbridge Street, Brooklyn. Mrs. Payton said she had been with her husband and some friends in Greenpoint. When she wanted to go home her husband was not ready to leave, and Lind and other friends got a taxicab. The friends were taken home first and then Lind went on with Mrs. Payton. She said he tried to take a diamond ring from her hand. Lind denied the charge. He was held without bail by Magistrate Dale in the Bridge Plaza Court.

Brought Back From West.

David Jacobs of 157 East Forty-seventh Street, was brought back from Chicago yesterday by Detective John Barron to face a shoplifting charge. Jacobs escaped from the West Side Court after his arrest on the charge of taking merchandise from McCreery's. He was so much better dressed than other prisoners that he was able to walk out of court without being questioned, guards thinking that he was a detective.

There were three robberies in Hoboken yesterday, which were apparently the work of two men. They first held up Frank Ferrando, watchman of the Strand Theatre at Tenth and Washington Streets, as he was changing his clothes. They tied his hands and feet, locked him in a room in the basement and attempted to drill a safe in the office containing $1,600. They broke two drills and then gave it up.

The same men are believed later to have robbed Aaron Zanaman at 720 Bloomfield Street. They took $315 from him and after warning him to stand still with his hands in the air in a hallway disappeared up the street. A man who answered the description of one of those who robbed Zanaman later stole two rings valued at $500 from the jewelry store of B. Boobis at 305 First Street.

TWO FALL TO DEATH FROM HIGH BUILDINGS

A woman about 60 years old either jumped or fell from one of the upper floors of the Municipal Building yesterday, as the street was filling with the lunch-hour crowd, and a young man, a veteran of the World War, ended his life by leaping from his room on the nineteenth floor of the Hotel McAlpin to the roof of an extension. The identity of the woman was not established late yesterday. The veteran is believed to be Daniel P. Jordan of Yonkers, who had relatives in Mount Vernon.

An hour before he jumped to death young Jordan telephoned to his uncle, J. E. Jordan of 425 Homestead Avenue, Mount Vernon. Mr. Jordan said that his nephew told him he was bidding him goodbye forever.

It was almost on the stroke of noon when a poorly dressed woman fell or jumped from one of the windows on the north end of the Park Row side of the Municipal Building. No one had seen her in the building or knew from which floor she fell, but it was believed to have been above the fourteenth floor. She was instantly killed. The body fell in front of one of the entrances and several persons in the vicinity narrowly escaped being struck, among them Mrs. Margaret Hogan of 424 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn, and Miss May V. Rourke, 610 Prospect Avenue, Brooklyn. Both fainted.

Despondent over the thought that her small daughter, May, 4, was in danger of permanently losing her speech and hearing, Mrs. Mary Vodz of 106 Sullivan Street, Brooklyn, swallowed an ounce of iodine yesterday, according to the police. Her screams brought Patrolman Edwin Lundin, who administered first aid and sent for an ambulance surgeon from Long Island College Hospital.

SHEDD OUT AS HEAD OF MARSHALL FIELD

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—John G. Shedd, after fifty years' service with Marshall Field & Co., where he started as a $10 a week clerk, retired today from the presidency of the concern. He is succeeded by James Simpson, formerly Vice President, who began with Marshall Field & Co. as an office boy. John McKinlay, who takes Simpson's place as Vice President, also began service as an office boy.

"I'm a tired business man," Mr. Shedd told the Board of Directors today. "I don't want to quit altogether—I like my work too much for that—but I want a chance for more play."

The board created the position of Chairman and elected Mr. Shedd to fill the place. He plans to spend much of his time in California, and "do nothing but play."

Mr. Shedd, who is 73 years old, was born in Alstead, N. H., and attended the public schools until he was 17, when he had to go to work. He came to Chicago in 1872 and entered the employ of Marshall Field.

WILSON SENDS THANKS FOR BIRTHDAY WISHES

Tells Jersey League Country Will Soon Adopt His Principles, by Big Majority.

In reply to a letter sent to Woodrow Wilson congratuating him upon his sixty-sixth birthday on Dec. 26, John L. Armitage, Secretary of the Woodrow Wilson League of Essex County, today received the following note from the former President:

"I am proud to learn that there is a Woodrow Wilson Democratic League of Essex County, and it gives me genuine pleasure to receive the message that has just come to me from the league and which you and other friends were kind enough to sign.

"I am strengthened by the thought of such support. I believe that we shall all have the gratification in the near future of seeing the principles we believe in adopted by an overwhelming majority of the voters of this country.

"With the hope that the New Year will be a peculiarly fortunate one for the league, for yourself and for all of your associates, I remain, cordially and sincerely, WOODROW WILSON."

Entire 16th Infantry Starts Recruiting Drive Here Today

The entire Sixteenth Infantry of the regular army, stationed at Governors Island and Fort Wadsworth, will come to New York today and make a recruiting drive. According to army officials, it is the first time in the history of the army that an entire regiment has been used for recruiting duty simultaneously.

The regiment, part of the First Division during the war, will first assemble in front of City Hall at 2 o'clock this afternoon, to be addressed by Mayor Hylan, and will then scatter to all parts of the city to take over "recruiting sectors." The drive will last a week.

SECRETARY FALL TO QUIT CABINET

MONDELL MAY SUCCEED HIM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Albert Bacon Fall, Secretary of the Interior, will leave the Cabinet and retire to private life March 4. Official announcement of his intention to resign, which has been persistently reported for over a year, was made at the White House this morning.

With this announcement it was emphasized that Secretary Fall entered the Cabinet at a great financial sacrifice and that he leaves in order to devote his time to business affairs in the Southwest. So anxious was President Harding to retain his old friend in Government service, it was said, that he offered him one of the vacancies on the Supreme Court of the United States, but this offer was declined.

Although Mr. Fall is leaving the Cabinet with no change in his friendship with the President, it is known that for several months he has been dissatisfied with many acts of the Harding Administration and Congress. Having been one of the irreconcilables in the Senate before his appointment to the Cabinet, he had little sympathy with the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armament. He made no public criticism, but to his friends he was outspoken in his condemnation of the conference, and during virtually all its sessions he remained away from Washington at his home in Three Rivers, N. M.

Opposed to Reorganization.

Another thing that vexed Secretary Fall was the scheme for reorganization of the executive departments of the Government, under which it was proposed to transfer to the Department of Agriculture many of the bureaus now under the Interior Department. A long undercover controversy on this subject was carried on between Secretaries Fall and Wallace, and Mr. Fall is understood to have protested vigorously to President Harding against what he felt to be a propaganda campaign waged against him by the Department of Agriculture.

At various times it has been reported that one of the reasons for delay in completing the governmental reorganization plan was the failure to smooth out the differences between the heads of these two departments.

The failure of Congress and the Administration to carry out his recommendations concerning Alaska has been another of Secretary Fall's complaints. Although opposing certain transfers from the Interior Department to the Department of Agriculture, Mr. Fall has been insistent upon a thorough reorganization of Government bureaus dealing with Alaskan affairs. He spent two Summers making inspection trips in the territory and after each he declared that Administrative conditions there were chaotic because some thirty separate Government bureaus, under as many heads, were performing functions that should be placed under single control and responsibility.

These three complaints are declared by Secretary Fall's friends to be contributing causes for his leaving the Cabinet in addition to pressure of personal affairs. It is known that Mr. Fall's ideas of a proper Mexican policy have been at variance with those of the Administration, but this was admitted by Mr. Harding when he announced his decision to appoint his friend to the Interior Department.

Suffered Losses in Cattle Raising.

Secretary Fall, like many other Southwestern stock raisers, has lost heavily from the drouth and other difficulties that have affected the industry during the last few years. His brother, with whom he was associated in cattle raising, died a short time ago, and Mr. Fall has represented to the President that it is vitally essential that he return to New Mexico to take personal charge of his interests there.

Following the official White House announcement that Secretary Fall would resign it became known that Representative Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming, Republican House leader, was being seriously considered as his successor. Mr. Mondell, who will retire from Congress on March 4, is particularly well qualified for the Cabinet post, it is pointed out by his friends, as he hails from the West and from a section that comes into intimate touch with the Interior Department.

Mr. Mondell has spent his entire life in dealing with the problems of the West, first as Mayor of his home city, later as a State Senator, and for the last twenty-five years as a member of Congress. He has been in much of the legislation dealing with irrigation, forest reserves and the development of coal, oil and gas on public lands. His friends assert there is no better equipped man in Congress than he for the post, for in addition to his other qualifications he served as assistant head of the General Land Office for two years.

It is understood that Mr. Mondell will have the active support of the Republican leaders in the House and that he is desirous of the appointment, chiefly for the reason that he believes he can be of great assistance to the people of the West and do valuable work for the Administration.

Secretary Fall declared today that reports that he was retiring in order to act as counsel for an oil association were false. He said he intended to rest on his New Mexico ranch for a short time after March 4.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 2.—Secretary Fall resigned as Senator from New Mexico to enter the Cabinet when Mr. Harding became President. He had served in the Senate since 1912. Previous to that he had served in the New Mexico legislature as a member of the State Supreme Court, and twice Attorney General.

Mr. Fall is a native of Kentucky. He was a teacher in his early days, reading law while teaching school. He became interested in farming and the cattle business soon after coming to New Mexico, and now has a large ranch at Three Rivers. It has been reported in political circles in the State that if Mr. Fall left the Cabinet it would be to become counsel for a large oil company.

ROSENBLUTH HEARING BEGUN

Removal to Washington Opposed on Ground of Jurisdiction.

Argument in the proceedings for the removal of Captain Robert Rosenbluth, under Federal indictment in the State of Washington for the murder of Major Alexander P. Cronkhite, began yesterday before United States Commissioner Hitchcock. Louis Marshall, counsel for the defendant, questioned the jurisdiction of the Federal authorities on the ground that on Oct. 25, 1918, when Major Cronkhite was shot dead, the property used by Camp Lewis had not passed to the control of the Government.

Mr. Marshall contended that as the reservation was not deeded to the Government by the County Commissioners of Pierce County, Wash., until Oct. 1, 1919, and the transfer was not recorded until Nov. 15, 1919, the Government was without jurisdiction. The hearing will be continued today, unless Mr. Marshall is called to Washington, D. C., when it will go over until tomorrow.

Miller Asks 4-Year Term for Governor; Declares Present Period Is Too Brief

Former Governor Nathan L. Miller, who began work yesterday as a member of the new law firm of Miller & Otis, 61 Broadway, declared that the term of a Governor of New York State should be lengthened to four years and that it should also be provided by law that no Governor should be eligible to succeed himself.

"Two years is too brief a period for an Administration to work out to a finish a large constructive program," he said. "Four years would afford time to finish a constructive program in many of its essential features and to get well under way those that might not be completed.

"If a Governor starts his official term by scheming to succeed himself, of necessity he cannot function as he should. The more constructive ideas a Governor sponsors in a two-year term, the worse for him politically, as the initial stages of political and governmental progress are the stages that cause most irritation and suspicion.

"If the term were four years and no more, the Executive could proceed courageously and at no juncture would he prompt the suspicion that he was angling for another term."

Mr. Miller said he had been reluctant to discuss this possibility during his term of office, but felt free now to make the suggestion in the interest of good government. Asked for his opinion on prohibition enforcement and transit legislation, both of which are likely to become issues in the Legislature, he smiled and said he was not ready to discuss them.

He was at his desk in his new office early and kept at work all day. He said with a smile that he had received five new clients and expected to be busy.

During the day workmen changed the lettering on the door of the suite from "Steele & Otis," the old firm, to "Miller & Otis," the new firm name. The late S. H. Steele, President and counsel of the General Chemical Company, was formerly head of the firm. Mr. Miller was formerly counsel for the Solvay Process Company of Syracuse. The other partners are Harold Otis, Harley L. Stowell, Charles J. Nourse and Frederic Cunningham Jr.

CALLS CHURCH GIFT WORK OF CORREGGIO

If an Original It Is Centuries Old—Bought in an Auction Room Forty Years Ago.

What is believed to be a painting of "The Nativity" by Correggio and one of a group of four works by the artist on the same subject has been given to the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption on Cranberry Street, Brooklyn, by Henry Hyams of 1 Sydney Place, that borough, as a memorial to his father.

"Although neither my father nor myself are Catholics, I felt that as the painting was a Catholic subject it should go to a Catholic church," said Mr. Hyams last night. He added that he knew that the Rev. William B. Farrell of the Church of the Assumption was interested in art, and, besides, he was a friend of the priest, so he decided to give it to his church.

The painting is genuine, according to Mr. Hyams. He said that he had the word of art experts in Manhattan and other cities who passed upon it that the painting was the work of Correggio. If the painting is genuine, its history dates back for centuries when the famous master painted his celebrated group of four nativity pictures. One was lost and no trace of it ever found. Another was destroyed in the sixteenth century at a church fire in Europe. The other two genuine paintings now hang in the Dresden and Louvre Galleries and are valued at $100,000 each.

"This painting has been in our family for forty years," said Mr. Hyams. "It has been examined by some of the best experts in this country, and all agreed that it was a genuine Correggio. My father once had it examined by that great English connoisseur. I think the name was Sir Purdy [evidently he had Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke in mind], who had charge of the museum in New York, and he said it was a genuine Correggio.

As far as I know the history of this painting, it was in the old storage house of Bunce & Bender, at 60 Court Street, Brooklyn, for years and years. It was sold with other merchandise long in the storage house, under an administrator's sale at the old Kerrigan auction rooms in Willoughby Street. My father bought it. It was encased in a moldy frame. I do not know what my father paid for it, but it was a nominal sum. The owners could never be located.

"Twenty-three years ago it was in a speculator's hands and put on exhibition at the church of St. George. A Catholic priest then offered $10,000 for it, but the speculator would not sell it at less than $20,000. The speculator had the painting appraised at $20,000 at that time. My father died in November, 1921, and as the residuary legatee of his estate I inherited it. I refused $5,000 for it, and rather than dispose of it at less than its value I gave it to the Assumption Church as a memorial to my father."

Father Farrell said he did not know for a certainty whether the painting was a genuine Correggio and that he would have it examined by experts.

"However," he said, "it is a very beautiful picture. There are certain phases of the painting which lead me to believe that it is a Correggio. For instance, the color treatment and the grouping. The lights and shades about the angels who form the background of the picture and the infant Jesus are portrayed in a way characteristic of Correggio. The Church of the Assumption is indebted to Mr. Hyams."

EXPLAINS HARDING'S CHANGE

Professor Edwin R. A. Seligman of Columbia University told the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences last night that the recent change of heart of the Washington Administration in the consideration of European problems was due to the realization by the agricultural bloc that the prices of wheat and cotton depended largely on the settlement of the European imbroglio. The meeting was in the nature of a debate on the effects of the Treaty of Versailles, between Professor Seligman and Professor Ian C. Hannah of Oberlin College.

Professor Seligman said it was part of the political obligations of the United States and to its material interest to take part in the reconstrucion of Europe. America was obligated, he said, because of the promises by President Wilson at Versailles.

Professor Hannah attacked France's foreign policy, said the voters in the Congressional elections in 1918 had repudiated Wilson's policies, and objected to the Versailles Treaty because it left Germany's march to the East untouched, forcing Germany into the arms of Russia. In this way, the treaty, he maintained, shut out Germany from allied influence.

SEEK SOCIETY MAN IN TEXAS MURDER

FRIENDS RALLY TO DEFENSE

Special to The New York Times.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Jan. 2.—While Mrs. Lillian Knox languishes in the Sabine County Jail at Hemphill, Texas, near here, awaiting arraignment before a Justice of the Peace tomorrow on a charge of murdering her millionaire husband, Hiram Knox, last Nov. 26, hundreds of Mrs. Knox's friends are pouring into the little isolated sawmill town in automobiles and by train to be present at the hearing.

The rally to the support of the beautiful widow, who for many years has been a woman beloved for her benevolence, is accepted as an indication of popular belief in her innocence. If the weather permits, it is probable that the hearing will be held in the public square. The chief question before the Justice of the Peace will be whether Mrs. Knox shall be held for action of the Grand Jury, and if so, whether she shall be admitted to bail.

Popular opinion at Hemphill is against confining the defendant to jail, and tonight more than $100,000 cash bonds were said to be available to obtain her release.

"I am wholly innocent of the terrible charge preferred against me," said Mrs. Knox today to her attorney, Judge Steve M. King of Beaumont. It was the first statement the prisoner had made since her arrest. "I want my friends to know that I am guiltless," she continued, "and when the trial is concluded I shall convince them of this fact beyond all doubt."

The Knox mansion, long noted for the lavishness of its social affairs and where good looking employes of the Knox sawmills are said frequently to have been provided with dress suits by Mrs. Knox and instructed in polite manners to "fill in" when there was a scarcity of men guests, is in the care of servants, who have been instructed to permit nobody to enter the huge castle-like residence on the cliff where Hiram Knox, reputed to be worth $10,000,000 a few years ago and at the time of his death with a rating of $1,000,000, met his death early in the morning of Nov. 26 last. Several of the servants have been employed by the Knox family for many years. All of them are staunch in their support of Mrs. Knox and convinced of her ultimate release.

Believe "Suicide Notes" Were Forged.

Additional arrests have been reported to be imminent, although County Attorney F. P. Adams refuses to divulge the names until the warrants are served.

Mr. Adams asserts that he made a thorough investigation of Knox's death and did not prefer the charge of murder against Mrs. Knox until he was convinced of her guilt. C. W. Alford, the Sheriff who arrested Mrs. Knox as his last official act before retiring from office, likewise feels sure of his ground as a consequence of two months' investigation at Hemphill and elsewhere.

State authorities intimate that they will prove two letters figuring in the case, the missives found after Mr. Knox's death and purported to have been written by him, were not the work of the lumber millionaire. These letters ar said to be typewritten, while it is said that Knox never was known to touch a finger to a typewriter. The letters are said to intimate that the millionaire lumberman had become despondent over financial reverses and ill health and "had decided to end it all." One letter of this nature was to Knox's mother, a resident of Dallas; the other was to one of his attorneys of this city.

In other respects, also, according to the same authorities, they show evidence of not having been written or dictated by Knox.

An effort will be made to show that Knox did not die at his home, but elsewhere, after which his body was taken home.

Prominent Man Sought.

Beaumont police today are looking for a man widely known here and at Hemphill in connection with the Knox case, according to reports at headquarters. The identity of this man, if known to the police, is being kept secret, but he is said to be a member of one of the foremost families in Southeast Texas and widely known throughout this section. This man is said to have been known to be friendly with Mrs. Knox. Whether the authorities connect him with the death of Knox probably will be brought out at the hearing tomorrow.

Several other men also are being sought here, ostensibly in connection with the case, although the police refuse to give information. One or two women also are wanted, according to reports from Hemphill tonight.

Mrs. Knox's attorneys today said they would not attempt to offer evidence at tomorrow's hearing. They expressed confidence that the State would fail to offer evidence sufficient to warrant holding their client on the murder charge.

Mrs. Knox formerly was a school teacher, and since her marriage to Knox several years ago she has been noted for the lavishness of her entertainments, both at Hemphill and in this city, as well as in New Orleans and Houston. She long since endeared herself to all of Hemphill because of her bountiful expenditures of money for the families of the Knox employes, who constitute the majority of Hemphill's populace.

Mrs. Knox was said to have managed her aged husband's business interests for years, as he cared little for business and preferred hunting and shooting.

The murdered man, Hiram Knox, inherited a $10,000,000 business from his father, a pioneer East Texas sawmill and timber owner. A first wife and a son of that marriage both are dead, but several children were born to Knox and his second wife, who is now accused of his murder.

RITCHIE REFUSES TO GIVE UP M'KOIN

PHYSICIAN WOULD RETURN

But Insists Baltimore Charges Shall Be Dropped—Martial Law Likely in Morehouse County.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2. — Governor Ritchie of Maryland today informed Governor Parker of Louisiana that the requisition papers for Dr. E. M. McKoin, charged with being one of the slayers of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards at Mer Rouge, La., on Aug. 24 last, were not sufficient for the prisoner's extradition for the reason that the affidavits, charging the physician with murder, are made on information and belief and not by any one who had any personal knowledge of the alleged crime.

If Governor Parker was willing to release Dr. McKoin the physician wanted to leave Baltimore tomorrow, Governor Ritchie said in his dispatch.

If the case came to trial before Governor Ritchie, the Maryland Executive told Governor Parker, his decision would be against granting requisition at this time, but he would hold Dr. McKoin for a reasonable time so that the Louisiana authorities might submit competent affidavits.

Dr. McKoin, Governor Ritchie said, while insisting on his extradition rights, nevertheless was quite willing to return to Louisiana voluntarily, but would not do so until released by the Baltimore authorities.

"Will you consent to his release so that he may return to Louisiana and will you authorise your deputy officers to accompany him there?", Governor Ritchie asked. "If you are willing to do this, he wants to leave tomorrow."

"After examining the requisition papers in the McKoin case I do not think that they are sufficient for the reason that the affidavits are made on information and belief and not by any one who has any personal knowledge of the alleged crime. Both the law and practice are clear in requiring this.

"If the case comes to trial before me, my decision will accordingly be not to grant requisition at this time, but I will hold McKoin for a reasonable time in order to give Louisiana authorities the opportunity to submit competent affidavits. Dr. McKoin, while insisting on his extradition rights, nevertheless advises me through his counsel that he is quite willing to return to Louisiana voluntarily, but he cannot do so until he is released by the court.

"He would like your deputy officers to accompany him back to Louisiana. Will you consent to his release so that he may return to Louisiana and will you authorize your deputy officers to accompany him there? If you are willing to do this he wants to leave tomorrow.

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 2.—Governor Parker at 8 o'clock tonight had failed to receive any message from Governor Ritchie of Maryland regarding Dr. McKoin's reported agreement to return to Louisiana on condition that the charges made against him there be dropped. He refused to comment on the Maryland Executive's remarks about the affidavit on which McKoin's return was asked.

Parker May Declare Martial Law.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2.—Martial law will probably be declared tomorrow in Morehouse County, Louisiana, to insure the protection of witnesses and the maintenance of order at the open hearing at Bastrop on Friday into the murders of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards. "Jeff" Burnett, charged with being one of the slayers of the two men, will appear at this hearing, and there have been reports, following the disappearance of one of the witnesses against him, Harold Teegerstrom, that violence might be attempted at the hearing by foes of the prosecution.

Resolved to take no chances, Governor Parker today ordered sent to Bastrop Troop A of the 108th Cavalry, stationed at Jennings. With this troop there are now practically surrounding the Bastrop Court House four State militia units.

Adjutant General Toombs left here tonight to take personal charge of the situation. He admitted that information has been received that conditions were so serious in Morehouse Parish that it was believed that a declaration of martial law had been decided on. It is known that the kidnapping of Harold Teegerstrom aroused the Governor and the other officials connected with the State's case.

At the Attorney General's office tonight it was explained that if the Governor proclaimed martial law in the Morehouse Parish district he would immediately appoint a military governor, and that Adjutant General Toombs undoubtedly would be selected for that place.

It also was hinted that the civil courts in Morehouse County would probably be exempted if the Governor proclaimed martial law, thus permitting the regular tribunals to function in the ordinary way.

Brother Says Teegerstrom Is Safe.

MONROE, La., Jan. 2.—Harold Teegerstrom, witness against "Jeff" Burnett, accused of complicity in the murders of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards, has escaped from his kidnappers and is now in hiding, according to his brother, Clarence Teegerstrom. Clarence says he expects to get in touch with Harold at any time, as he had received a message from him after his disappearance last Friday night at Snyker, saying he was safe and that he would communicate with him later. This message was sent by a friend, according to Teegerstrom, who saw Harold last Sunday.

Clarence said he was unable to confirm the report that his brother had returned to Erie, Penn., but expressed the belief that Harold had left Louisiana. He said Harold sent word to him that he was taken from the Snyker bunk house partly clothed. He slipped away from them after he had been beaten, bulldosed and nearly frozen by the cold and spent all of Friday night in an old shack. The message then related how he had found Mr. Jones and had been assisted by him.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 2.—H. H. Thom of Bessemer, Ala., a brother of Dr. K. P. Thom, who was killed by Dr. B. M. McKoin at Gallion, La., in 1916, and who asked Governor Parker of Louisiana to use his influence to have Dr. McKoin prosecuted for killing his brother, today received a reply from the Louisiana Executive thanking him for his "valuable information."

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 2.—Fire Chief Nicholas George of the Linden Fire Department was suspended today by Leon Watson, Chairman of the Fire Commission, because Chief George turned in an alarm so that the fire apparatus could pull his machine out of the mud.

According to Chairman Watson, George called headquarters and asked Fireman Ville to drive the town fire engine to the spot so that he could extricate his motor car. Ville refused. A few minutes later an alarm was sounded. When the apparatus arrived the Chief ordered the men to pull the car out of the mud.

LABOR DEPARTMENT HEAD QUITS POST

Sayer Tells Smith He Wants Him to Have Free Hand to Shape New Policies.

SENDS GOVERNOR LETTER

Commissioner Will Become Member of Industrial Surgical and Medical Service.

Henry D. Sayer announced last night that he had forwarded to Governor Smith his resignation as Industrial Commissioner and head of the State Department of Labor in the following letter:

January 2, 1923.

My Dear Governor—As I explained to you personally at our recent conference, it has for several months been my earnest desire to be relieved of the great responsibilities of administering the State Department of Labor. There did not appear, however, during that time any moment at which I could in justice to the department lay down the burden which I was carrying or when I could permit my personal desires to take precedence over my official obligations.

I feel, however, that the time has now come when in fairness to you I should step aside and permit you to appoint a commissioner of your own selection to carry out your ideas and policies with regard to the administration of the labor and workmen's compensation laws of this State. I have told you, however, I have no desire to embarrass you, but on the contrary wish to co-operate with you in making your administration successful so far as this department is concerned.

Accordingly I herewith tender to you my resignation as the Industrial Commissioner of the State of New York, to take effect at the close of business on Jan. 31 next or as soon thereafter as you feel you can spare my services. On that day I will have completed the original six-year term as commissioner for which I was first appointed, and I feel that I may with all propriety retire to private life and give my attention to my own private affairs that justice to myself and to my family imperatively demands.

It is needless for me to say that in the meantime and even after my resignation becomes effective I shall hold myself at your disposal to aid you in any way that you may desire.

With expressions of my highest regard and with every wish for the success of your administration, I am, HENRY D. SAYRE.

Speaking of his resignation, Commissioner Sayer said:

"On the first of February I will have completed the original six-year term as Industrial Commissioner to which I was appointed by Governor Whitman. For two years before that I was Secretary of the former Industrial Commission. I feel that the eight years I have spent in the active administrative work of the Labor Department entitle me to now consider somewhat my own personal desires and interests. Moreover, I feel that Governor Smith should be given a perfectly free hand to carry out in the Labor Department the promises made by him in the campaign. Accordingly, I have tendered to Governor Smith my resignation to take effect on Jan. 31. In the meantime, I shall continue to act as commissioner and keep the department properly functioning.

"I have greatly enjoyed my work in the department. I have had the confidence of three Governors, four years under Governor Whitman and two years each under Governor Smith and Governor Miller. It has been a great privilege have served under such Governors and to have been able in some measure to have contributed to the benefit of mankind in the administration of these great humanitarian laws.

GERMAN AIRMEN FOUND WELCOME IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The three German aviators who arrived at Croydon yesterday, completing the first German aerial flight to England since the war, were pleasantly surprised at the reception given them. O. J. Merkel, President of the German Aero Union, one of them, said:

"As we approached the British shores we were somewhat apprehensive as to what our reception would be, but this, to our amazement, was quickly dispelled almost as soon as we touched ground.

"Since there were no landing fields we were forced to alight in an open field, and, it being Sunday, the farmers and their wives and children began gathering around us to see the machine and talk to us before we scarcely realized we were on foreign soil. One farmer invited us to tea, at which there was a large gathering of hospitable English folk.

He frankly admitted that they had flown over with the intention of arranging a London-Berlin service on a purely commercial basis, but said that, even if they succeeded or failed this time, he was sure their trip marked the beginning of more cordial relations between the two countries and a definite movement to develop international commercial flying on an equal and competitive basis.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Uncertainty of price movements characterized yesterday's outlook in security dealings to a certain degree of buoyancy which was a feature of the closing markets of 1922. In the case of stocks there was a decided upturn at the opening, with a decline in values later on and the bond market, while showing some degree of strength, was not particularly representative of that investment demand which so frequently is mentioned in connection with the turn of the year. The foreign exchanges were strong but in the commodities markets there was weakness, both grain and cotton going to lower levels. There was little in the news developments to account for the irregularity that existed, and particularly was this true with relation to domestic markets. The foreign exchanges to some extent were ruled by the prospect of developments abroad such as might come to light as a result of the deliberations of the conference of Premiers at Paris. On the whole, however, it was clear that the markets were drifting, awaiting some definite indication to determine the course of prices.

In the stock market a strong opening gave hope for a continuation of the upturn in prices but it soon became evident that the market was being called upon to face heavy realising sales. Not a few of those who garnered profits in the upturn of last year were disinclined to take the monetary value of those profits in definite form for the reason that taxation would impose a heavy burden. Thus there was a measure of selling to be observed in yesterday's market, which acted as a weight upon prices and which nullified such buying for long account as developed as a result of the optimistic forecasts in business and finance regarding future months. So far as the technical position of the market was concerned, however, this selling probably improved the situation materially and there is no denying that Wall Street throughout yesterday's transactions was inclined to the favorable rather than the unfavorable outlook.

The movement of grain prices was quite in accord with the character of cables from abroad. It has been the record of the grain market during recent months that a disturbed European situation acted as the signal for speculative buying in anticipation of such demand as might arise under the exigencies of serious difficulties, even though such difficulties might fall short of an actual resort to arms. Thus, when it became apparent yesterday that there might be a smoothing out of the European situation, there was a reaction in grain prices such as has taken place on every previous occasion of the kind.

The foreign exchanges were strong, probably as a reflection of the renewal of conferences between the Premiers at Paris. There was an optimistic tone in such cables as came to hand and while some of the proposals were drastic, there was a disposition to believe that this reassembling of the conference might bring about some definite plan acceptable to all, which would prove a stabilizing influence to the European situation. Undoubtedly, the optimism was to a certain degree built upon intangible hopes, but the very fact that confidence existed was a consideration of no mean significance. It remains to be seen what the conference will actually accomplish; it remains to be seen whether France will consent to any such plan as that which was voiced yesterday by Bonar Law for a scaling down of German reparations. And in the final analysis, it is the attitude of France which bears a direct relationship to the measure of success which the conference may achieve. Sterling advanced to $4.04¾ yesterday and closed only slightly under this figure, for a gain of 1 cent, as compared with the close on Saturday. French francs were strong and the same was true of exchange on Rome. The rate on Stockholm went to a high of 27.06, which surpassed the high point of last year.

TUESDAY, JAN. 2, 1923.

Money on call on Stock Exchange ruled easy, demand light; day's minimum of 6 per cent., which came after opening, and renewal at 6 per cent., being a full 1 per cent. under Friday's final. Time money was quiet and without change in quotation of 4¾@5 per cent. Commercial paper brokers reported active market, interior banks the chief purchasers, and little keen competition, with broadening distribution at 4½ per cent. for choice names, less well known at 4¾.

TRANSFER TANK CAR ORDER.

American Car & Foundry Co. Takes Over Contract for 500.

The order for 500 tank cars recently placed by the Union Tank Car Company with the General American Tank Car Company has been cancelled by consent of both companies. The reason for cancellation was not made public yesterday, but in Wall Street it was understood that the cancellation had to do with the question of delivery of the new cars. The order, in turn, was placed with the American Car and Foundry Company.

The contract was part of an order for 5,000 cars placed by the Union Tank Car Company in the closing months of 1922. As a result of the cancellation of the order with the General American Tank Car Company, the American Car and Foundry Company will deliver 1,000 cars of the total, the Standard Steel Car Company 1,000 and the Canadian Steel Company 500.

Municipal Bonds

Recent agitation to remove the tax exempt feature from future issues of state and city obligations, is a factor causing strength in many outstanding issues of this class.

The supply of tax free issues in the market has decreased materially during the past few months and this is being reflected in gradually rising prices for municipal securities.

$5,000,000 FOR LAND BANK

Obligations Redeemable in 1932—Louisiana & Northwest Has 7.90 Per Cent. Stock.

An issue of $13,500,000 International-Great Northern Railroad Company first mortgage thirty-year 6 per cent. gold bonds, Series A, due July 1, 1952, is offered for subscription, today at 97 by Speyer & Co. and J. & W. Seligman & Co. At this price they yield 6.20 per cent. The bonds are a part of a total authorized issued limited to $40,000,000, of which $20,000,000 has been issued and are outstanding to the extent of approximately $16,000 per mile of road.

"The total annual fixed interest charges of the new company are $1,170,000, a reduction of more than 25 per cent., as compared with the charges of the old company. As a result of operating policies and economies now being instituted by the new management, it is estimated that for the years 1923 to 1925, inclusive, the net income available for interest should amount to at least $3,000,000 per year.

"During the receivership over $5,000,000 was expended on the property for additions and betterments, and the new company, on Dec. 1, 1922, had available a working fund of more than $4,000,000 in cash.

"The bonds are redeemable at 107½ and interest as a whole on any interest date, upon sixty days' prior notice, and will be issued as coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, with privileges of registration. Temporary certificates for bonds of Series A are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

"The issuance of these bonds has been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission and by the Railroad Commission of Texas.

"The St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company has contracted to purchase the entire capital stock of the International-Great Northern Railroad Company, subject to the approval of its stockholders and of the Interstate Commerce Commission."

An offering of $5,000,000 Southern Minnesota Joint Bonds Land Bank 5 per cent. farm loan bonds is being made by Dillon, Read & Co. and the Northern Trust Company of Chicago. They are redeemable as a whole, or in part by lot, on Nov. 1, 1932, or on any interest date thereafter, at par.

FAILURES IN 1922 MADE HIGH RECORD

Total of 22,400 Suspensions of Mercantile Firms the Largest in the Country's History.

LIABILITIES $646,955,633

Business failures in the United States in 1922 were the most numerous in the history of the country, according to the records compiled by Bradstreet's. The liabilities were the second largest on record. Suspension of mercantile firms numbered 22,400, an increase of 11.9 per cent. over 1921, and an increase of 164 per cent. over 1920. Liabilities aggregated $646,955,633, or 14 per cent. less than in 1921, but 51 per cent. in excess of 1920. Assets of the suspended firms last year totaled $364,052,438, or only 56.3 per cent. of liabilities.

Bradstreet's review says:

"The number in business in 1922 in the United States was 2,074,617, a gain of 1.2 per cent. over 1921, but as failures increased 11.9 per cent., the proportion of those failing to those in business rose to 1.08 per cent., as against ninety-seven hundredths of 1 per cent. in 1921, forty-three hundredths of 1 per cent. in 1920, and twenty-nine hundredths of 1 per cent. in 1919, the latter the lowest percentage ever recorded since compilations of failures were begun.

"In 1922 the Southern States, with 6,483 failures, 24 per cent. of all in the country, led in the list of casualties, as indeed they did in 1921, when they reported 6,161 failures, or 28 per cent. of casualties. The Middle Atlantic States, with $178,515,125, or 25 per cent. of all liabilities, led in the total of failure damage, but whereas every group of States showed more failures than the year before, the Western group, with $156,137,576, or 24 per cent. of all liabilities, alone showed an increase in this direction over 1921."

New England	5.3	50.7
Middle Atlantic	10.3	12.0

URGES 30,368 TRUSTS RETURNED TO ALIENS

Enemy Property Custodian Wants Funds Under $10,000 Given Back to Germans.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—In presenting his annual report to President Harding today Colonel Thomas W. Miller, Alien Property Custodian, strongly urged the enactment of legislation to return all alien trusts of the value of $10,000 and under. He estimated that there were 30,368 such trusts and the amount involved was $44,362,002.

A bill to carry out this plan has been introduced in the House by Representative Winslow of Massachusetts. It is expected that it will be reported to the House shortly and enacted before this Congress expires on March 4. It has the approval of the President.

"The legislative status of the Alien Property Custodian has not changed during the last year. There is pending in Congress a bill which, if enacted a law, will enable the office to return all property in trusts of the value of $10,000 and under, and in those trusts which exceed in value this sume the return of an amount not to exceed $10,000 is provided. If enacted into law, this will enable the Custodian's office to divorce itself of approximately 98 per cent. of the smaller trusts handled by the office and will not depreciate the total value of the property in excess of approximately $50,000,000.

"The original Trading With the Enemy act provides that this property shall be held until after the war and until such time as Congress directs disposition thereof. Section 5 of the peace resolution approved July 2, 1921, provides in effect that this property shall be retained until such time as the former enemy Governments have made satisfactory provision for the settlement of claims of American citizens against the former enemy Governments.

"Having in mind these two provisions, this office has recommended in a public hearing before the proper Congressional committee that legislation be enacted as indicated above, which is a preliminary step in the ultimate return of all this property, bearing in mind the time-honored principle that private property of citizens is not to be utilized for the payment of national debts. If the legislation suggested is enacted into law, there will be ample property left properly to guarantee the settlement of American claims in accordance with the terms of the peace resolution.

"There were pending at the close of 1922, 198 suits against the Alien Property Custodian, filed under Section 9 for the recovery of property where claims have been disallowed. There is a Government suit against the Chemical Foundation, Inc., for the return of all patents, trademarks, copyrights, labels and contracts sold to them under the previous Administration, pending in the United States District Court for the district of Delaware, the suit having been filed by the Attorney General following the refusal of the Chemical Foundation, Inc., to comply with the request of the Alien Property Custodian for the surrender of this property, in accordance with President Harding's request to Custodian Miller, as of July 1, 1922.

"The management of corporations in which the Alien Property Custodian still maintains a majority interest is through a Board of Directors selected by the Alien Property Custodian, and they in turn are responsible for the operation of the property and the selection and supervision of the officials and employes. Their salaries are not paid by the United States but out of the proceeds of the corporation.

"In accordance with President Harding's ideas of economic administration the office is now being run at an annual appropriation of $280,000 as against $450,000 when first taken over in March, 1921. The work of the Washington office has increased rather than decreased, and there are the same number of properties outside of Washington to be operated and supervised as before.

"No property has been seized by the custodian since the passage of the peace resolution July 2, 1921."

When an American industry applies to us for additional capital for expansion or other purposes, our own experts make a searching investigation of the property.

If the security is adequate and the other conditions right, we put our own money into the bonds. We offer these bonds direct to you.

The bonds are secured by real or tangible property only. As serial bonds are paid off in part each year, those that remain have a steadily increasing margin of safety until the maturity of the last bond.

These bonds pay six to seven per cent interest and with our direct contact between borrower and investor we are in position to give you exact and first-hand information about every bond we offer.

We have been in this business of investment banking for more than half a century and feel sure we can be of real service to you.

Pledged as collateral for U. S. Director General of Railroads 6% Loan of $2,400,000, due March 1, 1930	2,750,000	$20,000,000

J. W. Kendrick, Esq., Chairman of the Board of Directors of International-Great Northern Railroad Company, summarizes his letter of December 29, 1922, as follows:

PROPERTY: The new International-Great Northern Railroad Company on December 1, 1922 acquired the railroad properties of the old International and Great Northern Railway Company pursuant to a Plan and Agreement of Reorganization dated June 1, 1922, and operates a total of 1,159.5 miles of road, of which 1,106 miles are owned in fee and 53.5 miles are operated under trackage rights.

Nearly 90% of the mileage is main line, a fact which gives the System substantial operating advantages because the major portion of the business, being concentrated upon main line mileage, can be handled more economically than if it were diffused over a considerable number of branch lines.

The System extends through the most densely populated section of the State of Texas and serves most of the principal cities of east and south Texas; it passes through the best cotton growing territory and carries a considerable proportion of the cotton crop. With connecting railways, the System affords the most direct route from St. Louis to Houston and to the seaboard at Galveston; also to Austin, San Antonio, and to Mexico through the important gateway of Laredo.

SECURITY: The First Mortgage Bonds are secured by a direct first mortgage upon all lines of railroad, equipment, terminals and other property, real and personal, of the Company, now owned or hereafter acquired, subject only as to after acquired property to existing liens thereon or to purchase money liens created in connection with such acquisition.

The First Mortgage Bonds are outstanding at the low rate of approximately $18,000 per mile and additional Bonds can be issued only under careful restrictions.

The property, including about $6,000,000 of net current assets, has been valued by the Railroad Commission of Texas at approximately $45,000,000, which is more than twice the amount of First Mortgage Bonds issued.

FIXED CHARGES: The total annual fixed interest charges are $1,179,000, as compared with fixed interest charges of the Old Company of $1,597,173, a reduction of $418,173, or more than 26%.

EARNINGS: The net income of the System for the year 1922 (one month estimated) available for interest, after operating expenses, taxes and rentals, amounts to approximately $1,390,000. As a result of operating policies and economies now being instituted by the new management, as stated in the letter here summarized, it is estimated that for the years 1923 to 1925, inclusive, the net income available for interest should amount to at least $3,000,000 per year.

During the receivership over $5,000,000 was expended on the property for additions and betterments with the result that the road is in good physical condition.

The New Company on December 1, 1922 had available a working fund of more than $4,000,000 in cash.

The issuance of these Bonds has been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission and by the Railroad Commission of Texas.

Temporary Certificates for Bonds of this series are listed on the New York Stock Exchange and application will be made in due course to list the definitive Bonds when ready.

Legal proceedings in connection with the issuance of these Bonds have been passed upon by Messrs. Cravath, Henderson, Leffingwell & de Gersdorff and by Messrs. Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft.

97% and accrued interest, to yield over 6.20%

The right is reserved to reject any application and also to allot a smaller amount of Bonds than applied for. Payment for Bonds allotted is to be made in New York funds on January 15, 1923, at the office of Speyer & Co., 24-26 Pine Street, New York, against delivery of Temporary Certificates, exchangeable for definitive Bonds when ready.

Speyer & Co. J. & W. Seligman & Co.

The above statements have been obtained from official and other sources which we believe to be reliable, but they are not guaranteed by us.

FORD WOULD REVIVE THE WORLD BY WORK

SAYS MONEY CANNOT DO IT

DETROIT, Jan. 2 (Associated Press). Henry Ford believes that "the one sure cure" for world unrest is "to create for every able-bodied man in the world a job of some sort," he told a delegation representing the International Labor Office of the League of Nations, whose members held a long conference with him today at his Dearborn offices.

The delegation, which came to this country recently to obtain ideas that might be introduced in other countries for the benefit of workers, is headed by Albert Thomas of France, director of the International Labor Office.

In the course of the interview M. Thomas deplored the present unstable conditions in many parts of Europe, and suggested that equalization of exchange rates might have beneficial results.

Mr. Ford replied that in his opinion the question of bringing the world back to peace and prosperity could not be solved through money, declaring his belief that the solution rested in the expansion of industry, the improvement of agricultural methods and the education of the workers of the world. He told his visitors that "all the money in the world could be dumped into the sea, and as long as men would put one stone on top of another and till their ground, they would have products to barter and exchange, and world commerce would go on without interruption."

"The solution is a job for every man," he said. "Let the people of the world once get the idea that all they need is to do a good day's work six days every week, and that in this way they can make their own prosperity, and there will be no more talk about unstable conditions, for instability will have ceased to exist."

Mr. Ford declared that one of the most urgently needed reforms facing the world pertained to the more widespread use of farm machinery. He told the delegation that "farmers everywhere" must be taught the use of machines and their economic value before lasting prosperity could come to any people.

He added that he believed that greater industry on the part of the world's people would end war.

"If every one has a job that interests him he will be too busy to think about making war," was the substance of his argument in that connection.

The delegation spent a large part of today in inspecting the Ford Motor Company plants here, some of the time being devoted to a study of the Ford Trade School, where mechanics are trained.

CALL IS POSTPONED ON MEXICAN BONDS

Provisions Have Not Yet Been Made to Handle Deposit of Securities.

FIRST PAYMENT DUE APRIL 1

There will be no immediate call for deposit of Mexican Government and railroad bonds, included in the terms of the agreement between the Mexican Government and the International Bankers Committee, signed by Minister of Finance de la Huerta for Mexico and by Thomas W. Lamont for the Bankers Committee on Mexico.

The Mexican Government has on deposit in New York approximately 17,519,000 pesos to apply on the interest of the national debt, most of which has been derived from the receipts of oil taxes. The agreement signed by Mr. de la Huerta and Mr. Lamont provided that deposits on the back interest owned by the Mexican Government should start on Jan. 2, 1923.

A member of the American section of the International Bankers Committee stated yesterday that no such call could be made until after the proper machinery to handle the deposit of the securities had been provided. Thus far, he said, this has not been accomplished and may not be for another month.

There will be a number of details to be worked out before the committee will be in a position to call for deposits of Mexican securities named in the international agreement. The first payment on the deposited bonds will fall due on April 1, 1923. The payment at that time will total between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000.

E. S. Karstedt, General Manager of the Continental Oil Company, has been elected Vice President to succeed H. T. Cleaver, who resigned Jan. 1. The Continental Company is a Standard Oil subsidiary and handles the marketing end of the business in the Rocky Mountain States. Mr. Cleaver has been connected with the company for thirty-two years. It was also announced that the company will increase the number of directors and places will be provided for William H. Ferguson, General Counsel; Percy Naylor, Traffic Manager, and James M. Hollister. Mr. Hollister will succeed Mr. Karstedt as General Manager.

An Ancient Check on "The Bank"

AT the new Uptown Branch of the Bank of New York and Trust Company, at Madison Avenue and Sixty-third Street, is a relic of old New York worth dropping in to see.

It is a check drawn by Aaron Burr in 1788 on the Bank established by his rival, Alexander Hamilton. It differs from the modern check in that the name of the bank does not appear. It is an order on "the Cashier of the Bank"; the name of the bank was not needed as The Bank of New York was the only bank in the city!

There are many other banking institutions in the New York of today, but none is better equipped to give careful attention to financial business of all kinds than the Bank of New York and Trust Company, with one hundred and thirty-nine years' experience as a Bank and ninety-three years' experience as a Trust Company.

HARDING WILL HONOR HAGUE SHIP VERDICT

OBJECTION ONLY ON FORM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Reports that the United States Government contemplated repudiating the award of the Hague arbitration against this Government with respect to Norwegian merchant vessels requisitioned for its use during our participation in the World War were denied with considerable emphasis at the White House today. It was said there that the President had not been informed of any protest by this Government in the matter, but the spokesman, whose statements were obviously authorized by the President, made it plain that the Government had no intention of seeking to avoid payment of any arbitral award.

"No instructions have gone from the President in protest against this award and none will go," said the spokesman.

"The United States is going to be a good sport under this Administration if the President has anything to say about it. When we enter into an arbitration, this Government, as far as the President is concerned, is going to take its medicine. You can't arbitrate and kick over the bucket. The United States has no intention of welshing."

This Government, it was said, had consistently contended that international arbitral awards should be lived up to and it had no thought of changing that attitude because its own interests were unfavorably affected.

The arbitration grew out of certain requisitions made by the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation during the war. The Norwegian Government claimed compensation on behalf of Norwegian subjects in the amount of $15,000,000, while the American contention was that something in the neighborhood of $3,000,000 was rightfully due.

The Emergency Fleet Corporation requisitioned ships under construction and materials and commitments for materials appertaining thereto, while the Government of Norway maintained that the Fleet Corporation also requisitioned contracts under which ships were being constructed. This latter contention, which was vigorously denied by the United States, constituted one of the principal issues determined by the tribunal.

When the arbitral award was made at The Hague on Oct. 12, Chandler P. Anderson, the American arbitrator, absented himself from the hearing, and through William C. Dennis, the American agent, communicated to the Secretary General of the tribunal his opinion that the terms of the submission had been violated and that the tribunal had exceeded its jurisdiction as outlined by the special agreement under which the shipping dispute was submitted to arbitration. Notice was served at the same time by Mr. Dennis that he reserved for his Government all the rights "arising out of the plain and manifest departure of the award from the terms of submission and from the essential error by which it is invalidated."

The reference made by the White House spokesman to the insistence by this Government that other live up to arbitral awards was understood to have to do with the attitude taken by the Department of State toward the boundary dispute between Costa Rica and Panama. In that case the dispute was left to Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme Court as arbiter, who decided in favor of Costa Rica. The Panama Government refused to accept the award on the ground that Chief Justice White had exceeded his authority but after pressure from the United States Government acceded.

SPECULATORS SELL OUT LONG COTTON

Liquidation of speculative holdings occurred in both the grain and cotton markets yesterday. It was conservatively estimated that 75,000 to 100,000 bales of cotton were distributed during the day, representing lines accumulated several weeks ago at lower figures. Wall Street and Western speculators have been interested in both commodities and evidently concluded to realize profits while the demand was broad enough to absorb the selling. Though an opening rise occurred, prices broke $3 a bale, bringing May below 26½ cents before the market steadied. Trade interests became extremely active in calling cotton on a more favorable basis, bringing about a 25 point recovery in late dealings. Quotations were 17 points lower to 2 higher on the day.

A sharp advance in Liverpool started the local level 25 to 30 points up, May touching 27 cents on the call. Strength abroad enabled houses with a straddle interest between the two exchanges to buy here and sell in Liverpool at an advantage. This brought heavy buying for several days, and this inspired room traders with a considerable degree of caution. When Liverpool closed, there was not the buying power to take care of commission house and speculative liquidation. Prices suddenly began to lose ground, running into stop loss orders which precipitated a running decline. May broke through 26½ cents to 26.40, with March off 60 points as well. Below 26½ trade calling similar to that which developed last week halted the decline.

Large blocks of cotton appeared from time to time, orders being for the sale of 5,000 bales and 10,000 bales at a clip. New low levels were reached during the afternoon as cotton continued to appear in the ring. Reports from Chicago of a similar liquidating movement in wheat, with a severe break in prices, were taken to indicate an intimate connection between operations in the two markets. Both wheat and cotton had moved upward with a conspicuous degree of uniformity and gossip had identified Western and Wall Street operations in both commodities. The buying occurred on an extensive scale a few weeks ago, generally believed to be based on the theory that an important change of attitude was impending in Washington. Now that European conferences are on, with the probable day to day rumors of success or failure impending, larger holders have been reducing their lines. As January is normally a somewhat reactionary month and many markets which have advanced during the Fall have culminated about this season of the year, an element of speculative uncertainty has been injected into the situation entirely unconnected with European development. Some of the most important cotton houses are awaiting indications as to the probable demand, the coming few weeks which tended to cause a disposition to await rather than anticipate developments.

Not only was there less swallowing the last hour but a resumption of arbitrage buying of cotton to be sold in Liverpool tomorrow had a strengthening effect near the close. Considering the quantity of contracts distributed during the session, the fact that May ended the day within five points of Friday indicated a remarkable degree of resistance to selling pressure.

WHEAT BEGINS YEAR WITH A HEAVY DROP

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 2.—Liquidation was on in volume in all grains, the selling being persistent from start to finish. Highest prices were made early and the lowest toward the last, with the finish at net losses of 3¾@4¼ cents on wheat, 2¼@2⅝ cents on corn, 1½@1¾ cents oats and 2½ cents on rye.

The buying was mainly on resting orders by shorts and by local traders who were playing for a reaction, but the rallies were not large and were short lived with the close within a fraction of the bottom.

A majority of the local element were short at the last and, in the past few days, a large short interest has built up. News attracts little attention. An increase of 2,298,000 bushels in the visible supply swelled the total to 37,673,000 bushels, compared with 35,373,000 the previous week and 49,468,000 last year.

Cash wheat was 5@10 cents lower as compared with Saturday, due largely to a readjustment in trading from a December to a May basis. No. 2 hard sold at ½@1 cent under the future. Export demand was fair, with 700,000 bushels, Manitoba hard Winter and Durums sold abroad, mainly Canadian.

Oats reflected the action of other grains. Houses with Northwestern connections sold rye persistently throughout the day. The visible supply of corn increased 1,972,000 bushels(and is 16,670,000 bushels, against 14,788,000 bushels the previous week and 23,279,000 last year.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 2,060,000 bushels; week ago, 4,475,000; last year, 806,000. Shipments were 771,000 bushels; week ago, 924,000; last year, 278,000.

Corn receipts were 1,980,000 bushels; week ago, 2,924,000; last year, 1,634,000, and shipments, 924,000 bushels; week ago, 553,000; last year, 672,000.

ECONOMY AIDS BRITAIN.

An improvement of £76,087,856 in the position of the British Treasury at the end of the year 1922, compared with the close of 1921, is indicated in a cable received yesterday by the Bankers Trust Company from its English Information Service.

Receipts of the British Treasury from revenue in the fiscal period from April 1 to Dec. 30, 1922, amounted to £585,562,730, while Government expenditures chargeable to revenue amounted to £672,024,460, leaving a surplus of £12,928,270.

In the corresponding period of 1921 British Government expenditures exceeded the revenue by £88,159,286. The progress of the Government's movement for greater economy in national expenditure is apparent from the fact that expenditures in the April-December period of 1922 was £167,256,146 less than the amount spent in the same period of 1921.

Receipts from revenue in the above nine months of the present British fiscal year equaled 64 per cent. of the budget estimates, whereas in the same nine months of 1921 the receipts amounted to only 56 per cent. of the estimates.

TWO ROADS MAY BE SOLD

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 2.—It is reported in banking circles here today that two of the Pennsylvania Railroad's subsidiary lines covering the eastern shore of Maryland, the Maryland, Delaware & Virginia Railroad and the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railroad, will be sold under foreclosure proceedings before Spring. As ther seems to be no other likely bidder, and as the Pennsylvania could not afford to have either of these roads pass into other hands, the Pennsylvania itself will probably be purchaser.

Both subsidiaries have steadily been going from bad to worse and have no future in their present status, it is said. As parts of the Pennsylvania System they are regarded as good "feeders," but the cream of their profits go to the controlling road, according to railroad men.

Directors of the subsidiaries admit that the controlling company is working on plans for foreclosing the mortgages on the two roads, but as most of these Directors are merely representatives of the Pennsylvania, they refer inquiries to Pennsylvania officials. It is known that the latter have been holding conferences with the subsidiary Directors.

CHICAGO BANKING CHANGE.

Foreman Brothers Will Soon Launch Two Financial Institutions.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Foreman Brothers, for several decades bankers in Chicago, announce that their present interests will on or about May 1 be organized into the Foreman National Bank and the Foreman Trust and Savings Bank. The announcement came as a surprise to Lasalle Street and financial circles in this city.

According to Oscar Foreman, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the present banking company, the combined capital, surplus and undivided profits of the new institutions will exceed $6,000,000. The management and the ownership of both banks, national and State, will be identical with that of the present Forman Brothers Banking Company.

The Foreman Brothers began their banking business in Chicago in 1862 with a small private bank. Harold E. Foreman is now President of the company. The present deposits are said to be more than $50,000,000.

Review and Forecast

FOR MANY YEARS PAST we have issued this annual review and forecast, which is recognized by the American public as an authoritative interpretation of the business and financial situation and outlook. In past years Mr. Moody's views have proved exceptionally accurate and far-sighted, and we believe that his deductions in regard to 1923 will be found equally correct.

NO LICENSE PLATES; SUMMON THOUSANDS

POLICE IN RECORD ROUND-UP

Bureau Swamped as 125,000 Are Rated Delinquent—50,137 Paid $414,207 in Fines in 1922.

Thousands of automobile owners who had been under the impression that a few days of grace would be allowed to get 1923 license plates discovered they were mistaken yesterday when policemen all over the city halted those displaying 1922 licenses and issued summonses requiring them to explain in court their failure to comply with the law.

No compilation of the number of summonses issued was made at Police Headquarters, but the total was estimated as sufficient to congest the Traffic and Magistrates' Courts for a week. The traffic and motorcycle policemen worked all day checking up on automobile licenses, but many of the summonses were issued by the patrolmen.

The police campaign, generally unexpected, was said to have been caused by a letter to Police Commissioner Enright from the State Tax Department, calling his attention to the law and requesting its enforcement. A copy of this letter was sent to each police precinct and read to the members of each outgoing platoon.

More than 400 summonses were said to have been issued in the Bronx alone, and the number issued in Manhattan and Brooklyn, where the summonses are returnable at the Traffic Courts, is believed to have been greater. They are returnable at the regular Magistrates' Courts in the other boroughs of the city.

An official of the Motor Vehicle Bureau, 127 West Sixty-fifth, estimated that about 125,000 automobile owners in New York City had not obtained their 1923 plates and were liable to receive summonses. Although an "after-the-last-minute" rush swamped the employes of the bureau and many applicants were turned away at night, this official added that there would be no time extension for delinquents. He estimated that the number of automobiles in New York City was about 600,000 and that the owners of at least 25 per cent. of them had not obtained their licenses for this year.

"It's bad enough," said this official, "but it might be worse. Many of these unlicensed machines have been stored for the Winter. Still, that doesn't alter the fact that the streets are full of drivers who are operating cars bearing 1922 plates in violation of this law.

"What are the police doing? I do not know. It's certain that they can't arrest and summon every one of these violators, but I hope every patrolman does his best. Ever since November we have been warning people and the newspapers have been warning them to hurry and get the applications in, and what is the result? It has seemed during the last few days that every man in New York came to our offices expecting and demanding that he get his license to drive and license plate immediately."

Extra Policemen on Duty.

The line that stood firmly though wearily on the stairs outside the bureau all day yesterday verified the official's statement. Extra policemen were on duty at every entrance. All sorts of efforts were tried to reach the head of the line, and John T. McNeill, Deputy Director in charge of the Motor Vehicle Bureau of New York City, was forced to refuse himself to visitors, due to the demands made upon him.

"Every day for the last three weeks things have been getting worse and worse," said Mr. McNeill yesterday. "But today I think all previous records were broken. And, by the looks of things, it's going to be just as bad tomorrow."

The bureau kept its offices open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, but it was explained by Mr. McNeill that this did not mean that the employes finished at 4 o'clock.

"We estimate just how many we can take care of in an hour," said Mr. McNeill, "and at 4 o'clock we let this number inside the office and close the doors on the rest."

At Police Headquarters it was said patrolmen had orders to watch for 1922 license plates and to summon on sight.

Figures given out by Edward F. Fraher, chief clerk of the Traffic Court, yesterday show that in 1922 there were 50,137 cases of violation of traffic laws heard in this city, an increase of 9,308 cases over the previous high year, 1920, and 16,946 more than in 1921. Fines of $414,207 were collected and 4,088 violators received jail sentences.

In last year's list of traffic law violators, 1,939 were first offenders, 974 second offenders and 84 third offenders. There were 390 reckless drivers and 153 convicted of driving while intoxicated.

In comparison with the figures for 1922, the following totals for violations in previous years were given out: 1917, 11,906; 1918, 13,900; 1919, 26,193; 1920, 40,829; 1921, 40,191.

Magistrate Frederick B. House predicted that unless drastic action was taken to prevent law breaking the increase in violations would reach 60,000 in 1923, with more than $500,000 to be collected in fines.

DENIES PRINTING DECLINE.

Union Official Declares Demand for Fine Work Greatest in History.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 2.—The demand for fine printing is greater today than at any time in the history of the industry, according to George A. Berry, President of the International Pressmen and Assistants' Union, who issued today a statement replying to James W. Bothwell, President of the Devinne Press.

Mr. Bothwell announced the closing of the Devinne Press recently in a statement in which he said "there was no longer a great demand for fine printing, that labor unions were absolutely prohibitive of fine work, and that under their rules the worker becomes a mere machine."

"The statement of Mr. Bothwell is absolutely without foundation or fact," Mr. Berry declared. "The truth is that the demand for fine printing in America is greater today than at any time in the history of the industry, and the printing trade unions are doing more to encourage the development of finer printing today than ever in the history of the industry. This is best testified to by the fact that the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America has operated a craftsmanship for eleven years and has just determined to extend its trade school system by establishing a new number of branch schools. This effort has been made necessary because of the demand of the public for better printing and more printing.

"That we have succeeded in keeping pace with developments can be illustrated in the decision of authorities wherein it was declared the book of art printing produced in our trade school in 1922 represented the finest specimen of the printers' art ever produced in America.

"It is regrettable that the famous Devinne Press, founded by one of America's greatest printers, Theodore Low Devinne, must close, but its closing is not due to the lack of demand for good printing nor the scarcity of artisans of the highest mechanical and artistic developments."

BLACK AND WHITE TAXIS IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

As the result of an equity action, Kenneth M. Spence of 61 Wall Street was appointed receiver yesterday by Judge Knox in the Federal District Court for the Terminal & Town Taxi Corporation, operating 400 "Black & White" taxicabs in this city. The assets are placed at $300,000 and the pressing obligations at $60,000. The temporary financial embarassment of the corporation was caused by the strike of chauffeurs, which forced the company to put its cars into the garage on Nov. 17.

"Every creditor will be paid in full," declared Harry Zalkin, of counsel for the creditors. He said that the company would be reorganized and that the taxicabs, which have been laid up since the strike, would be on the street in a short time. The strike was caused by the refusal of the drivers to work on a commission basis, a practice in use by most of the large taxicab concerns. After the reorganization it is likely that the traffic rates will be reduced. It is possible also that an offer for the entire assets as a going concern may be made. The company owns a lease on the premises at 310-328 West Sixty-eighth Street, which has fifteen years to run and requires an annual payment of $19,000. The value of the lease if sold is estimated at $150,000.

The company has a contract with the New York Central and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad to enter the Grand Central Terminal. In addition the company has furniture, fixtures and other physical assets. It has bonds of $20,000 deposited with the State Industrial Commission and a bonding company to cover workmen's compensation insurance and the requirements of the recent bonding law.

BIG YEAR FOR MAIL ORDERS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Montgomery Ward & Co. did more business during the month of December, 1922, than in any previous month for nearly three years, or since March, 1920, with orders for December and for the calendar year 1922 the highest in the history of the company, even surpassing 1919, the peak of mail order business volume in this country.

The total sales for 1922 were $92,474,182 as against $75,956,649 the previous year, or an increase of over $16,500,000. The increase of 56¾ per cent. in sales during December, 1921 was the king pin of the whole year.

BROADWAY BLOCK SOLD TO INVESTOR

HELD AT ABOUT $3,500,000

The realty market made an unusually good start for the New Year yesterday, when a $3,500,000 deal on upper Broadway and a number of smaller transactions scattered throughout the city were closed.

The Broadway deal involved the Astor Court apartments, occupying the block front on the east side of Broadway, between Eighty-ninth and Ninetieth Streets, which were sold by the City Investing Company, Robert E. Dowling, President, to Benjamin Winter for investment.

Astor Court, which was built by Vincent Astor and finished in the Fall of 1916, the builder being Marc Eidlitz & Son, is thirteen stories high and has a frontage of 201 feet on Broadway and 146 feet on the streets.

The building is constructed with two wings, one on each street, allowing a court of approximately 100 by 120 feet, giving each apartment unusual light and air, with an Italian garden, which is maintained by a landscape gardener.

The structure occupies one-half of the entire block bounded by Broadway, Amsterdam Avenue and Eighty-ninth and Ninetieth Streets, which the City Investing Company purchased from Vincent Astor in March, 1922. Mr. Winter, who is one of the largest investors in apartment house property in the upper west side section, holds title to 219 West Eighty-first Street, northeast corner of Broadway; southwest corner of Eighty-second Street and Broadway, northwest corner of Eighty-seventh Street and Broadway, northwest corner of Eighty-ninth and Broadway, northwest corner of Ninety-sixth Street and West End Avenue; 410 to 417 Riverside Drive (113th and 114th Street), and Alwyn Court, Fifty-eighth Street and Seventh Avenue.

The entire property as purchased from Vincent Astor was held by the City Investing Company at $4,000,000.

Investor Buys Ivy Court.

The three six-story apartment houses at 210, 220 and 230 West 107th Street, known as the Ivy Court Apartments, have been resold by the Joseph Milner Company, as broker, to an investor who is said to be Julian Goldman. The holdings have a combined frontage of 375 feet on the south side of the street. They overlook Straus Park and were held at $1,000,000.

Cusack Company sold 604 West 191st Street, housing twenty families, for William Katz to Ballyforn Realty Company. The property rents for $14,000, and was held at $75,000.

Buying in the Suburbs.

The Navahoe Realty Company sold through H. Goldschmidt a three-story brick dwelling and garage on Central Avenue, Woodmere, L. I., to Mrs. Addie D. Well; also for Mrs. Theresa Schmand the adjoining plot to Mrs. Addie D. Well. The same broker sold for the Germin Construction Corporation a two-and-a-half-story brick dwelling and garage on Central Avenue to Mrs. Mollie Miller for occupancy; for the Navahoe Realty Company two plots in Woodmere Park, consisting of three-quarters of an acre each to a client who will improve same with dwellings; also for the Fulton Improvement Company a plot in Woodmere Park, consisting of twelve lots to a client for improvement.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold for the Scarsdale Estates a plot on Brewster Road, Greenacres, to A. M. MacKenzie of Brooklyn, who is planning the early erection of a home.

The premises at the corner of Second Avenue and Third Street, Mt. Vernon, a building consisting of eight stores, was sold for the Vogbert Realty Company of New York to Joseph Murphy Jr. This property was held at $45,000. Also the ten-room house, 110 Park Avenue, was sold for C. Diller to Wm. Steffans for occupancy. Herman Stern was the broker.

Tenement House Deals.

The five-story flat at 533 West 133d Street, on a lot 25 by 100 feet, was sold by Nellie Reilly to Bernard Levy. The selling price was $27,000. Fischer Realty Company negotiated the sale.

Morris Moore's Son sold for Samuel Schwartz to an investing client premises at 3,134 Broadway a five-story apartment on a plot 32.6 by 75 feet, renting for $7,000 and held at $45,000. The same broker recently sold the adjoining building.

Alfred Olenick resold the five-story double flat at 2,083 Madison Avenue to Taylor & Boddie, who own the adjoining two buildings at 2,085 and 2,087 Madison Avenue, the property having been purchased by Mr. Olenick from the 203 West 113th Street Corporation.

Charles W. Rosenthal sold the two five-story flats on a plot 50 by 100 feet at 45 and 47 West Sixty-sixth Street to Manning Bernard Realty Company. The property was held at $90,000.

Nathan Wilson, President of the Occidental Holding Corporation, purchased 145, 147, 149 and 151 East Thirty-second Street, 100 feet on Thirty-second Street, four and five story cold-water flats, with stores, which were held at $150,000.

The Ansorge Realty Corporation sold 1,880 East Third Street to Sylvester Mackenzie and 1,884 East Third Street to Sol Abrams. This is part of the parcel of thirty-one one family houses now under construction at Kings Highway and East Third Street.

The Realty Asociates sold the two-story brick building, 60.6 by 100, on a plot 75 by 100, at 1,075 Lafayette Avenue, west of Patchen Avenue, which building is leased to the Government Post Office Department. The purchaser was L. Cedar and the broker Lawrence Mattikow.

Irving Place Landmark Sold.

The Joseph Milner Company sold to an investing client for Willard Church the northwest corner of Seventeenth Street and Irving Place, which comprises 51 and 53 Irving Place and 121 East Seventeenth Street. The property has a frontage of 53 feet on Irving Place and a depth of 100 feet, and is improved with two five-story buildings. The corner building was formerly occupied by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. This property is an old landmark on Irving Place, and has been held by the Church family for more than thirty-five years.

6,000 LOCKED OUT IN CLOTHING TRADE

Declare Workers Must Accept Wage Cut or Price for Product Be Increased.

Declaring inability to make children's clothing at present prices, contractors closed shops yesterday that had employed more than 6,000 union workers, members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. Extension of the lockout before the end of the week to include all the 10,000 workers in the New York market is predicted.

Coming at the beginning of the Spring rush, the lockout will close more than 300 shops. As soon as the lockout is completed the contractors expect to formulate their demands for better prices from the employing manufacturers and jobbers.

For some time the contractors have been threatening to bring about a lockout unless the workers accepted a wage reduction or the manufacturers increased prices. The union officials declined to consider the question of wage, but said they would arbitrate the proposal for installation of labor-saving machinery.

Sidney Hillman, President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, said that the union would take active steps to attempt to bring about an adjustment of the situation.

"We realize that the contractors are not making much of a profit," said Mr. Hillman, "but their action in declaring a lockout is unfair to the union workers. We do not want to precipitate a crisis in the New York market and want to keep the industry moving and will co-operate in every way possible to that end."

Union officials, it was learned, favor co-operating with contractors who have been receiving prices insufficient to meet their payroll and keep the shops closed until the manufacturers increase prices. Shops that can operate at a profit must be kept open, the union has decreed. Because of the lack of an organization of manufacturers the contractors are having difficulty in getting any price adjustment.

A lockout threatened in the men's clothing industry has been averted by a plan to investigate the causes of the insolvency of the contractors. Both the union and the contractors are co-operating in seeking a remedy for the situation, which threatens eventually to lock out 50,000 men's clothing workers. The joint investigation committee is to make its report within the next few weeks. Pending the result, the contractors have withheld their lockout order.

Whites and Blacks Are Kept Apart—No Trace of Negro Band That Ambushed Police.

SAPULPA, Okla., Jan. 2.—Armed guards patroled the dividing line between the white and negro sections of the city today, with orders to permit no white persons to enter the negro district and to keep the negroes in their own area. Other special deputies watched all roads in hope of catching the negroes who ambushed five policemen late last night, killing one and wounding the others.

The "dead line" was established as a precaution, the authorities explained, following a fire in the negro district which destroyed four buildings, three of them owned by "Ed" Glass, a negro who is believed to have been the leader of the attacking party. The flames started simultaneously in Glass's buildings, and while they were raging hundreds of cartridges exploded, indicating, authorities said, that ammunition was concealed in one of the buildings.

Glass is an undertaker. It is not known who his companions were. He was arrested Saturday, charged with carrying concealed weapons and was released on bond.

MANY TRY TO SAVE WARDER.

OSSINING, Jan. 2.—"Don't worry; everything will come out all right." This message was sent by Mrs. Linus Werner of Ilion, N. Y., to Rutger Warder, the young prisoner in the Sing Sing death house, who is alleged to have killed her son, Henry Werner, but who the mother believes is innocent. A new trial was refused Warder ten days ago by the Court of Appeals.

The Rev. Anthony N. Petersen, chaplain of the prison, has been informed that Mrs. Werner, with others, plans to appeal to Governor Smith to save young Warder. "I will appeal to the Governor myself, if necessary," said Dr. Petersen, "because I believe Warder is innocent."

Warder was convicted in Herkimer County of having shot Henry Werner. After his conviction he took the witness stand against Mrs. Werner, wife of the man who was shot. The jury, however, acquitted the younger Mrs. Werner. Warder was sentenced to die Jan. 24.

Aged Court Attache Retires.

John Kraebel of College Point, who has been an attache of the County and Supreme Courts in Queens for thirty years, yesterday retired on half pay. Clerks of the court presented him with a walking stick. He is 70 years old. Kraebel was an official of the old town of Flushing. His court experience consisted mainly of interpreting for persons of German descent.

FACTS about PAPER

NO. 52

The more "hard headed" a business man becomes, the less tolerant he is of correspondence that is below standard, and the easier it is for a printer to convince him that Brookdale Linen Bond Letterheads are a business asset.

Once in nine years!

If I've never made any clothes to order for you I can't expect you to get all excited because I'm moving to a new and bigger shop a few doors below.

But if you're one of the several thousand men who think I'm a good tailor after nineteen years' experience at it—if you've tried out my values by the only test worth making (the wear test)—then you may know it means an opportunity for you when I announce a removal sale—the first one in nine years—which means a saving of about 25% Suit or Overcoat—to order only

Former Prices
$65, $75, $80, $85, $90, $100

I don't want to carry over a dollar's worth of cloth in my new store at 1384 Broadway (corner 37th Street), so here goes the entire stock of heavy, medium, and light weight fancy suitings and fancy overcoatings at reductions that will clean them out in short order.

Naturally, having a reputation I'm pretty proud of, I intend to keep it. Cut in price means no change in workmanship, trimmings, or materials.

If you've worn Binsky-built clothes, I need say no more. You'll be in this week. If not, it's a particularly good chance for us to get acquainted, and for you to learn what a comfort it is to have a tailor you can rely on.

Cuticura Stops Irritation And Saves The Hair
